A deal was consummated last week whereby the C. F. Iddings Co. purchased the north side lumber at Maxwell from the Maxwell Lumber & Grain Co. The yard was owned by an Omaha concern and was managed by C. J. Polinski. The deal involves $15,000 and was made by Dick Baker, manager of the Iddings yards in this city.

The Iddings company already owned a yard in Maxwell and there have been two yards operating for the past two years. Neither have done enough business to make any money, but by the consolidation a larger stock can be carried, expenses reduced and a fair return received from the investment.
