

Worthy Wedding Rings

The custom of placing the wedding ring on the fourth finger owes its origin to the pretty fancy of bygone days that a special nerve ran from this finger directly to the heart.

As the pledge and symbol of mutual affection, the plain gold band is still in greatest favor. Our wedding rings are handwrought and seamless, in either 14 or 18 kt. gold. Finer rings are not made. In the two popular styles—the wide band and the plump, narrow band—we carry all sizes in stock.

Wind Wrecks Tent.

The violent wind storm Friday night ripped the top of the tent at the celebration grounds and broke off one of the main poles. A new and larger tent was wired for and it arrived Sunday morning and was placed in position yesterday. The new tent which will be used for the Cinderella and Queen's balls, is much larger than the one damaged.

The Parade Route.

The route of the historical float parade to be given at two o'clock Thursday afternoon will be as follows:

Starting at the float garage on east Front the parade will move west on Front to Locust south on Locust to Third, east on Third to Dewey, north on Dewey to Front, west on Front to Locust, north on Locust to the city park.

Ball is Not Formal.

While the Queen's ball Thursday evening at the Elbeeden club was the most elaborate social function the city has ever known, it will not be a formal affair so far as gowns and evening suits are concerned. The weather promises to be warm, and men will not be asked to wear full dress suits. Reports have been current that such would be required of the men, but this is incorrect. Comfortable dancing clothes will be the order of the evening.

Who is the King?

Who is the King who will be crowned at the Queen's ball Thursday evening by the Lord High Prelate? That is a question that has been asked by hundreds. Well, The Tribune can't tell you. There are just two men who know the secret and they positively refuse to divulge. The identity of the King will not be known until he appears arrayed in his robes at the ball.
