Coming down from Arthur he met eight of these homesteaders, each having a team and wagon, and several head of cattle.

J. L. McIntosh of Sidney, spent yesterday in town. The Federal league opened Sunday and the American and the National leagues opened yesterday. The baseball bugs will now have plenty to discuss at these several meeting places and the sport writers will lay off years of age and once more become young boys, the result of the decrease in the task of keeping the sports columns running over with juicy pen fruit.

Trainmen coming down from Cheyenne report that a man was killed there Sunday by jumping from a moving train. Mr. Turner proved quite an athlete, getting out of the wagon in less time than it takes to tell it.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY CLASS IS PROGRESSING

The wireless telegraphy class in the high school under the instruction of Prof. E. H. Flowers is rapidly making progress and the twenty members of the class have succeeded in installing several stations in the city.

This class was started last winter. An entertainment was given by the high school students in January and the proceeds from that went toward purchasing needed equipment for this branch of study. Since that time the pupils have become quite proficient both as operators and as manufacturers, making their own equipment.

Three evenings each week is devoted to the study. The boys meet with Mr. Flowers in his shop at his home and there with the machinery he has they have made nearly all the apparatus they now have. They have two completely equipped stations and three more nearly completed. In addition to these they are building several more in different parts of the city. Every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evening the boys work on the equipment, making what is needed for the different stations.

Saturday the boys placed a large aerial at the home of Mr. Flowers. This will make it much more easy to transmit the air waves to the other station. The tower stands fifty feet high and was constructed entirely by the boys with Mr. Flowers' assistance.

Bonding Proposed.

Considerable interest is manifested in the new county of Arthur on the proposition of voting bonds. It is said that those furthering the movement have assurance that Logan and McPherson counties on the east and Garden and Merrill counties on the west would drop in line were they at all encouraged. This is the project of the extension of the Union Pacific from Stapleton to Northport through these counties.

The recent opening of the North Platte Forest Reserve has brought many hundreds of people into Arthur and Grant counties, a hughling horde of pioneer citizens who seem bent on developing the country of their choice and who seem determined to have with the rest of the modern conveniences a railroad.

Thousands of acres of virgin prairie lands throughout Arthur and Grant counties hitherto untouched by plow or disk are being converted into rich fields of alfalfa and stock is being brought in to eat it.

The business eye of the Union Pacific is turned toward this great stretch of country just in the infancy of its development and ere long the proposition of bonds will be heard by them with a great deal of interest.

Let us help you plan Your House That's Our Business

The town of Kimball, which cast 110 votes in the election last Tuesday is making arrangements to pave four blocks of its business street. Evidently a lot of North Platte ought to go to Kimball and become incoated with the booster spirit. Think of it, a town of less than 700 people with paved streets while North Platte with 6,000 inhabitants dilly dally from year to year on the paving proposition because it will cost each property owner a few more cents in taxes each year. It begins to look as though North Platte's progressiveness is a mere boast and not a reality.

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Flowers Sunday morning and deposited a fine eight-pound boy. Mother and child are both doing nicely and Mr. Flowers is quite proud himself.
