ASSOCIATED CHARITIES WILL START CAMPAIGN

At the meeting of the executive board of the Associated charities Friday evening at the library building a plan of campaign was instituted. The board will first get an expression from the various churches and lodges of the city in regard to what they feel that they can do and they will then make more definite plans. Circular letters will be sent out in the near future asking for an expression of what they feel they can do.

At the meeting all members of the board were present and some of them brought in some very favorable reports of what some of the organizations as well as individuals would do in regard to charity work. They feel that it will get a good start this year and after it passes the experimental stage and the residents are made to see what it will accomplish it will undoubtedly receive the support of the entire city.

They plan now is to get these organizations to pledge themselves to do what they can towards getting in a fund and then to get to work on a good sound basis and look after the crying needs that are beginning to make themselves manifest. This cannot be done without some finance, which of course must come from the residents of this city.

INVESTMENTS

Do you realize the investment or saving proposition of buying a lot for $5.00 down and $5.00 per month? You know that lots do not go down in value as a city grows. You know that most lots in this city have more than doubled in the last five years. Why not buy a lot in the Cody addition as a saving proposition; then reap the benefit of the investment in a few years by selling at the advance price.

John Hausherr, an employe of the U. P. shops, solved the high cost of living problem this year. Last spring he leased two lots adjoining his premises in the Trustees addition which he planted to vegetables. In addition to raising ten bushels of onions, hundreds of heads of cabbage and abundant yields of beans, peas and other truck, he put out eight rows of sweet potatoes each row 110 feet long. Last Sunday he dug his sweet potatoes and found the yield to be forty bushels. During the summer he irrigated the patch by means of a pump driven by a gasoline engine.

A change is now being put through in the government engineers' department that will effect some of the local men. The irrigation and drainage investigation, which has been under the experimental station in charge of Dr. Fortier, will be changed and put under the public roads and rural engineering department. It will still remain under the department of agriculture. This change will effect H. C. Dusen and Paul S. Jones, engineers in this city.

Senator Hoagland, who had been campaigning with the republican state candidates, returned home Sunday. He will look after personal business for a couple of days and then continue campaign work. He says prospects for republican success are bright; many democrats announcing their intention of casting their ballot against Morehead. Mr. Hoagland makes a speech at all towns visited.
