HOW TO MAKE HUGHES

HEAR THE CALL

(Omaha Bee.)

"Hughes has declared he is not a candidate and has refused to let his name be printed on the ballot," is what we often hear from republicans, who add, "Hughes is my first choice; his nomination would completely unite the party and make success certain; I would like to see him head the ticket if he would only become a candidate."

But anyone who will reflect a moment will realize that the course of Justice Hughes is the only one he could persistently pursue. He is not seeking the presidency. No judge, sitting in the highest bench, can scramble for a presidential nomination, yet neither does the fact that he is not a candidate and declined to authorize the filing of his name stand in the way of people voicing a call for him that he must respond to. The Boston Transcript correctly describes the position Justice Hughes is in, as follows:

"The call for Hughes now coming up from the people in every part of the country voices first of all a popular demand for leadership in the day of the nation's danger. The determination to draft Mr. Hughes is not surprising when we consider his record in the past, his resolution in the present and his qualification for future service. It is not too much to say that the mass of the people who are determined to conscript him as their leader in this crisis are in a heroic mood. They are well aware that the national ailment requires a heroic remedy. They are tired of the type of politician who chucks his constituents under the chin and plasters them day after day with compliments they do not deserve and promises he cannot fulfill. They resent the memory of the deplorable spectacle of 1912 when a president and ex-president of the United States chased each other over the country in the prosecution of a personal quarrel. That experience has prejudiced them against the operation of the presidential primary, and caused them to view with suspicion any active candidacy for the highest office in their gift. They remember with pride the contrasting record of Mr. Hughes, who was conscripted twice and twice elected governor of New York. They enthuse at the recollection of the thoroughness and the courage with which he cleaned house in the insurance scandals; the well nigh reckless independence with which he refused to allow Mr. Barnes to make a dummy of the chief executive at Albany; at the effectiveness with which he flayed Mr. Bryan from the Atlantic seaboard to the far middle west in the campaign of 1908, and proved himself the most powerful champion on the stump of progressive republicanism and virile Americanism that appeared in that campaign. Nothing has pleased them more because it confirms their best judgment of his character, than the refusal of Mr. Hughes to sanction the use of his name in advance of the convention for any political office. They share his aversion to any association of partisan politics with the great tribunal of which he is a member. They are content that shall remain at his post until the call comes. Their purpose is to conscript him without consultation, mindful of the opinion of Abraham Lincoln that not even a member of the supreme court is beyond the call of his countrymen in peace or war, or dare decline to serve him in the post they designate."

Here in Nebraska we have an opportunity at our primary to issue a call for Hughes that he must hear. If the republicans of this state will write in his name in the blank line specially prepared for that purpose on the ballot, they will show that this call comes not from the "bosses" or the "leaders" or the "machine," but direct from the main people, and that is the kind of a call that no man, whether sitting on the supreme bench or in any other place, can refuse to listen to.

THIS is the way to DO it!

WHO'S WHO.

George E. French.

George E. French, the present county judge, is a candidate for re-nomination. This office is non-partisan, that is democrats and republicans alike may vote for him. He has no opposition, therefore will be nominated. Mr. French has long been a resident of North Platte, has been a practicing attorney, county attorney and county judge, hence is a man exceptionally well qualified to fill the position. The fact that he has no opposition is evidence that the people have been well satisfied with his work as county judge.

R. S. Ericsson.

The democratic candidate for the county clerk nomination is Royal S. Ericsson, of Cottonwood precinct, who has no opposition within his party. Mr. Ericsson is a Lincoln county man, born in the county thirty-eight years ago and has since resided continuously. He is a farmer by vocation, but devoted several years to teaching school. He is a man who enjoys the full confidence of his neighbors and friends and has the ability to transact the duties of clerk in a creditable manner.

W. D. Waldo.

W. D. Waldo, of North Platte, is one of the three who seeks the democratic nomination for sheriff. Mr. Waldo is an old-timer in Lincoln county, having located here in 1889. In the early days he was a ranchman, but of late years he has devoted his time to running a grading outfit and has done much road grading in different parts of the county. His long residence and his work in the county has given him a large acquaintance and the other democrats for the office will find him a swift man in the race. Mr. Waldo is a courageous, self-reliant man, and if elected sheriff could creditably fill the office.

A Bird's Barbed Wire Fences.

There is in Central America a brown wren about the size of a canary which builds a curious nest. It selects a small tree with horizontal branches growing close together. Across two of the branches it lays sticks fastened together with tough fiber until a platform about six feet long by two feet wide has been constructed. On the end of this platform nearest the tree trunk it then builds a huge dome shaped nest a foot or so high with thick sides of interwoven thorns. A covered passageway is then made from the nest to the end of the platform in as crooked a manner as possible. Across the outer end as well as at short intervals along the inside of this tunnel are placed cunning little fences of thorns with just space enough for the owners to pass through. On going out this opening is closed by the owner by placing thorns across the gateway, and thus the safety of the eggs or young is assured.

How Chalk is Formed.

Deposits of chalk are found on some shores of the sea. A piece of chalk, such as the teacher uses to illustrate something on the blackboard at school, consists of the remains of thousands of tiny creatures that at one time lived in the sea. All of their bodies, excepting the chalk—called carbonate of lime in scientific language—has disappeared and the chalk that was left was piled up where it fell at the bottom of the ocean, each particle pressing over it all until it became almost solid. It took thousands of years to make these chalk deposits of the thickness in which they are found. Later on, through changes in the earth's surface, the mountain of chalk was raised until it stood out of the water and thus became accessible to man and school-teachers.

Not Afraid of Cold Steel.

In her younger days Eugenie, when empress of the French nation, was noted for her great courage, as the following incident proves:

At a brilliant dinner party a somewhat tactless general told her majesty that women should not meddle in politics.

"You know, madame," he said, "that politics lead to war, and if the worse came to the worst you would not have the nerve to face cold steel."

"Wouldn't I?" cried the empress. "I'll show you!" And, snatching a large knife from the table, she inflicted a deep stab on her arm.

After that the general never bronched the subject of woman's lack of nerves again.

Sharpening a Pocketknife.

Cutters have certain rules for sharpening razors, pocketknives, etc. "A razor," said one of the craft quoted by the Scientific American, "must be laid flat on the hone, because it is hollow ground and requires a fine edge. But a pocketknife requires a stiff edge, and the moment you lay it flat on a stone, so as to touch the polished side, you injure the edge. It must be held at an angle of twenty to twenty-five degrees and have an edge similar to a chisel."

Ups and Downs.

Lady (who was on a visit to her native town)—How is Mrs. Gabbie? I haven't seen her for a long time? Hostess—She is having her usual ups and downs. Lady Visitor—And what may that be, I pray? Hostess—Oh, running up bills and running down her neighbors.—Buffalo News.

Joseph Cole, of Hastings, who was the guest of his uncle, J. J. Gettman for several days, left this morning for Brule to accept employment.

How Good Is Your Judgment When It Comes to Buying a Furnace?

Ever picked one out? Do you know the basic principles of heating? Have you any idea what governs the price of a furnace? Could you tell why one construction was more efficient than another? Then come in today, and let's talk this furnace problem over in a simple understandable way.

Let us tell you why we honestly consider the fuel-saving—

GREEN COLONIAL FURNACE

Has Green's Dome Heat Intensifier

the safest and most satisfactory heating investment you can make anywhere—the standard furnace value.

Burns 20% to 40% less fuel than other heating systems because the Dome Heat Intensifier gets that much more heat out of the fuel.

The worst kind of wintry weather will have no terrors for you—your family will always have fresh, warm, perfectly-moistened air to breathe and enjoy.

This furnace—except the grates is guaranteed in writing not to crack or burn out within 5 years.

Simple. Built stronger and differently from any other furnace. Absolutely guaranteed to heat your house 70° no matter how severe the weather.

The Colonial is the furnace you need. Let us install it for you now.
