A lightship must keep always in one particular place. Anchored to the bottom of the sea, she has her steam always up, but she never sails unless relieved by another ship so that she may put into port for repairs. And such a boat is used because a warning must be given at a place where it is impossible to build a lighthouse, and where even the clamor of a gigantic bell buoy is not sufficient to warn the navigator. No matter how fiercely the storm beats or how desperate may be the boat's plight. she must stay at her moorings. The only movement she is allowed to make under the regulations is to sink

Where Infant Death Rate Dropped 50 Per Cent

WASHINGTON.-Miss Julia C. Lathrop of Chicago, head of the children's bureau of the department of labor, has completed a report on baby-saving in New Zealand which was transmitted the other day to Secretary of Labor the Health of Women and Children, whose methods, she says, could be followed with success in this country. In a letter of transmittal, Miss Lathrop says: The infant mortality rate of New Zealand has been for some time recog-

Wilson. New Zealand was selected fant mortality rate is the lowest of any country in the world. This credit-nized as the lowest of any country in the world, and it is stated that recent further reductions are due in large measure to the activity of the society.

"As an example of its value, the consul general says that work of the society has reduced infant mortality in Dunedin, a residential city of about 60,000 inhabitants, 50 per cent during five years, from 1907 to 1912.

"Because of the absence of adequate birth and death registers in the United States, the infant death rate of this country as a whole is unknown, but some states tend to show that it is at least twice the rate in New Zealand. which the register general of that country reported in 1912 to be 51 per 1,000

New Zealand, like certain of our states, is a young and vigorous country with a scattered population and with no large cities, and there is every reason to believe that similar volunteer effort in this country would produce similar results.

"In view of the marked and growing interest in the preservation of infant health in the smaller cities and rural communities of the United States, I be lieve that the account of the methods of the New Zealand society is especially timely.

"It will be seen that public interest is strongly enlisted in its efforts. Seventy volunteer committees in as many districts maintain the educational and nursing work in connection with the central office, and the government itself assists in various ways."

Taken for Stealing; She Has $1,700 in Her Purse

Quickly glancing to the right and left, the aged woman filched a $20 shirtwaist from the counter, hastly tucked it beneath her shawl and started for the door. In an instant the officer had his hand on her shoulder and was drawing her aside.

"Put that waist back and then beat it," said he.

Then, to the detective's astonishment, the woman produced a purse and revealed $1,700. She drew out the bills and pressed them upon the officer.

"Here-take it all," she pleaded. "Take everything, only please let me go.'

Afterward he excused himself, saying that he had important business. "But you can use my big French motor," he said, pointing to a splendid $15,000 machine that stood outside. They accepted his invitation and started off.

A few hours later the Britons were speeding down a hill on the Hudson for this special study because its inriver drive. Suddenly they spied a tone cyclist toiling up the incline. He was pumping hard, but making able showing, Miss Lathrop says, is progress. As they neared him one of due to the activity of the Society for the Britishera said:

Animal Idiosyncracies,

Many are the idiosyncracies of animals. Some horses are afraid of a dog, some of a bit of paper, some of a bear, some of a car. I have known two mules to shy at a big yellow cucumber on a fence, and a cow we formerly owned could not endure to see any man's hat removed.

The oldest trick recorded of a riding animal is that of Balaam's ass, who tried to crush its rider's foot against the wall. Biting, pawing and bolting are also described in the Scriptures. A balky team figures in Esop and Chauser. That the horses of the Saracens used to shy is shown by the traditional inquiry, "If they thought King Richard was in that bush?" This same balking, or jibbing, in all its varieties is one of the most aggravating of vices .-- From "A Farmer's Note Book," by C. E. Phelps.

Osages Not Bothered by the High Cost of Living

UDGE JOHN E. SHORT of Oklahoma, who was in Washington recently, gave a little interview about the Osage Indians, which was of great interest. He prefaced the interview with remarks that the commissioner of Indian affairs, Cato Sells, is a godfather to the Indians. He then said of the Osages:

> "The high cost of living does not bother the Osages, for money is piling in to them so fast they are unable to spend their interest and royalties, to say nothing of the millions which the government is holding in trust for them. I have just been advised by wire from Pawhuska that in a sale of 12,000 acres for gas and oil leasing purposes only the Osages received a bonus in excess of $500,000, and in addition to this amount these Indians receive a royalty of one-eighth of all the oil produced and a cash price for each gas well. When it is considered that the oil production in the Osage country amounts to 1,000,000 barrels a month and the Indians receive about 15 cents on each barrel produced, this one item alone amounts to $150,000 a month, and, in addition to this, each of the 2,000 members of the tribe has $5,000 on deposit with the government for a rainy day. As the average income for each family is in excess of $2,500 a year, there is no immediate danger of the trust funds being disturbed. In addition to all this, the tribe has 1,500,000 acres of land, considerable of which has already been allotted.

While some of the Oklahoma Indians have been given a rough deal. Judge Selis is certainly looking after the Orages, and if he has his way he will make farmers out of most of them."

Spread Out His Coat and the Wind Did the Rest

S ENATOR WALSH of Montana, possessor of the finest horseshoe mustache in the senate, is a person of singular pertinacity of purpose. Should it occur to him that he had to move a red-hot stove he would move it, his friends say, even if it burned both hands off.

The verb, "to quit" is not found in his lexicon.

A number of years ago Senator Walsh and C. P. Connolly, now a magazine writer, were young lawyers together in Montana. They determined with some others, to make a bicycle tour through the Yellowstone National park. All went well until, on the return journey to Lavingston, Senator Walsh's sprocket chain was broken beyond repair. Now, the Yellowstone valley in its approaches to the town of Livingston, is noted as one of the windiest places on earth. Jim Bridger, who put the Yellowstone on the map. asserted in his time that he had seen the wind there blow the hair off a dog. and none disputed the statement. No one, in fact, disputed any of Jim's assertions, he being a handy man with a gun.

Under these circumstances, Senator Walsh announced that he didn't need the sprocket chain at all to make distance. He said that all he had to do was to sit in the seat, spread his coat and let the wind do the rest.

"And do you know," said Mr. Connolly in telling the story, "after he had fallen off ten times he still believed in his theory. We had to bind and gag him and throw him into a wagon before he would consent to proceed in any way save by wind power."
