How to Bankrupt the Doctors.

A prominent New York physician says, "If it were not for the thin stockings and thin soled shoes worn by women the doctors would probably be bankrupt." When you contract a cold do not wait for it to develop into pneumonia but treat it at once. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is intended especially for coughs and colds, and has won a wide reputation by its cures of these diseases. It is most effectual and it is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers.

City Council Meets.

The city council met in regular session Tuesday evening in the library building. Much routine business was acted upon and the bill of the electric company paid after a reduction of the amount for lights that were not burning all the time.

Attorney Albert Muldon and Assistant Superintendent Geo. R. Smith appeared before the council in behalf of the Union Pacific company regarding the whistling ordinance. The ordinance had been vetoed by the mayor and was dropped last night on condition that the matter be taken up with headquarters and the company instruct the engineers to be more careful.

John Ritzner and Ralph Garman appeared before the council in regard to the ordinance recently passed regulating picture shows. Their chief objection was the limiting of selling seats, and the matter was referred to the ordinance committee to look up the ordinance and revise it if need be.

Jed Mooney Released.

The case of State vs Jed Mooney, charged with cattle stealing was finished up in the county court Tuesday afternoon and Judge Grant dismissed the case on the grounds that Mooney did not take the steer with the felonious intent of keeping it. Several witnesses for both sides were heard.

It seems that one of a bunch of steers which Mooney was feeding had strayed away and joined Nesckett's herd and that Mooney went after it but got the wrong steer. When he discovered that he had the wrong one he decided to call it a trade and branded the steer that he had brought home. He left word with Heskett's men where he was taking the steer and told them that he would not leave until the next morning and the suit was the result. Heskett is a resident of Lincoln county, but Mooney lives over the line in McPherson county.

Orders for Change of Rates.

Official orders from Postmaster General A. S. Bursleson regarding the change of weight in the parcels post have been received by Postmaster Davis. The notice informs that on and after January 1, 1914 the limit on fourth class mail will be changed in the first zone from twenty pounds to fifty pounds, and in other zones from eleven pounds to twenty pounds.

The rates have also been materially lowered in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth zones as follows: third zone, six cents for the first pound and two cents for each additional pound or fraction; fourth zone, seven cents for the first and four cents for additional; fifth zone, eight cents for the first and six cents for each additional; sixth zone, nine cents for the first and eight cents for each additional. These rates are for packages weighing over four ounces.

Orders have also been received suspending the rule against Red Cross stamps and the like on the outside of the packages for the month of December. They will be permitted for the holiday season only. The parcels post carriers are working over time on the parcels and every train brings a big load of Christmas parcels.

California Woman Seriously Alarmed.

"A short time ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and caused me a great deal of annoyance. I would have had coughing spells and my lungs were so sore and inflamed I began to be seriously alarmed. A friend recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, saying she had used it for years. I bought a bottle and it relieved my cough the first night, and in a week I was rid of the cold and soreness of my lungs," writes Miss Marie Gerber, Sawtelle, Cal. For sale by all dealers.

Telepathy.
"Telepathy" is an instance of a new-fangled word for an old thing. Bacon called it "sympathy" between two distant minds. Ignak Walton similarly explained Dr. Dunne's vision in Paris of his wife and dead child, observing that "if two lutes are strung to an exact harmony and one is struck the other sounds." Scottish highlanders, who would have been puzzled by the word "telepathy," have long been familiar with the idea for which it stands. Andrew Lang quoted the case of a poor highland woman who wrote to her son in Glasgow, "Don't be thinking too much of us, or I shall be seeing you some evening in the byre."
My father once had a curious telepathic experience. He was dressing in his bedroom one morning when he suddenly saw the face of a Scotch servant girl, contorted with agony, in the looking glass before him. He went downstairs to the kitchen and found the girl writhing in a fit upon the floor, her face exactly as he had seen it in the mirror.—London Spectator.

Beneficial Exercise.
Exercise to be beneficial must do these things:

First.—It must slightly increase the strength and force of the heart beat, so as to improve the circulation and do away with any tendency to sluggishness.

Second.—It must slightly quicken and deepen the breathing rate so that more pure air is drawn into the lungs and less impure air is left behind.

Third.—It must stimulate into normal activity the myriads of glands in the skin whose duty it is to rid the body of a part of the poisonous substances constantly being formed within us.

Practically any exercise, if carried out with the correct degree of moderation, will accomplish these results and so deserves the term "beneficial exercise." The trouble is that indulged in past moderation almost every form of exercise can do more harm than good.—New York World.

The Greeting of Democracy.

The story that the kaiser loves most to tell his intimates, declares Mr. William Armstrong in the Woman's Magazine, concerns the visit of his brother, Prince Henry of Prussia, to America.

The incident happened just as the prince was landing at New York. Beside him on deck stood Admiral von Tirpitz. From the dock was a dense crowd. From its midst a stentorian voice called, "Henry, Henry!"

The prince did not understand that the hail was meant for him until the admiral, smiling broadly, said, "Your royal highness, I think some one wants to speak to you."

Then Prince Henry looked over toward the human megaphone, who still continued to hawl out his name. Seeing that he had caught the royal gaze, the owner of the voice shouted, "How's Bill?"

Not Sam's Fault.

Sam Snedeker, the commissary man and held in the community to be a good churchman, annoyed the minister extremely by getting up and walking out of the church while the sermon was in progress. The preacher spoke to Sam about it.

"It isn't my fault, doc," Sam protested. "It's a sort of affliction I got." The preacher told Sam he'd better see the camp doctor. A few days later the preacher met the doctor.

"Did Sam Snedeker come to you for advice?" asked the preacher.

"Yes," said the doctor, "but I told Sam I couldn't do anything for him."

"What was Sam's affliction?"

"Affliction! He didn't say anything about that. Sam said he'd been troubling you by walking in his sleep."—New York Post.

Militant Margaret.

Militant minded women were known in England before the suffragettes, one of whom lies in Henry VII's chapel—Margaret, countess of Richmond, its builder's mother, with her brass effigy by Torrignano. She hated the Turk, and she made, as Camden reports, a sporting offer to the chivalrous of her day. "On the condition that princes of Christendom would combine themselves and march against the common enemy, the Turk, she would most willingly attend them and be their laundress in the camp." That position of laundress to the crusaders would have been an easy one, for it was the fashion to make vows to change no underclothing until the holy sepulcher was regained.—Chicago News.

Labor Saving Postman.

One of the sights to be remembered in Portugal, said the Rev. H. O. Fenon, lecturing at the Royal Photographic society, was that of the postman delivering his letters among the congregation at church on Sunday, thereby saving himself many a weary walk.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Word Improve.

Improve at first meant to rebuke, to condemn or disapprove. In the French it means precisely the opposite of the English word. Milton uses it in the sense of increase. Only in the course of ages did it take on the present significance of bettering.

Unsociable.

Gabe—Smith is an unsociable cuss isn't he? Steve—Should say so. Why, that guy wouldn't even talk in his sleep.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Very True.

Do not talk about yourself in company. It can be done so much more satisfactorily after you have left.—Lippincott's.

Will and Frank Coker, of the Sutherland vicinity, were visitors to the county capital Tuesday to attend the trial of the state of Nebraska vs Jed Mooney. Mr. Heskett was the complaining witness.

1914 Will be a Good Year-- But You Must Make it So.

It is hardly reasonable to predict that this will be the best year you have known unless you are willing to exert yourself to make it so.

"Success" is strictly a home product. The market has never been glutted—the price is HARD WORK AND CLOSE ATTENTION TO BUSINESS. The price remains always the same.

Pay the price this year. Have a bank account and save your money and you will count 1914 a big year in your history.
