EAMES AND BEELER TAKE LAND OFFICE

Maxwell Newspaper Man and Hershey Merchant Now Register and Receiver Respectively.

The United States land office was formally turned over to the new appointees, E. J. Eames as register and A. F. Beeler as receiver, last Saturday and those officials assumed their duties yesterday morning. Thus after a number of months of patient waiting, these good democrats have been rewarded, not very generously, it is true, but by a soft berth, so far as labor is concerned, at a wage that will insure three square meals a day.

J. E. Evans, who has been register for nine years and one month, has associated himself with his son, E. H. Evans, in the practice of law with offices in the Keith theatre building.
Ira L. Bare, receiver for five years and one month, will give all his attention to The Tribune where, surrounded by the aroma of ink from the presses and gas from the linotype, he will be in his element, happier than the man who wears the crown of a kingdom.
