Jacob Jaskalek, of Omaha, Deputy Grand Master Workman of the A. O. U. W., has been spending this week in town organizing a class for initiation. The membership of the local lodge is 355, but Mr. Jaskalek is confident that he can considerably increase this number.

Fred Warren enjoys this splendid fall weather but would like to see a change that would bring in the wild geese. He has been "hanging around" awaiting an opportunity to kill a few geese before returning to his southern home, but the fowl must come in before November 16th, as that is the date set for the return of the Warren family to Florida.

The Woman's Home Missionary society will hold an exchange tomorrow at Howe & Maloney's store. All kinds of things good to eat will be on sale.

Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Cressler returned last evening from Omaha where they visited for several days. Dr. Cressler went there to attend a dentists' study club meeting.

Mrs. Dean wishes to thank the ladies for all the useful articles and money contributed at the shower given by Mrs. Walter Kocken, Mrs. Shuman and Mrs. Laughlin at the home of the former on Wednesday afternoon.

License to wed was issued Wednesday afternoon from the office of the county judge to Pearl Jones, 22, and Miss Nellie McCome, 20, both of Ogalalla. The couple were married by the judge and they will make their home at Ogalalla where the groom is engaged in business.

Here's a possible "tip" for the civic department of the Twentieth Century Club: Down in an Arkansas town the owners of the moving picture shows give a free ticket to each boy who brings a note from his mother stating that he has thoroughly cleaned up the back yard.

Suit was filed in the county court yesterday morning entitled John Remus vs I. S. Gandreault for the collection of money alleged to be due. Plaintiff alleges that on September 5, 1914, he sold to defendant seven head of cattle valued at $310. At that time he received a payment of $73.96 but that since that time defendant has failed and refused to make payment. He asks for judgment for the balance of $236.04 with interest from September 5, 1914, together with costs of the action.

The small son of C. C. Toole of this city was taken to the office of a local physician this week to have a watermelon seed removed from his ear. The little boy had been given a number of seeds in school about two weeks ago to amuse himself with. After he had tried about everything else with them he decided to put one of them in his ear. It had been in the ear for over two weeks and was causing him so much trouble that he could not sleep. He did not tell what he had done until Tuesday morning and even then his father did not believe it. However, he took him to a physician and the seed was located and removed.

Ice House Burns

The ice house in the rear of the Vienna Cafe was badly gutted by fire at four o'clock yesterday morning. A ton or more of meat, barrels of lard, mince meat and sauer kraut and other food products were either damaged or rendered totally unfit for use.

The origin of the fire is not positively known, but Mr. Hupfer is inclined to believe it was due to a disarrangement of the electric wiring. During the preceding afternoon the lights in the Vienna went out a repairer was called, and he traced the trouble back to the ice house. He failed to definitely locate the trouble, but succeeded in temporarily curing the defect.

Shoots Through Window.

While two of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schwaiger's children were getting ready for bed Wednesday evening, a bullet from a twenty-two rifle pierced the screen and window glass and embedded itself in the wall on the opposite side of the room. Fortunately it was that both children were out of range of the bullet.

Investigation developed the fact that boys a block away had been using it a twenty-two rifle and had used it in a careless manner.

Passenger Becomes Insane.

A man giving his name as W. B. Pudrith was taken suddenly violently insane yesterday on passenger train No. 8 and caused a near riot before the conductor, Henry Gilfoyl, finally succeeded in quieting him. In his insanity he imagined that he had lost $20,000 and he was searching the train to find if he had left it in one of the berths. Incidentally he was threatening all the other passengers under the hallucination they had robbed him. Some of the men called the conductor, Mr. Gilfoyl, and when he got to the car the man was ready to kill anyone who touched him. Mr. Gilfoyl tried to pacify him and when this failed he used force and set him down in one of the seats and threatened to throw him off the train if he did not remain there. In the scuffle the stranger tore Mr. Gilfoyl's shirt to shreds and threatened to kill him as soon as he could get a razor which he claimed was in his valise. He became so enraged that he bit the end of his tongue off and he is now in a rather serious condition from the effects of the wound.

Mr. Gilfoyl telegraphed ahead and the sheriff and the police force met the train and took the man to jail where he is now confined. He offered some fight there, but was pacified when told that he was in New York city which seemed to be his destination. After he was taken to the jail Drs. J. B. Redfield, county physician, and T. J. Kerr, Union Pacific surgeon, were called and they pronounced the man in a serious condition. They advised that he was probably suffering from a hallucination caused by the high altitude and also that he might have been drugged and possibly robbed. They gave some medicine for his tongue and a hypodermic to quiet him until word can be received from his relatives.

Returns from Ireland.

Francis Montague, who lives south of the river, returned yesterday from a visit at his old home in Ireland. Within a month after reaching the Green Isle, war was declared by the European countries, and having no desire to become a dead hero, he at once began making plans for his return to this country. He encountered many difficulties, one of which was that his money was not good, and to be moneyless in a foreign country is not a pleasant position. In time, however, he succeeded in making satisfactory arrangements and sailed for home, a warship acting as a convoy for the vessel on which he took passage.

Mr. Montague says at the time he left England was getting ready to draft men between the ages of sixteen and fifty into the service, and no resident of that country of war age was allowed to leave.

APPLES

A carload will be on sale from track next week. Grown at Grand Junction, Colo. The kind you have been waiting for, sound, big, red ones. Not to be confused with low grade and Ben Davis, but the nice, juicy kind. You will find York Imperials, Wine Saps, Black Twigs, Ganos, in bulk and White Winter Pearmain boxed. At prices cheaper than the cheapest.

Come to the car with the big U. S. Flag. Bring Sacks.
