

Do your eyes trouble you now? If so, what will they be ten years from today unless you take care of them immediately? Stop and realize the danger of neglect, the danger of mistreatment.

There is no treatment more serious than wrong glasses. By wrong glasses we mean glasses that are not suited to your eyes, glasses fitted more or less after a perfunctory examination, glasses chosen from a tray, by trying on one pair after another, glasses bought at a bargain counter, glasses fitted by a merchant or dealer, not an optical specialist. If you want your glasses to be absolutely correct, bring your eye troubles to us.

Mrs. Thomas Terry, of Omaha, visited in the city over Sunday with friends. She was formerly a resident of this city and her husband was an engineer out of here for a number of years. They moved to Omaha twenty years ago. Mr. Terry was killed in the tornado that swept Omaha a year ago last Easter.

W. C. Reynolds will make a number of improvements next spring to the building occupied by Stone and Rincker. More modern fronts, steel ceilings, new floors and perhaps additions to the rear are among the improvements contemplated. It was planned to do this work this fall, but later Mr. Reynolds concluded to wait until spring.

The case of the state against Ruth Harkins was up in the county court Friday afternoon. It is a complaint that the defendant is a delinquent and neglected child under the age of eighteen years. Suit was filed by John Frazier and several witnesses were called. After hearing the evidence the court took the case under advisement. Defendant was held at the county jail for some time before the hearing.

Miss Mary A. Posey stopped off in the city Saturday for a visit of a few days with her brother, J. H. Posey and family at the Union Pacific hotel. She had been in the east where she had been recuperating from ill health. Miss Posey is a missionary in China under the Presbyterian church. She came home to regain her health and was to have returned through Europe. On account of the war she was obliged to return by the other route.

He can give the history of North Platte from the time when it was only a row of log house saloons on Front street until the present day. He became quite reminiscent Saturday and related several interesting tales of the early day life here.

Utilize the Power of Co-Operation

THE picture above is a typical scene of the shopping center of larger cities. You see here a great army of shoppers brought together from all parts of the city. In this picture we have a forceful demonstration of Co-Operation. Nine out of ten rode to this center by means of street cars, if they had employed taxicabs the ride would have cost them a great deal more than five cents. Unconsciously, they are thus enjoying one of the benefits of co-operation.

If only one person patronized a car line—if a street car could carry but few persons—the cost of that ride would make it prohibitive for the greater portion of us.

You admit then, that in reaching this shopping center you co-operate with your townspeople in patronizing the car lines to effect the saving in transportation cost.

But there as a rule your co-operation ends. Upon reaching this center you scatter in all directions—one does his or her shopping here, one goes to that place, others select still different other places in which to buy. Yet a great many of them want exactly the same article.

Can't you imagine how much farther your money would go—how much cheaper you could buy the article—if you who want the same thing would get together, pool your money, go to a reliable merchant and give him your combined patronage? For the privilege of selecting a certain store, apart from your neighbor, you pay additional charge represented by the larger expense of selling in smaller quantities, which under these circumstances the merchant must charge. We have launched the big Co-operative Family piano sale to bring you piano buyers together, make it possible for you to effect an enormous saving. We are concentrating your buying power, your neighbors' buying power, your united patronage to this, the greatest sale of fine pianos and player pianos ever held here or elsewhere.

In preparing for this big Co-operative Family Piano Sale we made an immense purchase of instruments from our regular factories. The result was a big saving to us in factory price. Instead of consuming an entire six months in the selling of them by the old expensive methods, we are going to sell them through this big family in six weeks. Another and greater saving.

We are going to sell every one contemplating the purchase of a piano or player piano in this vicinity. We are quite positive of that because by combining the saving effected by purchasing so many instruments at one time for immediate delivery, with the greater saving effected by this modern, economical, Co-operative way of selling, we are enabled to quote prices and terms on these high grade makes that must compel you, for economy's sake to buy now and at this store.

This sale, after months of planning is an actual reality now and thrifty purchasers are going to take advantage of these benefits and savings. Look over the prices given here, note the saving, note the low terms, come investigate.

OTHER FEATURES, BENEFITS, ETC., WHICH DO NOT COST YOU A PENNY
