Have We a Ball Team?

A report having been circulated that North Platte possessed a ball team, six or eight hundred people went down to the ball lot Sunday afternoon and after two hours' affliction patiently borne, each of the six or eight hundred were ready to tar and feather and ride on a rail the fellow or fellows who circulated the report.

The Ogalala players—the opposing team—batted Pitcher Luby all over the lot; they outplayed the local team at every point; outclassed them in team work and it was probably only through their charitable nature that they didn't romp around the diamond twenty times instead of nine or ten times.

Some are sufficiently charitable enough to say that Sunday was an "off day" for the team—"off" is certainly right—we regret that we cannot take the same view. Constant practice might make some difference with some of the players—the others are hopeless.

The prime reason North Platte does not have a ball team is because of the penuriousness of its people—their sporting blood is of that rich nature found in a turnip. An attempt has been made to sell 1,000 season tickets at the small sum of $2 each.

It takes money to run a ball team, a team that is creditable to North Platte, and all will admit that a weak team is a greater affliction than a run of small-pox.

The Little Green Tent. Apropos of the dead soldiers of the Union army of the great civil war, the 30th of this month, is the following by Walt Mason, being one of the finest gems he ever penned:

"The little green tents where the soldiers sleep, and the sunbeams play and the women weep are covered with flowers today; and between the tents walk the weary few who were young and stalwart in sixty-two, when they went to war away. The little green tents are built of sod, and they are not long and they are not broad, but the soldiers have lots of room; and the sod is part of the land they saved when the flag of the enemy darkly waved, the symbol of dole and doom.

County and Neighborhood News. Rev. L. J. Powell, a former pastor of the Lutheran church at Sutherland, was married at West Point, Neb., last Thursday to Miss Esther Scheibe.

Robert E. Bean, at one time a resident of North Platte, died at Stapleton recently at the age of seventy-five years. He was the step-father of Ed Salisbury of Stapleton.

The Loup Valley Land Co., the original owners of the town site of Stapleton, has conveyed practically all the unsold lots to the Omaha Safe Deposit Co.

The graduating exercises of the Maxwell high school were held last evening, State Supt. Thomas delivering the address. The graduates were Lola Huntington, Eugene Eames and Blanche Jeger.

A Rare Opportunity. The Mutual Building & Loan Association have taken over the two story, nine room frame dwelling and corner lot at 321 South Dewey St. and have newly decorated and painted the house inside and out and have added new bath, toilet, lavatory, kitchen sink, city water and sewer connection and electric lights, making it as good as new and are now offering it at a very low price and easy terms.

A Letter from J. C. Gabel.

J. C. Gabel, for twenty-five years a resident of the north part of the county, but who moved to Filer, Idaho, writes The Tribune in part as follows:

"We are located in the Twin Falls tract nine miles northwest of the city of Twin Falls, five miles northeast of Filer, and a half mile south of the Snake river, which is a very powerful stream and the source of our irrigation system. The great Shoshone falls are five miles from the city of Twin Falls and are a fine sight.

They plunge 200 feet over great rocks and form a rainbow in the spray and mist at the bottom. It is connected with the city of Twin Falls with a street car line. Many tourists go out there sight-seeing. Twin Falls has a population of 8,000 and the most of its streets are paved and it is only ten years old. Isn't that pretty good?

There are many places of interest in this valley and one can spend a very pleasant trip in traveling through it. Land ranges in price from $125 to $150 per acre and more near town. This soil is very productive and will raise all kinds of grain, potatoes and fruits of all kinds. Corn is not raised to any extent, but it can be grown. Alfalfa and clover are the leading hay crops. Alfalfa grows waist high and one acre of good alfalfa will produce six tons of hay; it is cut three times.

Dairying and the sheep industry are very profitable here. One very fine feature of this country is its fruits. Straw berries are unusually fine here. I would rather eat strawberries in this valley than fight the buffalo gnats in the North Platte valley.

Oats range from 80 to 100 bushels per acre, wheat from 50 to 80 bushels per acre. And there have been some pieces that made from 100 to 115 bushels per acre. The average yield of potatoes is 300 sacks to the acre, a sack holding about two bushels. I saw one potato that weighed seven pounds, of course that is an exception, but they raise very fine potatoes.

There is very good fishing here in the streams if you take the time to fish. There have been some fish caught in the Snake river that weighed 200 pounds. I surely like this valley and when I settled here I left the fear of hot winds and, hail storms, cyclones and blizzards behind me. We have a very fine irrigation system here with plenty of water, but the last day or two we have been getting moisture from the clouds. In concluding my letter I would say, any time any of my old neighbors wish to come out and look at the country, they will be welcome and we will show them as good a time as we possibly can.

Personal and General Notes. A John Hopkins doctor says there is no such thing as rheumatism. Another venerable weather sign sent to the junk pile.

U. L. Beddon of Seymour, Ind., is dead from blood poisoning contracted from using a drinking cup infected by another man.

The difference between reportorial fancy and the reality is shown in the case of John Bunny, the movie comedian. Press agents insisted he got a salary as large as the president of the United States. His estate amounted to $8,000.

A woman at Ashtabula, O., having limbered at a bargain rush, on returning home thrashed a thief she found in the parlor, rang for a burly wagon, and sat on the victim until the wagon arrived. Bargain rushes are entitled to a high place in the athletic score board.

United States Judge Landis put another unique industry out of business last week. The business consisted of extracting the whisky that soaks into whisky barrel staves. The extractors did not pay a revenue tax as whisky makers. When the court soaked them for the tax the business collapsed.

Mort Smith, of Bridgeport, spent the latter part of last week here on business.

D. E. Morrill left Saturday evening for Omaha to transact business for several days.

Boost Lincoln Highway.

Delegations from every town between and including Cheyenne, Wyo., and Big Springs, Neb., met at Sidney Saturday night and organized the Western Nebraska and Wyoming Lincoln Highway association, the immediate purpose of which is to oppose the methods of Denver and intermediate points to divert travel from the real Lincoln highway in Nebraska and Wyoming to Colorado.

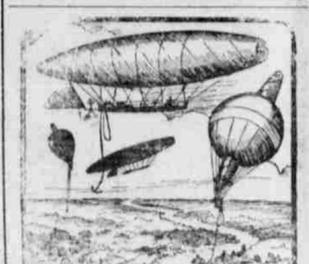

The best way to the coast or to Denver is on the regular Lincoln highway through western Nebraska and Cheyenne, the boosters declare.

The route along the South Platte valley to Denver, they say, is almost impassable during storm periods, and being in the river bottom is affected by seepage and cannot be maintained in good travelable condition, whereas the regular Lincoln highway, along the main line of the Union Pacific railroad to Cheyenne, is one of the finest stretches of natural roadway in the entire country. The association just perfected will systematically maintain it in excellent condition.

O. B. Bower, agent of the Standard Oil company at Chappell reports that last week he delivered on an average 600 gallons of gasoline to the gas tractor plowing outfits in his territory. At present the station here is delivering oil and gas to eighteen outfits and there will possibly be two more within a short time. Oil and gas is also delivered to Lodge Pole in addition to filling local demands.—Chappell Register.
