D. B. McNeel has been feeding 1400 head of cattle on his ranch northwest of town this winter. It requires an average of fourteen tons of hay per day to feed this herd, so you can easily figure that during the past ninety days the boys on the ranch have hauled considerable hay.

A Kansas judge has decided that the federal law relating to the killing of migratory birds is unconstitutional. This decision is hailed with a considerable enthusiasm by local hunters, but they had better not accept it as a license to go out and kill ducks and geese. Uncle Sam is not likely to pay much attention to the Kansas decision.

George Austin, who is a Knight of the Shillalah and attended the banquet Thursday evening, has been making himself rather "tiresome" to Charley Eli by constantly referring to the Shillalah organization and what a wonderful people are the Irish. In order to counteract Austin's constant gabble and have a subject that he can "swell up" on, Charley (whose parents were born in Bavaria) proposes to organize the Knights of the Kaiser, which he promises will outshine the Shillalahs ten to one.

Judge and Mrs. John Grant returned Saturday morning from their trip to Florida, after an absence of about ten weeks. They not only visited all sections of Florida, but they crossed over to Cuba and after spending some time in Havana made a circle of the interior towns of that country. While the trip was an interesting one, Judge Grant says the weather was so warm as to be uncomfortable. When he left Florida for the north the temperature was at ninety.

The presidency of the league is considered quite an honorary position.

Bryan Lacks Efficiency.

The exacting duties and responsibilities now developing upon President Wilson more or less enlist the sympathy of every true American. He has been severely handicapped because of a lack of efficiency by and confidence of the public in his secretary of state, but it is plain that Mr. Bryan is no longer depended upon as the guiding spirit in that chair of the cabinet. The decidedly un-neutral attitude of the secretary of state in his pro-British leanings had begun to be embarrassing to the administration and was beginning to create a storm of protest which will subside either with the practical retirement of Mr. Bryan or a change in his own attitude, of which latter there are also some indications. Mr. Bryan can never wholly recover for the democratic party what he has lost for it, but there may yet be time and opportunity for the President and his leading advisers materially to do so.—Grand Island Independent.

Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Modern Seaman.

The new ship has transformed the sailor with itself. He works among a subtle and intricate network of machinery. His brain is quickened by the effort to understand the new forces and appliances that he controls. He is drawn no longer from the lower strata of the population of our ports, but in increasing proportions from the ranks of skilled mechanics. The electricians and machinists, who are the aristocracy of the crew, bring with them the notions which prevail among the aristocracy of labor out of uniform. They possess more reading and more science than did nine out of ten of the officers in the old days. They have a respect for themselves and their class, which has revolutionized the morals and manners of the modern warship. The gradual reform of the service regulations has sought to keep pace with this transformation, and officers have been educated in a wholly new conception of their relationship to their men. The bullying and hectoring which was the rule of the sea in the old days is today the rare exception. Instinct and "good form" condemn that kind of thing as severely as the regulations.—Nation.

If an Ant Were as Big as a Man.

An ant can carry a grain of corn ten times the weight of its body, while a man or horse can carry loads only about equal to its bodily weight. It is not a fact, however, that the ant is greatly superior in strength. If an ant should grow to twice its original size, still retaining its geometrical and histological structure, its volume, and accordingly the weight of its body, would increase eightfold. Although the muscles grow to twice their original dimensions, the increase in length does not increase the strength, which is proportional to their cross section, and the ant would only be four times as strong as before. As it now carries but five times its weight, however, it is relatively only half as strong. It is calculated that the same ant developed to the size of a man would only be able to carry one one-hundredth of its own weight instead of ten times its own weight.

Thrashing Wheat in Cyprus.

The ancient Roman tribulum, as used for thrashing, may still be seen in the island of Cyprus. It is a board about six feet long and two feet wide, studded with sharp edged flakes of flint. In use it is dragged by oxen or donkeys over the corn spread out on the hard earthen thrashing floor, separating the grain and at the same time bruising and chopping up the straw. Thrashing time is enjoyed alike by children and animals, the former riding on the primitive implement and the latter gorging themselves with a hearty meal, for in Cyprus the Biblical command, "Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn," is still faithfully observed. Although the government offers to thrash by machine at nominal cost, the conservative Cypriote prefers the old method. He says that the animals will not eat machine chaffed straw, and straw they must eat, for there is no hay in Cyprus.—Wide World Magazine.

To the Housewife

Madam, if your husband is like most men he expects you to look after the health of yourself and children. Coughs and colds are the most common of the minor ailments and are most likely to lead to serious diseases. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when it has a cold. If you will inquire into the merits of the various remedies that are recommended for coughs and colds, you will find that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy stands high in the estimation of people who use it. It is prompt and effective, pleasant and safe to take, which are qualities especially to be desired when a medicine is intended for children. For sale by all dealers.
