Too Much Difference

According to statistics published in the Omaha Bee it cost Lincoln county $3,229 to make the annual assessment this year, while in Custer county, which has exactly the same area and a larger population, the cost was $1,525, or less than half the cost in this county. If these figures are correct, the difference in cost is too great—either Custer county assessors work fast, or else the Lincoln county assessors are very slow in the work.

This year ten blocks are being paved, and it is the intention to continue the work each year until all the streets have permanent roadways. Brick is now used exclusively in Grand Island, as it has been found to give the most satisfactory results.
