Nordgren Celebrates.

Arvid Nordgren, who brought suit against Harry Dixon for damages in the sum of $17,000, and was given a judgment of $750, by the district court jury Monday, was arrested Tuesday evening on the charge of being drunk and disorderly and lodged in jail. It is presumed that the judgment awarded him was responsible for the conduct that landed him in jail, but his celebration was somewhat premature, as it is the announced intention of Mr. Dixon to appeal the case to the higher court on the grounds that the evidence in the case did not warrant the verdict. This writer did not hear the testimony in the case, but he is told by some of those who were present that the accident was due to the negligence of Nordgren rather than to the carelessness of Dixon, and that the injuries received by Nordgren were greatly magnified by him, and so proven by the physicians who examined the arm claimed to be so seriously injured.
