WAR AVERTED BY PEOPLE NOT BY THE PRESIDENT

Newton D. Baker, secretary of war, asserts that President Wilson's principal claim for re-election is based on the fact that he has kept the country out of war. As a matter of fact that claim is about as empty as the munitions prosperity asset. Once the president went to war with Mexico, at Vera Cruz, and recently created a state of war by invading that country with a punitive expedition. In each instance the sentiment of the people prevented him from going the whole length of the rope. There is little reason to doubt that he would have been at war with Germany had it not been for Secretary of State Bryan and the sobering sentiment of the country which had an effect upon him. Quick expression of the popular voice of the country has twice at least snatched him from the brink of war. The American people have preserved peace only by insisting upon it.—Kearney Hub.

THE CAUSE OF SHORTAGE OF UNSKILLED LABORERS

According to the immigration office nearly 500,000 persons emigrated from this country in the last two years, or since the beginning of the war, a very considerable percentage of whom were part of the national force of common laborers. The higher prices commanded by skilled labor and the demand in excess of the available supply has increased the normal rate of graduation from the unskilled to the skilled ranks, which goes on continually, and there has been no adequate supply to make up the decimation of the former. Immigration, which usually supplies the last two years less than a fifth of the normal impouring, and the percentage of able-bodied laborers in this diminished immigration is reduced.

Henry Chamberlain Buried Here

The remains of the late Henry Chamberlain, who died at Brownlee last week, were brought to this city Friday evening and the funeral held Saturday afternoon at three o'clock from the Seventh Day Adventist church. Death followed eight hours after injuries received in a runaway the fore part of last week, when the deceased was thrown from his wagon and stamped upon by the team. He was forty-one years of age and had frequently visited here for several months at a time. To mourn him are left his two daughters, who reside at Woodlake, sister, Mrs. Lucy Landor of Alfred, Me., and brothers Ralph and Bert Chamberlain of this city.

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Two futile invasions of Mexico and six separate and distinct policies on the question of permitting arms and ammunition to be sent into that country are included in the performance of the Wilson administration in its dealings with our southern neighbors in less than three years. It is this characteristic instability of the government that makes people want a change.

Bryan reiterates that he is out for Wilson. "Hark from the tomb a doleful sound."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The stopping of Governor Hughes' auto by a Canadian soldier will not matter, inasmuch as the band wagon's progress is not to be interrupted.

Democrats who harbored hopes that Josephus would catch the virus from the Bryan and Garrison resignations are still nursing their disappointment. Nothing remains for them but to resign to a realization that Josephus will not resign.

"Inadequate" aptly characterizes the Wilson administration, but almost any synonym of unsatisfactory will do.

When Charles E. Hughes said: "The dealings of the administration with Mexico constitute a confused chapter of blunders," he gave an explicit characterization of the Wilson administration's policy in one sentence.

Just as it is now obstinately shutting its eyes to the need of industrial preparedness, for three years the Wilson administration refused to see the need of adequate military preparedness. With war on our southern border it was content to rely on a regular army that could only muster 40,000 available men and refused to continue the established policy of building up our navy. When the time came for action the country had not sufficient troops to police the border, and this force has been supplemented by a trifle more than one-third the war strength of the national guard. If the national administration had had the ability to interpret the signs of the time military preparedness would have been well under way instead of barely begun.

Charles E. Hughes, the Republican candidate, recognizes an important fact that Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic president, appears to have overlooked—that the United States is big enough to help Mexico out of the condition of anarchy in which that country is plunged and, by securing order in Mexico, insure peace on our border.

The insuperable handicap of the Democratic party in this campaign is its record.

If the Democratic national administration had left on the statute books in 1894 the federal corrupt practices act placed there by the Republicans there would be no occasion for the present administration's campaign publicity measure, which at best is a very poor substitute for the law repealed.

President Wilson's campaign managers are entitled to all the comfort they can get out of calling the roll of Progressives who are going to vote for him. It would be an endless task to call the roll of Progressives who are not going to vote for him.

For every reason that can be advanced why Progressives should vote for Wilson ten can be advanced why they should vote for Hughes, and the beauty of it is that they know the reasons without having to be told.

The Wilson administration went into Mexico to punish Villa for his outrage on American soil. The only punishment inflicted has been on American soldiers, who were shot down at Carrizal by order of First Chief Carranza.

"Franklin Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, sees a strong trend for Wilson in Maine."—News Dispatch. Who can blame a man who for three years has been assistant to Josephus Daniels for "seeing things"?

Even Woodrow Wilson could not save the infamous Clarke amendment to the Philippines bill. He lost the ablest member of his cabinet, Secretary Garrison, because of his advocacy of the policy of scuttling, but even the sacrifice of Garrison could not save it.

WILSON'S POLICIES BLOWN UP.

Charles Evans Hughes did have explosives with him when his motorcar was searched by a Canadian soldier, but they were under the candidate's hat. Mr. Hughes will set them off on his western tour, and some of Mr. Wilson's policies will be blown up.—New York Sun.

Maxwell

$595 Maxwell cars have greater, actual, delivered horsepower, per pound of weight, than any car built.

POWER must be reckoned in reference to the weight involved. This is the big underlying truth that is often overlooked in careless statements about horsepower. We repeat that Maxwell cars have greater horsepower, per pound of weight, than any car built. This has been proved within the last six months by four competitive tests made in the two leading scientific schools of the United States. The point for you to remember is this: Maxwell cars will take you anywhere that any car will take you and they'll take you as fast as you'll dare to travel. We are ready to prove any and all of our statements.
