PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
The Rev. J. C. Christie left for Omaha last Wednesday to attend the Synod of Nebraska and there will be no preaching services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. The Sunday school will be held at the usual hour and all are cordially invited.

LUTHERAN
The regular services next Sunday morning and evening. The Luther league will be at 6:30 instead of on Wednesday evening as during the summer. The Lord's supper will be celebrated in the morning hour of worship and an opportunity will be given in the evening for those who cannot attend in the morning. The first offering of the new synodical year for benevolence will be received in the pink envelopes.

The meetings of the synod and missionary society last week were very encouraging sessions for the Lutherans. The missionary delegates, Mrs. W. H. Pletcher and Mrs. F. C. Jackson and the pastor came back full of hope and inspiration for the future. The reports to the synod were full of cheer. The church here ranks among the few of the best in the synod.

METHODIST
The Sunday school orchestra is well organized and good music will be a feature of the first fifteen minutes of the Sunday school hour.

Let every member of the church be in school Sunday morning at 9:45 sharp. Likewise all who are not attending elsewhere are cordially invited. Special service Sunday morning at 11 a. m. for the church and church people. The pastor's theme will be, "That Same Finger." The house was well filled last Sabbath and we hope every member will be present Sunday morning.

At 6:30 p. m., the Epworth league will hold its usual wide awake meeting. Splendid crowds have been in attendance at these services and you will enjoy every moment of the time during this league hour.

At 7:30 the pastor will deliver a special sermon on "The Highway of Purpose." Good music will be rendered at all services.

Prayer meeting every Wednesday evening followed by the young people's Bible study class.

Choir practice each Friday evening.

CHRISTIAN
The interest in the Evangelistic meetings at the Christian church is keeping up to a high mark despite the busy time and the many other attractions in town.

The Monday night service was a quiet devotional one. Mr. Weston spoke on "The Shepherd, the Sheep and the Sheepfold."

Tuesday night's sermon on "Drifting" was a very practical but sympathetic message showing how many who mean well just gradually begin drifting with the tide, yielding to influences and circumstances that are not good and finally find themselves as far gone they give up in despair and say it is unavailing.

Wednesday night Mr. Whiston gave his lecture sermon, "The Drama of Life." A large and attentive audience was present and although the electric lights went out several times they finally came out and stayed. Mr. Whiston in speaking of popular amusements said that according to a statement of Jane Adams of The Hull House in Chicago, 90 per cent of fallen women had taken their first downward steps as a result of the influence of the dance hall. Over 60 per cent of these women come from the supposedly higher class of society and not all from the slums as some imagine. The passion for gambling is one of the strongest and hardest to overcome. Therefore card playing, that is a training and a step toward gambling, should not be practiced by parents and taught to children unless they want their children to be overcome by this passion.

A Christian in determining whether he should take part in any questionable amusements should answer three questions, will it harm any physical body, will it harm any christian life, will it injure his christian influence? If any of these questions must be answered in the affirmative, then its wrong to do the thing in question.

It is right for christian people to have a good time, the devil has no monopoly on good times, and therefore the church should be the social center of the town and provide a clean, wholesome social life for her people young and old.

There were four additions Wednesday night, bringing the number up to 63. At the close of the service Mr. Knowles sang "The Holy City" illustrated by 18 beautiful slides. Friday night Mr. Whiston will preach on "Sowing and Reaping." The scripture; the parable of the sower will be illustrated, Saturday night the subject will be, "The Man that Jesus called down." Sunday will be another great day. An enthusiastic bible school beginning at 9:45 then at 11 o'clock Mr. Whiston will preach on "Vision and Service."

Every one is most cordially invited to come to bible school. The Sunday night subject will be a "Startling Question." Splendid music and illustrated songs every night.

Come and bring your friends.

A Double Game

By HARTY VAN AMBURG

"Mighty did this morning about a hotel waiting for something" said a man to another who occupied a chair beside him.

"Well, you really can't be about the only way to pass the time and the difficulty most parts is you have to get up a party to play."

"I couldn't do that," said the other, "for I don't have a soul a party in the town. I expected to play the bestness here today and get out the evening, but I didn't succeed."

"I know several men who have been here," said the other. "I was thinking of getting up a little game of pool this evening in my room. Besides, you or something like that."

"I wish you would let me in on it," said the party man, and the man who didn't know anybody was introduced by his friend to the others as Mr. Wheelock, the introducer's name being Jones. They sat down to play with a five-cent stake, but kept playing it till it reached a dollar. Mr. Wheelock didn't object and bet as high as any of the party, sometimes winning and sometimes losing.

It was not long before Wheelock discovered that, though he neither lost nor won much, the money he staked was gradually passing out of his hands and was supplied by new five dollar bills, all on the same bank. The fact didn't seem to surprise him, nor did he object to it. He did not even comment upon it. But Mr. Jones, from whom the bills came, remarked that he had had $1,000 paid him that afternoon at a bank and it had been given him all in these new five dollar bills on the bank from which he had received the money. This explained his having so much of it all of the same denomination.

While the game was in progress a bell boy rapped at the door and asked if Mr. Wheelock was in the room. On being told that he was he handed in a bouquet of flowers. Wheelock received the flowers with evident astonishment. When the others called him at having a sweetheart near at hand he looked embarrassed and declared that he didn't know a woman in the place, and if he had "made a mash" he was entirely unconscious of it.

"However," he said, "gentleman, I trust that you will drink to the lady, whoever she may be, with me." And, rising, he pressed the electric button and on the arrival of a waiter ordered a bottle of wine. The quaffing of wine and the game went on together after this, but none of the men present seemed to care to drink to excess. Mr. Jones, in whose room the party were, was especially abstemious, barely sipping his wine.

But Mr. Wheelock and one or two of the others having finished the bottle, the first named ordered another, and when it had been left in the room Wheelock followed the waiter out for some purpose and when he returned shut the door and turned the key unknown to the others. He then deftly slipped it up his sleeve and after removing his seat, being hidden by the table, transferred it to his pocket.

"It seems to me," remarked one of the party, "that those flowers have a very decided perfume."

"Very decided," chimed in another. "It makes me feel like turning in," said a third.

"Perhaps we'd better open a window," observed the host, "and get some air. Would you object, Mr. Wheelock?"

"Certainly not."

Jones went to a window and tried to open it. It seemed to be stuck. He went to another, which also resisted his efforts. Mr. Wheelock seemed to be intent on the cards, but his mind was on the windows. He had gained access to that very room during the day and had driven a nail into the ash of each window.

Jones turned away with a frightened look on his face. There were two games being played in his room—one by himself, the other by Mr. Wheelock. Jones staggered to the door and tried to open it. Finding it locked, he looked more frightened still.

"Some one has locked us in here," he said. "We must get out."

He caught on to the back of a chair. The perfume from the flowers was overcoming him. He returned to the window and made another effort to lift the sash. He failed and was on his way to the other window when he sank down unconscious.

Meanwhile the others of the party were also giving way to the effects of the flowers and one by one either rolled down to the floor or bent over unconscious on the table. Wheelock counteracted the fumes by holding a vial under his nose. When all except himself had succumbed he summoned a waiter and directed him to bring the police as quick as possible. They arrived in a few minutes and were much surprised at the scene before them. Several men asleep and money in heaps on the table.
