JIMMIE MUELLER WINS PONY.

Has a Lead of Over Million and Half Over His Nearest Competitor.

Little Jimmie Mueller, who has been a cripple all his life and can get around only with the aid of crutches, was the winner in the pony contest, receiving one and one-half million more votes than his nearest competitor. The total vote received by each of the four highest contestants was as follows:

Jimmie Mueller.....3,917,095
Alleen Lintz.....2,458,165
Charley Eshleman.....1,124,025
Francis Dolph.....921,555

The next highest contestant was Lawrence Hart with 528,740 votes, there were several with an aggregate of over 300,000, a number in the 200,000 class, and from this the totals ranged down to 25,000 votes. The total number of votes cast reached the enormous number of 14,237,045.

The contest started with nearly one hundred contestants, but as the vote proceeded, many of these practically dropped out of the running, and whatever work the dropped-out contestants performed was in the interest of either Jimmie Mueller or Alleen Litz, who seemed to be the favorites from the start.

The fact that over fourteen million votes were cast, is evidence that the contest was a success.

The pony and the outfit will be turned over to Jimmie Mueller tomorrow, and no doubt he will be a very happy boy. He will unquestionably take pleasure in giving his young friends a ride.

One of the most enthusiastic supporters of paving is W. C. Reynolds, who owns forty-four feet of business property abutting on Dewey. Mr. Reynolds during his lay-overs as engineer at Grand Island has investigated the advantages and the benefits and the cost of paving in that city, and is thoroughly convinced that North Platte is throwing money away by attempting to maintain our business streets with dirt or gravel instead of paving. Mr. Reynolds thinks there should be no delay in paving both Dewey and Locust streets.
