The rule for the railroad man is: "When in doubt take the safe side." This rule should apply to every person when in doubt about his eyes. Be on the safe side by consulting an optometrist when in need of eye aid. C. S. CLINTON, Registered Optometrist, look for the sign with the big ring.

All the muscles of the body are made for use. Hence, muscles of the eyes, within or without, however delicate, have a normal purpose and a normal use. Such use is not eye-strain nor the cause of the eyestrain. Get that clear. Eyestrain results from abnormal use of the eye muscles. C. S. CLINTON, Registered Optometrist, look for the sign with the big ring.

Lutheran Brotherhood Banquet.

Nearly one hundred men—two-thirds of whom were members of the Lutheran brotherhood and the remainder guests—were present at the annual banquet of that brotherhood held at the Masonic hall last evening. In all respects it was a most successful gathering of men representing nearly all the vocations of life—the supper served by the Lutheran ladies was a splendid one, and the address by the honor guest of the evening intensely interesting and well delivered.

It was shortly after seven o'clock when the president of the brotherhood, Frank Bretzer, issued the order to "fall in," and after an invocation by Dr. Dysinger, the men seated themselves at the nicely decorated tables and thoroughly enjoyed the menu so excellently prepared and so nicely served.

Rev. Harman introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Dysinger, professor of theology in the Atchison, Kansas, Lutheran college, who spoke for about an hour on "The Forces of the Reformation Still Active." Reviewing tersely and interestingly the work of Martin Luther, the speaker cited as one of the effects of the great reformer's efforts that today nearly one-half of the Protestant church members are Lutherans, and that the sun never sets on the spires of the Lutheran churches—which are to be found in America, in Europe, in Asia, in Africa and in the islands of the seas. Historically the address was intensely interesting; many points were made that appealed to the members and strengthened them in their faith, and to those without the pale of the church the words of Dr. Dysinger made a most favorable impression. The spirit of the great reformer is still active in such men as Dr. Dysinger, and his message to the Lutheran men of North Platte could only serve to inspire greater efforts in behalf of the church founded by Martin Luther.

Hope to Organize Y. M. C. A.

C. A. Musselman, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., spent yesterday in town, his mission here being to ascertain public sentiment relative to organizing a Young Men's Christian Association. He also desired to make arrangements for a meeting to be held the early part of next month at which several men prominent in Y. M. C. A. work will be present and make addresses.

For many years North Platte supported a well-conducted and well attended association, but through lack of interest on the part of financial supporters and inefficiency of local secretaries the association died a lingering death.

A prairie fire swept through a portion of Somerset precinct Sunday destroying much hay and burning off the range in a territory reported to be four miles wide and fifteen miles long. Several farm buildings are said to have been burned, but this report at this time has not been confirmed.

Early Pigs Pay

better than late ones. They have a longer pasture season and make more pork from grass. They can be kept on grass until almost ready for market.

They make not only more use of pasture, but also more ECONOMICAL use of all feed, because they can be finished for market before cold weather sets in. Gains in weight cost more in feed after winter weather begins.

The one thing necessary in raising early pigs is a good hog house. There are a great many kinds of hog houses. Come in and discuss your plans with us. Together we can select the type best suited to your requirements. Remember, it costs you nothing for the help we give. We have all necessary materials.
