Quality is Economy

Pure Foods cost more than the neatly labeled impure ones, but they are many times worth it.

Quality, taste and purity, not pride and aspiration are the chief factors which make up the measureless volumes of modern industry—and by the expenditure of millions for better and purer foods the world is gradually being redeemed.

It is the neat labels which give attractiveness to the cheap and impure food products—but Purity spells Economy in the end.

Lierk-Sandall Co's goods are not temporary shines they have the quality and the skill and the time put into them by which they can justify the keenest patronage for Quality and Economy.
