Others lead, we follow—just so far and no further. When my competitors begin to mark their shoe repairs in the window at big prices, I just go inside my repair shop and with a lead pencil knock the cards and spots into the times of back numbers for that fellow and beat him on his own dunghill. Great improvement in the parcel post service between here and Hershey has been made through the efforts of Postmaster Davis. The postal service has been rather poor for some time and Mr. Davis sent in a request to have one of the mail trains stop at that place to improve the service. One of the mail trains will stop there from now on and this will enable the citizens of that place to order groceries and supplies from here and have them delivered by parcels post on the same day.

Lily Langtry in Motion Pictures

Famous Star Filmed in "His Neighbor's Wife" at The Pat Thursday Afternoon and Evening.

Adding another triumph to its growing list of achievements, the Famous Players Film Company, responsible for the production of "Queen Elizabeth" with Sarah Bernhardt, "The Prisoner of Zenda" with James K. Hackett, "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" with Mrs. Fiske, has now presented Lily Langtry, universal stage favorite and world-famed as one of the greatest emotional actresses of the day, in a tense dramatic play, "His Neighbor's Wife."

The role provides her with one of the strongest characterizations of her illustrious career, and her vigorous portrayal is strengthened by a story teeming with intense suspense and appeal. "A good woman's unswerving faith in the man whose name she has taken, her courageous devotion to her husband when she learns he has been faithless, her nobility and loyalty in her willingness to sacrifice her life for his, are suggested without resorting to hysterical exaggeration, but rather by means of a careful and precise delineation. Mrs. Langtry's art makes the film preach a powerful sermon.

In the far east, in referring to the rapid change of temperature in Nebraska, they say that a chicken may attempt to cross a sloppy, muddy road, and before reaching the further side will be frozen in the mud. This, of course, is an exaggeration, yet we certainly are subject to radical changes. For instance: Saturday afternoon the temperature registered sixty; in about twelve hours it had dropped to one below zero, a fall of sixty-one degrees.

If you put $1,500 to $2,000 into a house, you would not think of letting it go without insurance. Not for even a day. You put the same amount of money in an automobile which is proven to be ten times the hazard for fire that the house is. Stop and think, and then see Temple.

CHICKEN LICE

All old chickens have lice unless regular preventive measures are used. With one application of Lee's Lice Killer I have often taken 500 or more lice by several counts from a hen whose owner thought his hens had lice. Chickens cannot do well if infested with vermin of any kind, and the easiest and best way to get rid of them is by the use of Lee's Lice Killer, a liquid. Applied under the feathers to roosts, etc., cures directly in their bodies. No fasting, dipping or greasing. Six, 40c and $1.00 cans. Sold by leading dealers. Send for latest poultry book and new pamphlets.
