TANGO AS CAUSE OF CRIME

Brooklyn Judge Blames Theft by Two Youths to Nights Given to Modern Dance.

In suspending sentence in the cases of two youths who had pleaded guilty to attempted grand larceny, County Judge Fawcett in Brooklyn listed "white lights and tango nights" in the catalogue of incentives to crime.

"You can't expect to dance all night," he said, "and lie abed half the day, yet always have money for your carousals, unless you steal it. And let me tell you our jails and penitentiaries are full of people with just such ideas. If your family had given you good beatings instead of money to spend, it would have been better for you."

The boys, John Colver, twenty years old, of 487 Hancock street, and Carlton Chapman, sixteen, of 362 Jefferson avenue, had been indicted for stealing money and jewelry from Adelaide Weston, keeper of a furnished room house, where they lived for a time. They belong to respective families of moderate means. Both promised the judge to go home and begin again, Chapman to return to school and Colver to work. Both wore tango pumps and silk shirts when arraigned.—New York Sun.

Puzzled the Parson.

At a marriage service performed some time ago in a little country church in Georgia, when the minister said in a solemn tone: "Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" Instead of the woman answering for herself, a gruff man's voice answered: "I will." The minister looked up very much perplexed, and paused. He repeated the sentence, and again the same gruff voice answered, "I will." Again the minister looked up surprised, not knowing what to make of it, when one of the grooms-men at the end of the row said: "She's deaf, parson, an' I'm answerin' for her."

Responsibilities.

"Didn't you ask me why I paid rent instead of owning my own home?" asked Mr. Crosslots.

"I made that inquiry," replied the real estate man.

"Well, I'll tell you. When the roof leaks or a shutter drops off it's mighty handy to be able to ask your wife not to bother you, but to go and tell her troubles to the landlord."

London Has Ambulances.

London, which has never yet had an ambulance, has at last ordered six of them, and expects them to do all the work for the entire city. In case of past accidents the policemen have had to commandeer the nearest wagon, depending on the generosity of the driver, as they were not able to offer him anything.

Putting Off.

"Pop!"

"Yes, my boy."

"What does it mean to procrastinate?"

"To put off, my son."

"Well, I just saw mamma upstairs and she was procrastinating her hair!"

ESSENTIALS FOR APPLES AND PEACHES

Wolf River Apples.

(By A. A. GULLEY, College of Agriculture, Storrs, Conn. Copyright, 1914.)

Northeastern states offer innumerable satisfactory locations for the growing of apples and peaches, and the former in most of its varieties will make a congenial home in almost any spot in which one might choose to live, except in the very mountainous districts.

In picking out land for fruit growing bear in mind that apples, pears and peaches are bulky; therefore nearness to transportation facilities is most important. On the other hand, where capital is limited, land farther from market costs less and, as far as the fruit is concerned, may be just as desirable. Wherever chosen the land should have a fair elevation, not on top of a high hill exposed to strong winds, nor yet in the bottom of a narrow valley, but gently sloping hill-sides are ideal, and the direction is of slight importance. The choice will often lie between rough or rocky fields costing but little or those much easier to cultivate and so more expensive at the start. The latter are, as a rule, cheaper to handle as time goes on, but success may be had from either. Whichever spot is chosen it should be naturally or easily drained, for water must never stand near the surface in an orchard.

The apple allows a wide latitude in the matter of soil, and some varieties will grow on almost any land strong enough to grow trees. For the varieties generally grown gravel or clay gravel soils are very satisfactory, but lighter lands are also successful when supplied with humus. The particular nature of the soil is less important than location and drainage, and many so-called run-out farms can readily be fitted for fruit growing.

The needs of the peach are quite different from the apple, and to start an orchard in a locality where the mercury drops more than 5 degrees below zero is very risky; also unless located near a large body of water that tempers the cold. Only elevated positions are safe even in favorable localities. Good air drainage must be had, hence the tops of hills or the most elevated parts of gently sloping hill-sides should be chosen. Then, too, the peach buds must be protected from sudden changes of temperature. Choice of soils is also restricted as success can only be assured where there is a natural drainage and a warm, sandy soil so congenial to the peach.

CONTROL OF GRUBS AND WIRE WORMS

Many Preventive Measures Have Proved Beneficial in Destroying Insects.

No known remedies for the control of white grubs and wire worms are satisfactory, but preventive measures, consisting of late fall plowing, and disking or harrowing, have proved beneficial in destroying the hibernating forms in the ground. Complete summer fallowing of infested fields will starve the white grubs, though preventing the growth of plant life. Hogs will also do very thorough work by rooting up the soil and destroying them.

Cutworms can be readily controlled with poison bran mash made as follows: Thoroughly mix one pound of paris green in 30 or 40 pounds of dry bran; moisten slightly with cheap, thin sirup until the mass will hold together well when pressed in the hand. Distribute this poisoned bait about plants to be protected, or sow it broadcast in gardens or fields about sunset, and exclude all poultry until after a rain to avoid danger of poisoning. The corn ear worm is a member of the cutworm group, but the poison bran mash is not effective as a control. Fall plowing and thorough cultivation is our best control in this case.

Professor Sanders especially urges that fall plowing be done wherever and whenever possible in preparing land for planting, because only by following this practice can some of our common field pests be controlled and kept below the danger point.—Wisconsin Bulletin 228.

CLEAN CULTIVATION IN THE ORCHARD

It Means Better Acquaintance With the Trees and Their Requirements.

(By F. C. SEARS, Massachusetts Experiment Station.)

Practise clean cultivation in the orchard from the beginning if possible. It means better care in so many other ways. It means better acquaintance with every tree in the orchard, and consequently better attention to its needs. In particular, it means less borers, and in localities where they are troublesome this is a very important point.

If absolutely impossible to cultivate, on account of the steepness of the land—and there undoubtedly are thousands of acres of splendid orchard land on the hillsides of New England—then practise the so-called "so-culture" method; that is, mow the grass and weeds which grow on the land, and leave them for a mulch about the trees.

Old Method of Treatment.

The application of lime to the soil is one of the oldest methods of treatment known in agriculture. It was apparently employed by the Romans 2,000 years ago. In various European countries it has been practised for many years past. In fact, in all countries where the principles of agriculture are scientifically pursued, it is recognized that the use of lime in various forms may be of immense benefit to the soil.

Sunshine is Essential.

It is essential to have sunshine to get rid of lice, and it is also necessary that the sunshine be permitted to enter the houses and dwelling places of poultry. It is a good plan, however, to have shade trees in the yard and vines growing over the fence for comfort in hot weather, and thus the fowls may rest in the cool of these without shutting out the sunshine altogether.

Affects Milk Flow.

Change in the weather, change in the feed, and cows coming into heat are some of the causes that will affect the milk flow.

REAL HOME FOR THE HOLE

Finds Secure Abiding Place After a Period of Troublous Wanderings.

Everett P. Dahlgren, the millionaire opponent of woman suffrage, said at a suffrage debate in Boston:

"I always declare that woman shouldn't enter politics till she's fulfilled all her prior duties."

"Prior duties! Prior duties!" So a young lady mocked me one day. "What do you men mean by these 'prior duties' that you're always talking about, Mr. Dahlgren?"

"So then I told the young lady this story:

"Once upon a time, I began, a little hole was born; and it looked around to see where it should take up its abode.

"It first decided on a window, but a man came straightway and put in a new pane. It next chose a chair seat, but the housewife sent for a caner, and in a jiffy a new seat was put in the chair. The hole now selected a baby's rattle, and the baby was so pleased that it began to tear the rattle to pieces, and the poor hole, half crazed with fright, had just time to escape. It threw itself, more dead than alive, into the first thing that came to hand, which happened to be the sock of a suffragist's husband.

"There, at least, the hole seems to have found a real home. Its peace has not been troubled from the beginning, six months ago."

One Hundred Years Ago.

The curious modes which women affect now began as far back as 1798, which is a period we should hardly wish to copy in most respects. A dance not at all unlike the tango was in vogue at that time, and had many exponents, who danced in loose bodices opening in a V shape from the shoulders almost to the waist. Skirts were slit and were often made of transparent gauze.

We may return to the gowns of that period, which were without waists, having simply a girde to the bust, with skirts caught up rather short in front and slightly trained at the back. In 1800 women wore sandals and bare feet. Corset belts were only about two inches wide. Some gowns were caught up to the knee with large cameos. Soon fashion overreached itself, and then came crinolines, pointed footgear and unnaturally small waists. Are we coming to this?

For the Sake of Shopping.

A few women get so much fun out of shopping that they really hope the articles they really buy won't last as long as the clerk promises, so that they can the sooner repeat the experience.

A Beginner.

"Are you a socialist?" "I am."

"What do you understand by socialism?" "I haven't got as far along as the understanding part. I picked socialism because I don't like any of the regular brands of politics."

Matter o' Money.

"So my daughter referred you to me, eh? Well, I hardly understand it. She never consults me except in a financial way."

"Well—ah—that's just it, sir."

THOUGHT SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Unionville, Mo.—"I suffered from a female trouble and I got so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without holding on to something. I had nervous spells and my fingers would cramp and my face would draw, and I could not speak, nor sleep to do any good, had no appetite, and everyone thought I would not live."

Some one advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and my doctor said he could do me no good so I told my husband he might get me a bottle and I would try it. By the time I had taken it I felt better. I continued its use, and now I am well and strong.

"I have always recommended your medicine ever since I was so wonderfully benefited by it and I hope this letter will be the means of saving some other poor woman from suffering."—Mrs. MARTHA SEAVEY, Box 1144, Unionville, Missouri.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
