TRUE TO HIS LEGAL TRAINING

To Judge, the Beauty of Poetry Was Froth, and He Wanted to Get the Facts.

Richard Le Gallienne was sympathizing with a young writer whose book of poetry had been refused by 20 publishers.

"Real lovers of poetry," said Mr. Le Gallienne, "are unfortunately becoming rare. Too many people nowadays are like the judge."

"This judge was recommended by a poetic friend to read Shelley. The great man of the law said he supposed he ought to read a little poetry, and having heard so much of Shelley, he would try him."

"And what do you think of it?" said his friend to the judge after he had waded through a few pages of "Etopychidion." "Isn't it beautiful?"

"Well, well—oh, yes—I dare say it is," said the judge, "but what I want to know is, when are we going to get at the facts?"

A CLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONY.

The Rev. Edmund Heslop of Wigton, Pa., suffered from Dropsy for a year. His limbs and feet were swollen and puffed. He had heart fluttering, was dizzy and exhausted at the least exertion. Hands and feet were cold and he had such a dragging sensation across the loins that it was difficult to move.

After using 5 boxes of Dodds Kidney Pills the swelling disappeared and he felt himself again. He says he has been benefited and blessed by the use of Dodds Kidney Pills. Several months later he wrote: I have not changed my faith in your remedy since the above statement was authorized. Correspond with Rev. E. Heslop about this wonderful remedy.

Black Hole of Calcutta.

The innate corruption and depravity of human nature were perhaps never more clearly brought out than in the historic Black Hole of Calcutta. That atrocity stands unrivaled as an instance of the utmost suffering humanity can endure, passed through by a large number, yet leaving a few survivors to tell the tale. Many more have been slain or executed at one time, death being expected; but probably only safe keeping of the prisoners was intended, and only fear of breaking a despot's sleep prevented their earlier release. Yet this torture, "unequaled in history or fiction, whose record cannot be read unmoved after the lapse of a hundred and fifty years," was produced merely by crowding men together in an ill ventilated room. No fires, racks, nor scourges were needed; all that was done or required to be done was to take from each the amount of air and space to which he was accustomed, crush him into close proximity with his fellows, and the thing was accomplished.—From "A Farmer's Note Book," by C. E. D. Phelps.

Supreme Test.

"Does your husband treat you unkindly?" asked the lawyer.

"Certainly not!" said the unsubstantial woman.

"Then why do you want a divorce?"

"I don't actually want a divorce. I merely want to apply for one. Then I can judge by the kind of a fuss my husband makes whether he really cares for me or not."

FORMER LIEUTENANT BECKER GRANTED NEW TRIAL BY N. Y. COURT OF APPEALS

Prisoner Now in Tombs Awaiting Court Proceedings in His Case—Interesting Sketch of the Events Leading Up to the Killing of Herman Rosenthal and a Resume of the Incidents That Followed.

New York.—The New York court of appeals has granted former Police Lieutenant Becker a new trial and the ex-official has been transferred from the death cell at the Albany prison to the Tombs in this city.

Attorneys for Lieutenant Becker asked reversal of judgment and a new trial on the ground of more than 200 errors on the original trial of Becker and on the ground of newly discovered evidence favorable to Becker. It was alleged that the testimony of the four informers—"Bald Jack" Rose, "Bridgey" Webber, Harry Vallon and Sam Schepps, was totally false.

The conviction and sentencing to death of Becker was one of the many incidents that followed in quick fashion the murder of Herman Rosenthal. The board of aldermen, the state legislature, the Citizens' Union, the bureau of municipal research, the Rockefeller bureau of social hygiene, the district attorney's office and many private agencies conducted investigations into conditions in New York city's underworld and conditions surrounding the New York police. Grand juries returned 23 indictments, and even today the effect of the murder of Rosenthal is felt in graft exposures. The recent exposure of wire tapping graft in the police department resulted directly from the Rosenthal killing and the investigations that followed it.

Herman Rosenthal was a product of the East side. He operated the notorious Hesper club on Second avenue, for a time, and then, as he became more prosperous, moved to the Tenderloin, opening a gambling establishment in West Forty-fifth street. Through "Bald Jack" Rose, who has no more hair on his head than a billiard ball, his partner, Rosenthal became friendly with Police Lieutenant Becker, then in command of the "Strong Arm Squad" entrusted with the suppression of gambling.

According to testimony that developed later, Becker loaned Rosenthal $1,500, taking a mortgage on Rosenthal's furniture as security, thus becoming the gambler's "silent partner." Rose collected from Rosenthal Becker's share in the profits and is alleged to have collected for Becker from other gamblers who were given "protection" by the "Strong Arm Squad." Becker gave immunity from raids to Rosenthal, but there finally came a time when things commenced to be talked about and Becker was questioned at police headquarters. In order to make things look good Becker had to raid Rosenthal, and he explained it to the latter. Several fake raids were "pulled off," but when Becker finally informed Rosenthal that he would have to "stand for a pinch," the gambler objected most strenuously. He and Becker then came to an open break.

Shortly after this Rosenthal was raided by Inspector Hayes and Captain Day of the West Forty-seventh street precinct. Rosenthal believed Becker was behind it. A uniformed policeman was stationed in Rosenthal's gambling house to see that the law was not violated, with the result that Rosenthal lost many hundreds of dollars. Rosenthal tried to get warrants from a city magistrate for the arrest of Inspector Hayes and Captain Day on charges of oppression, but they were refused. Rosenthal then commenced to talk a most fatal thing for an underworld character to do. The newspapers heard of Rosenthal, and reporters went to see him. The gambler talked freely—too freely for his safety—about the police. On the morning of July 14, 1912, Rosenthal's affidavit accusing Becker was printed in full, together with Becker's denial.

A panic seized the underworld. How far would Rosenthal go? How much did he know and how much could he prove? Rosenthal seemed to think that he could prove a good deal for he went to District Attorney Whitman, not so well known then as he now is, and promising to produce legal evidence, made an appointment to meet Whitman at his home at eight o'clock on the morning of July 16. Rosenthal did not live to keep the appointment.

The news that Rosenthal was about to "squel" was flashed through the Tenderloin like wildfire. On the night of July 15 Becker was at a prize fight in Madison Square Garden—later at his home in Edgecombe avenue where it was alleged he awaited word of Rosenthal's murder. Rose was seen driving about town in a red touring car and later in a gray car. Rosenthal went to the Hotel Metropole about midnight with a party of friends. As the long hand of the clock rested on the hour a bellboy informed the gambler that a friend wanted to see him outside. Rosenthal went to the door and stepped out. As he did so four shots rang out. Rosenthal fell, and four men ran to a gray automobile at the curb, leaped in and dashed away. Pursuit was made, but the gray car soon outdistanced the others and disappeared.

District Attorney Whitman was on the scene within an hour. The police had hopelessly confused the whole matter. The only witness that could be of any practical value at the moment had been locked up in the West Forty-seventh station. He had seen the license number of the gray automobile, which the murderers had forgotten to remove. One of those little slips that so often bring criminals to justice.

William Libby, owner of the murder car, and Louis Shapiro, driver of it, were arrested that same day. Shapiro confessed that Jack Rose had hired the car. Within forty-eight hours Jack Rose took a taxicab to police headquarters and surrendered. The arrests of "Bridgey" Webber, and Harry Vallon, associates of Rose, followed in quick order. This trio saw but one chance to save themselves, and there was a neck-and-neck race to District Attorney Whitman. Rose got there first, and told the prosecutor that at Becker's command he had hired "Lefty Louie," "Gyp the Blood," "Whitey" Lewis and "Dago" Frank, East side gansters and gunmen, to assassinate Rosenthal, giving them $1,000 for the job.

The grand jury was convened hurriedly that night and on the testimony of Rose, Vallon and Webber indicted Becker, who was promptly arrested and locked up in the Tombs. He strenuously protested his innocence.

The four gunmen were arrested in the weeks that followed. "Dago" Frank was caught first. "Whitey" Lewis was captured in the Catekills, and "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie" were traced to a flat in Brooklyn where they had been "lying low." Becker went to trial first before Justice Goff, especially assigned to sit by Governor Dix. He was promptly convicted and sentenced to die December 9, 1912. The four gunmen went to trial in November, 1912, and were likewise convicted and sentenced to die in the electric chair. The informers, Rose, Webber and Vallon, were given immunity for having confessed, and were released following the convictions. Then followed the numerous investigations resulting in many indictments.

MOVIES BEAT THE CHURCHES

One Town Found in Oklahoma Giving Former $50,000 to $9,000 for Latter.

Chickasha, Okla.—That the people of Chickasha, a city of 12,000, now pays out over $50,000 per year to support its four motion picture playhouses where it supports the ministers to the extent only of $9,000 per year, is the statement of a citizen who took the trouble on a record Sunday to find the exact attendance at the 11 o'clock morning services of the nine churches and of the four playhouses of the city from 7 until 11 o'clock on the same Sunday night.

The count on this particular day showed that there were 1,245 persons from a membership of 2,700 who heard the special holiday sermons. The popularity of the motion picture has grown to such proportions in the last ten years that between 1,600 and 1,700 persons attended the "movie" theater between 7 and 11 o'clock that night. The revenue of the four houses for this three hours was approximately $170. The estimated total of maintaining the four playhouses is $61,000 a year. The total salaries of the nine ministers is slightly less than $9,000 a year.

According to the figures obtained on this particular day, the total attendance, both morning and night, at the nine preaching services of the city for the entire year is slightly more than 129,000. The total attendance at the playhouses is estimated, according to the figures obtained on this particular day, at 750,000. Each year there is some $5 spent at the picture show for each one of the 12,326 persons in this central city of Oklahoma.

TEN YEARS LUNCH BILL PAID

Head of Girls' High School of Brooklyn, New York, Satisfies Claim for $851.

Brooklyn.—Dr. William L. Felter, principal of the girls' high school in Brooklyn, has settled a suit brought against him by Clara L. Wood, who kept the restaurant in the school for many years, to recover $851 for food obtained by Doctor Felter between 1902 and 1912 and not paid for.

The plaintiff sued after the restaurant had been put in other hands. She set forth in a bill of particulars that Doctor Felter paid only $12.50 for the food he got in ten years.

CZAREVITCH AND HIS TWO SISTERS

That the young czarevitch, the heir to the Russian throne, has recovered from his serious illness is evidenced by this photograph of him, made at the winter palace of the czar. It shows the young lad, whose illness had filled the hearts of all Russians with the fear that he had not long to live, playing about in the snow. Beside him are two of his sisters, for the first time in the uniforms of their respective regiments, the Grand Duchess Tatiana, aged seventeen, at the left, and the Grand Duchess Olga, aged nineteen, at the right.

A Complete Salvation

By Rev. PARLEY E. ZARTMANN, D. D.
Secretary of Extension Department
Meady Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them.—Heb. 7:25.

That is exactly what Christ is to the believing souls he saves "completely." It is not only a fact but an assurance as well that the Jesus who is the only Saviour also is an all-sufficient Saviour. He is not only the Name, he is the all-prevailing Name. He is able to save to the uttermost; it is a complete salvation, extending to all particulars. No wonder those who put their trust in him unite in saying, Hallelujah! what a Saviour!

The Epistle to the Hebrews is a series of contrasts between the good things of Judaism and the better things of Christ. He is better than Aaron; and the new covenant than the Mosaic covenant. In the section of the Epistle where the text occurs he is set forth as the Great High Priest and certified as superior to Melchisedec and any of the Aaronic priesthood. He is the eternal one who abideth a priest forever. "This man, because he continueth ever, hath an unchangeable priesthood." The life in the power of which he ministers, and the life which he ministers, is a life that abides unchangeable. His priesthood is an everlasting one, ever living, ever active. There is never a moment in which his priestly action, his watchful care of us, his loving sympathy and succor, his working in us in the power of an endless life, is not in full operation. Therefore he can save completely.

Unto the Uttermost.

We have here the very promise we need, lest we hesitate to begin the Christian life, or having begun, faint by the way. This is not only the heart of the gospel, but also the secret of Christian perfection. The salvation wrought by Christ for us and in us is not only negative, saving us from sin, but also positive, conferring on us eternal life.

The work of Christ is set in contrast with that of the law. In verse 19 we read "for the law made nothing perfect;" but Christ saves completely. It has availed for the worst characters; the thief on the cross, Saul of Tarsus, John Bunyan, S. H. Hadley. It reaches the greatest numbers; 3,000 on the day of Pentecost, multitudes in mission fields, thousands under the preaching of Whitfield, Moody, Chapman, Sunday, and finally a nation in a day. It leaves nothing undone, it is a complete salvation. It meets the uttermost need of any man, anywhere, any time. What a word that is: What ever you need, Jesus is able.

You have doubted it; some days you think you are saved, and some days you are in despair. The real trouble is, you are leaning upon some experience, looking for the repetition of some unusual feeling, depending upon favorable circumstances. You have forgotten that manner of Saviour Jesus is—the unchanging, eternal, interceding, complete Saviour. Nothing is too hard for him. Start your thought of salvation not upon your feeling or your experience, but by apprehending what Christ really is for the human race: perfect God and perfect man; with God's love and power, with man's sympathy and experience, meeting our enemy and conquering him, and now gone into the holiest of all there to appear in the presence of God for us, ever living to intercede—his whole work appealing and availing that we may be made the righteousness of God in him. Get hold of what Christ's finished work has done for you. Regenerating, justifying, sanctifying; then remember that true faith takes what God provides, and needs no more for its ground and gladness than the fact that God said it.

I Am Included.

This complete salvation is for them that come unto God by him. You may be of the great and goodly number who receive it and rejoice in it. When the Lord said, Whosoever, he included me. John 3:16 is still true; Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today, yes, and forever; still he says: No man cometh unto the Father but by me. Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out. Still Christ is able to save unto the uttermost. What more could be done? What more could one want than a complete salvation? Believe what God says; accept what God offers. "Your sins he will more than pardon; your cares he will more than bear; your temptations he will more than overcome; your doubt he will more than dispel; your crosses he will more than carry; your perplexities he will more than resolve; your bereavements he will more than sweeten."

"Lord, I'll trust thy wondrous love, Mighty to save."

He Hadn't.
"What a debt we owe to medical science!" he said as he put down the paper.
"Good heavens!" she exclaimed. "Haven't you paid the doctor's bill yet?"
