

FURNAS COUNTY APPEALS CASE.

Supreme Court to Decide Placing of Game License Money.

The Furnas county suit instituted to test the right of the state to place game license money in the state school fund has been appealed to the supreme court. John Stevens, a taxpayer of Furnas county, instituted an injunction suit to prevent County Clerk J. T. Nickerson from paying $155 license money to the state treasurer. This is the amount of money collected during the year 1913 by the county clerk for fishing and hunting licenses. Mr. Stevens alleges the money should go to the county school fund under the terms of the constitution relating to the disposition of license fees, fines and penalties. The state alleges the game license is not imposed by the county and therefore the statute which says it must be paid into the state treasury for the benefit of the state school fund is valid. It is also alleged that the county clerk acts merely as agent for the state in the matter of collection. District Judge Perry decided in favor of the state and the county has appealed. About $20,000 annually is collected throughout the state for hunting and fishing licenses.

Fresh from a trip down the Loup valley visiting the scenes where he and his brother copperminers used to chase the Buffalo or make war on the Sioux, old Chief White Eagle stopped at the capitol for a short stay before his return to Oklahoma.

The chief is 83 years old. He is in excellent health, well preserved and as vigorous as he was thirty-five or forty years ago. The only indication that he is getting well along in years is his tendency to drop asleep whenever he sits down for a moment or two. When asked about his early days in this state he said:

"Great white men have been here since my people left," he said through Chief Knife, his grandson. "Where my people used to hunt for buffalo are long trains going with their uh of the wind and in clusters more frequent than the herds we hunted then. And everywhere are the wagons without horses which run around like great devils, spitting fire and smoke and climbing hills faster than a horse. The old spots are almost gone and soon the Indian will be gone altogether. Everybody makes money now—nobody takes time to hunt and fish like we used to."

The aged chieftain was at the head of the Skedi branch of the Pawnees. He was a fearless scout and saw service galore in Frank North's Pawnee scouts. He was wounded in a skirmish and receives a pension of $24 a month from Uncle Sam at the present time. During the period intervening between his muster out of the service and the removal of his tribe to Oklahoma the chief's people were located near Genoa. It was chiefly in that vicinity and as far up the river as Palmer that the old Indian has been spending his time during the past three or four weeks.

Representatives of the Nebraska Portland Cement company of Superior appeared before the state railway commission and consented to a continuance of the cement freight rate case until September 21. A large number of railroad men and agents of cement companies in other states and Nebraska dealers in building material were present. The Superior company and the Burlington road and agents of other roads will try to agree on new rates. They will prepare a schedule and submit it to interested companies prior to September 21. It is believed an agreement can be effected without a hearing of the case. The Superior company filed a complaint alleging it was ready to ship cement from its new mills but that it is unable to compete with companies in other states which take advantage of interstate rates and place their product on markets in Nebraska cheaper than the Superior mill can sell for, freight rates being considered.

According to the returns of assessors to the state board of assessment there are more than four times as many automobiles in Nebraska than typewriting machines. Assessors found 33,198 automobiles and only 8,409 typewriters. It is suspected that many typewriting machines are not listed for assessment or are listed as office furniture.

The European war has directly affected a portion of the convicts at the Nebraska state prison. Rattan which is used in the chair factory is imported from Europe and at present the supply is very short. One of the foremen of the prison shop recently made a trip to New York, but was able to secure only a small quantity of rattan. Fifteen men have already been taken from the chair shop because of the shortage of material and they are now being used to other work. Thirty-five men are still being used in the shop.

The state canvassing board, consisting of Governor Morehead, Secretary of State Wait and Auditor Howard, have canvassed the returns of the late primary.

AMENDMENTS O. K.

THREE PROPOSITIONS FAVORED BY VOTERS OF STATE.

FIRST RELATES TO TAXATION

Second Permits Jury in Civil Cases to Return Verdict.—Third Raises Officers' Salaries.

Lincoln.—All three of the constitutional amendments carried at the last primary and they are made the party proposition of all the parties and will be entitled to the benefit of all straight party ballots, so that the voter who does not vote either way on the proposition or makes a cross in the party circle votes for them.

Amendment No. 1 is a proposition to get a more adequate system of taxation for Nebraska and carries by a vote of 54,597 for to 25,725 against.

The second proposition gives a jury the right to return a verdict in civil cases, five-sixths of the jury being only necessary instead of the entire jury governing the verdict.

The third proposition is the one of raising the salaries of state officers. There has long been a contention that Nebraska had outgrown the point where it should pay the meager salaries to its state officers that it has done for so many years and the last legislature provided for a change if the people so desired. The proposition calls for the raising of salaries of state officers as follows:

	New Salary	Old Salary
Governor	$5,000	$2,500
Attorney general	4,000	2,000
State treasurer	3,000	2,500
State auditor	2,500	2,000
Secretary of state	2,500	2,000
State sup't	2,500	2,000
Land commissioner	2,500	2,000

The proposition provides that there shall be no allowance for clerk hire in the offices of the state superintendent and attorney general.

The proposition carried at the primary by a vote of 45,230 for and 29,752 against.

Milford Well Under Way.

The state board of control has chosen Joseph Burns to complete the well, already under way, at the Milford old soldiers home.
