MACCABEES START CAMPAIGN FOR 2,000 NEW MEMBERS.

A campaign to enlist 2,000 women in the Women's Benefit Association of the Maccabees has begun with Mrs. Agnes T. Boyer state commander, as leader, who has just returned from the silver anniversary of the founding of the order at Port Huron, Mich. At this meeting, to which Mrs. Boyer was delegate from Nebraska, and which was attended from representatives from all over the world, the women of the association unanimously voted to purchase $200,000 worth of Liberty bonds.

In addition to this subscription for bonds a fund of $200,000 was voted to be used in aiding sons of the women members of the order who come back from the war disabled. This will aid in bringing them back to usefulness, in teaching them new trades and professions, so that they can once again enter industrial life.

Have Reserve Fund.

The women of the order, of whom 9,000 met at Port Huron the first week in this month, made no empty promises in these matters, for in a bank of that city the order has a reserve fund of twelve million dollars, evidence that women make good business managers.

Miss Bina West started the Maccabees twenty-five years ago, borrowing from this same bank $150.00 for office expenses. Miss West, the founder of this order whose silver anniversary is now being celebrated, also organized the local Review twenty-four years ago with a charter membership of eighty-seven members. A vigorous campaign is now on for a big class toward their bit in this celebration.

Dedicate Headquarters.

At this rally held the first of this month in Port Huron many distinguished guests were present, and President Wilson wired his congratulations. The meeting was also an international convention of the order. A $200,000 headquarters building was dedicated in Port Huron.

In the drive for 2,000 new members Mrs. Boyer has the pledge of the majority of the members to assist her in this work.

What Prices Can Be Fixed

There has been much discussion about what prices the Food Administration can fix. Prices have been fixed on coal and wheat by authority conferred by the food control legislation. Prices have also been fixed on iron and its products but not under the food control law. This was done by agreement with the iron and steel industries and is voluntary on their part.

The food control legislation confers power on the president to fix prices on coal and if necessary to buy and sell it. It also confers authority to buy and sell, and therefore to fix prices on wheat, flour, meal, beans and potatoes. These are the only articles over which the president is given the price fixing power.

The president is given power to license any business of the country where the business transacted annually exceeds $100,000. The power under such license is conferred to regulate profits in any line of business but not to fix prices. Authority is given over fertilizer and agricultural implements under the license provision but the power to fix the prices is not conferred—only the power to regulate profits.

The question is often raised in regard to the price of live stock, meats, corn, etc. The food administration acting for the president can not under the present law fix prices on these things because the authority to do that is not conferred. What the next congress might do in that line is not known, but until congress does act no one has the power to fix prices on any commodity except as stated above.

The regulation of profits, which may be done now in any line of business, is an entirely different thing from the fixing of positive prices. It will eliminate speculation but it will not prevent high prices if they are due to causes other than speculation.

E. O. Johnson, living near Nichols, who was a Tribune caller Saturday, said some of his beets were yielding as high as twenty tons per acre and that the twenty acre field would average not less than fifteen tons per acre. Up to Saturday he had harvested about one-third of the crop.

TWO THINGS YOU SHOULD DO.

This monthly check will replace the salary or earning ability that every professional, business man, farmer, ranchman or tradesman may have. OLD LINE MONTHLY INCOME from policies are in demand. Railroad Men for France

Engineers Pat McHugh and H. O. Bergstrom, firemen F. C. Pleyette and D. V. Ford, brakeman Lester Rourke and switchman C. R. Cool, who enlisted in the engineering corps of the federal service, left Saturday for Ft. Logan, near Denver. There they will be examined physically and if passed will be classified, and within two weeks will be on their way to France. These young men enter a very important branch of the service—that of transporting ammunition to the front—and while they may not get on the firing lines, they will get mighty close to them, and will be within hearing distance of the constantly exploding shells.

Several other North Platte railroad men are contemplating enlisting in the same service.

While in Brady Friday evening The Tribune man met Col. Wm. Beatty who had just finished a hard day's work at making cider. The Colonel's apple orchard was hit by the frost to some extent and he was converting the nipped apples into cider. His crop of apples was around a thousand bushels.

Sacrifices as to Usage of Coal.

Chairman Garfield announces that the public will have to make patriotic sacrifices this winter with regard to usage of coal. He asks the public not to grow hysterical regarding the coal supply as every need, domestic and war will be met under the system which is to be carried out.

The people are urged to wire Garfield as fuel administrator, should their dealers absolutely refuse to deliver coal or hold deliveries for too long a time. The administrator makes it plain that war emergency needs will be great and that the supply of army and navy must be filled at all costs but that the public will not be permitted to suffer for want of fuel. The government will take every possible precaution to prevent suffering because of want for coal.

Prospecting for Oil.

F. W. Eastman and H. Bookover, representing the Prairie Oil and Gas Co., were in town a few days ago. These men made a trip from Julesburg to this city for the purpose of investigating the geological formation and the possibility of the lower strata containing oil. These men represent the company that started drilling in Banner county.
