Old Building Moved.

The old half-burned wood building at the corner of Sixth and Locust streets is being moved from its present location to some lots on South Locust street near the irrigation ditch. The building belongs to the Wood estate and has been in the half burned condition since the fire last fall. Besides being an eye sore to the city it was also considered dangerous to passers-by. It was purchased a short time ago by C. U. Allender, residing south of the city, and he will move it on some lots which he recently purchased and use the lumber for the construction of out buildings and rough lumber in a house. Frank Martin has the contract for the moving and work was begun yesterday of getting the building in shape for moving.

The Nebraska Central Building & Loan Association of Lincoln, Neb., has plenty of money on hand and can close loans promptly. The examiner will be here in a few days, so file your application now.

The Lexington bowlers lost to the North Platte quintette Wednesday evening by a margin of 71 points, the final score standing 2340 to 2269. The match was interesting and hard fought and Tillery and Atkinson for Lexington made high scores, but their other men fell down so low that the game went to the local men.
