FIRST NUMBER OF UNITED LECTURE COURSE TONIGHT

The Southland Artists—Ollmae Enlow, Concert Violinist, Lawrence L. Lewis, Baritone and Reader, Berenice Walker, Pianist and Accompanist.

The program of this company appeals especially to those who know and appreciate the best in music. To mark natural ability these young people have added years of study under great teachers. All have had extensive concert experience and the reports of critics show all have won notable triumphs for their art. Their appearance here will be a notable event. This entertainment tonight at the Presbyterian church thirty-five cents.

This is the first number of a series of entertainments to be given this winter at the Presbyterian church to be known as the United Lecture Course. The course was arranged for by the brotherhoods of four of the churches of this city and should have the hearty support of all North Platte and Lincoln county people who enjoy entertainments of the better class. The brotherhoods have spent considerable time and expense in arranging for this course and it is their hope it will be well attended throughout the season.

The complete course is as follows: The Southland Artists, October 8th, entertainers, musicians. The Old Glory Quartette, October 23th, entertainers, singers. Col. Lew Beauchamp November 10th, humorous philosopher. Schillirets' Hungarian Orchestra, November 17th. Novelty Four, January 13th, instrumentalists and vocalists. M. Beryl Buckley January 25, interpretative reader. Brooks Fletcher, February 3, lecturer.

Season tickets for the entire course may be obtained from Mr. Starr at McDonald State Bank, adults $2.00 and high school students $1.00.

Marshall Oil Co. Yet Living
It is being announced by Mr. Hayes, the Standard Oil "funky" that the Marshall people have lost out already. He is calling upon the dealers and telling each one "you had better buy from us now, all the others have quit them." Now we feel that Uncle Joe has started to the funeral too soon, and if the people of North Platte and Lincoln county continue to give the Marshall Oil Co. their support as they have in the past, Uncle Joe will be more nervous and tottery than he is at present, when he is able to say "I told you so." 75-1 J. W. SHEPHERD.

DISTINCTION IN DRESS

The Eyes of Envy

Are turned on the woman whose clothes mark her apart from the crowd. They proclaim her one of discriminating taste, for to select such a garment from the many that are seen on every hand requires a knowledge and appreciation of style, material, fit and wearing qualities that few possess. But these are characteristics that are found in every Printzess coat or suit. They confer on their wearer the compliment of good taste, assure her the approval of those most critical in matters of dress and the envy of those who have not found the secret.
