It is rather strange that the gnats, which now, and will for the next three weeks, prove a great annoyance, are not found east of Kearney nor west of Julesburg, though north and south this gnat territory extends from Oklahoma up into South Dakota. In the early days the presence of the gnats were said to be due to cattle affected with Texas fever, but this proved not true. Perhaps the most plausible theory was advanced thirty years ago by Sam Watts, who contended that the territory in which the gnats are found is covered by a gulf current which propagates them.

Messrs. Den, Elder, Rebhausen, Green, Plumer and Baker, returned Tuesday evening from Ender's lakes where they had gone in anticipation of having several days of fine bass fishing. They found upon arrival that all the fish in the lakes had perished during the winter; they had been smothered by the thick ice which covered the lakes for several months. Mr. Elder stated that he doubted if a single bass survived. In one of the lakes there were a few sun fish. This condition robs fishermen of the best fishing grounds in the west part of the state.

In speaking of the torpedoing of the Lusitania, Prof. George Trumbull Ladd, Yale's well known expert on Japanese affairs, who has also been an adviser of the Japanese government on matters of international jurisprudence says that it is time for the United States to order Germany to quit her policy of "wholesale murder," and, if she refuses, to break off all diplomatic relations with that government. He declares: "I think that a demand should be made upon the German government to cease from this time onward, and wholly, from the policy which resulted in the disaster and crime of sinking the Lusitania, and causing the death of scores of innocent persons; that it should be given a definite time to answer this demand; that if its answer is not in the form of a definite and guaranteed promise, all diplomatic relations between the two countries, the United States and Germany, should cease at once. It would then become the duty of the government to consider what form of reprisals should be taken."

BURLINGTON WILL BEGIN WORK THIS FALL.

It is now practically certain that work on the Burlington's new line up the Platte Valley from Kearney through North Platte to Bridgeport will begin this fall. Word to this effect comes from so many different sources that its authenticity cannot be questioned, and if the graders are not at work on or before October 1st, it will be because the United States has been forced into the European war—which is not at all likely.

A few days ago one of the men engaged as contractor on the tunnel work on the Burlington line in Wyoming was in North Platte and a local banker stated that the tunnel work would be completed not later than September 1st and that the force employed on that work would be sent to Nebraska to build the Platte Valley line. This, he said, was the program as now outlined and he did not think anything was likely to occur that would keep the Burlington from carrying it into effect.

A week or so ago The Tribune man had a talk with an employe of the Union Pacific headquarters at Omaha whose duty it is to keep tab on what the Burlington and other competing roads are doing, and he stated that he was positively certain that work on the Platte Valley line would begin as soon as the tunnel work in Wyoming was finished.

Recently a Burlington official remarked, when remitting for taxes on property owned by the Burlington in North Platte, that it would soon be getting use of its North Platte property; indicating that division terminals would be located here.

This week the Hastings Republican publishes, on what it claims is good authority, a statement that the Burlington's Platte Valley line will be built this fall.

Here are four statements that may be considered reliable, each indicating that work will begin this fall. Grading the road from Kearney to Bridgeport will be quickly performed. It is not overdrawn to say that the construction work will be at the rate of over a mile a day. The distance from Kearney to Bridgeport by the river route is in the neighborhood of 220 miles.

Among Expensive Waists they are in a Class Apart from what is Ordinarily Sold at the Price

WIRTHMOR WAISTS sell at one dollar always, and they are always in a class apart and vastly superior to other Waists obtainable at this price. The care of workmanship, the neatness of finish, the pretty refined styles—all distinguished them from the ordinary dollar Waist. In fact from their general appearance, as well as from their inherent merit, which insures long and satisfactory wear, these Waists are very much like one would expect to buy for a somewhat higher price. Because of our outlet, the maker has confined the sale of these Waists for this city to us, where they can always be found in the newest and most-wanted styles.

Wirthmor Waists are Sold here Exclusively. They are always one dollar and worth more. Four new very models will go on sale tomorrow.

Show Well Patronized

Barton & Bailey's show exhibited in town yesterday, and attracted many people from the country. Many of the country people came in cars, and at noon fully fifty out-of-town cars lined the streets. The parade was given at noon, the streets on the line of the procession being crowded. While the show is not a large one, the property is neat and clean, and the horses are fine.

At the afternoon performance the tent was well crowded, the attendance in the evening was rather light. The show as a whole, was pronounced fairly good.
