Convention to be Held Here

The Wednesday issue of the Kearney Daily Hub contained this item: It is expected that the date of holding a meeting for the discussion of sub-irrigation of the Platte Valley will be announced within a few days and that the place of meeting will be at North Platte. There has been a renewed interest taken in this important matter and local men are giving their energies to getting together and then demanding action. The intent and purpose of the meeting will be to have such legislation passed as is needed to insure the safeguarding of Platte valley water rights and the cooperation of the government in bringing this about.

At the present time water is plentiful not only in the Platte but over the uplands and there is no lack of moisture. But those interested in the coming meeting are looking forward to future years when the river is allowed to go dry while the government retains the floodwaters, and all other water available, in the Pathfinder and other dams. A condition of this nature prevailed last year with the results that crops in the valley fell off as much as 50 per cent and many total losses were due to the government system of retaining the flood waters.

Work on the Hill Road

After a considerable amount of wrangling as to whether or not the proposed road to the county line west should be along the railroad right of way or according to a survey made some time ago, the matter was yesterday adjusted we are informed. Herdinghausen and White, it is understood, finally agreed upon the road along the hills, and upon the agreement that they would abide by the appraisal of damages, work was started by Supervisor Cockle today.—Sutherland Free Lance.

In the eighth the Big Springs' balloon went up and the Boosters secured five runs. Fussell, the visiting pitcher, struck out fourteen men, and had he had the proper support the result might have been very different. Artley struck out eleven and allowed but two hits, while the Boosters took seven hits off of Fussell.

No one should fail to take the opportunity of hearing this artist. His range of voice, technique, artistic and dramatic interpretation of songs are of a very superior order, and to those who love the ideal and beauty of inspiring melody and music in song, is offered this unusual opportunity of hearing a profoundly emotional singer of great temperament.—The Hub, July 10.

His excellence as a singer, his ability in the artistic interpretation of song, and his personal stage presence are popular with music lovers.—George S. Dick, Pres. Kearney State Normal School.

Major Haberstro is a great singer, his voice is rich and rare, his interpretation unique, his technique artistic, but back of all this, before it, and circumscribing it, is the fact that the major is a symmetrical character, in tune with God with his brotherman, which is, I apprehend, the "sine quonon" of any and every great artist.—George G. Ware, Rector St. Luke's Church.
