North Platte people are again "seen" aeroplanes. A man stopped on the streets Wednesday and said, "did you see the flying machine last night. It was sure a machine. The Western Union company will place its wires on Front street in an underground conduit for a distance over two and one-half blocks. The west end of the conduit will be at a point opposite the Bratt building and the east end at Chestnut street. This does away with unsightly poles and wires in the immediate vicinity of the new depot. It is to be regretted that the Union Pacific did not run its light wires underground to the new depot and thus do away with the two steel poles which with the wires mar the appearance of the depot on the south side.

THE PROPER HOUSING OF THE PEOPLE IS THE NATION'S GREATEST WORK.

What the Coates Lumber Company is Doing for North Platte.

When the Coates Lumber Company secured the local representation of the Keith Corporation, America's acknowledged Construction Artists and Home Designers, it was from a broader view than merely the financial advantage or prestige.

It was felt that North Platte was entitled to have every possible opportunity to become a city of beautiful homes—and with the famous Keith plans, and the services of the Keith architects, such an opportunity would be afforded.

A large collection of beautiful designs are being shown by the Coates Lumber Company to prospective home builders, and from the great interest shown we expect to see a number of most attractive dwellings being built in the very near future.

In planning these homes, the architects called into consultation domestic science experts; they secured the criticism and the suggestions of women all over the country, who know what housework meant; they tested every design on paper and then prove it by actual construction.

These plans are not meant merely to add to the number of houses built—they are intended to set a standard of living for the community.

And in showing this collection of photographs, The Coates Lumber Company is not offering just a lot of "plans"—but a way of securing the most artistic building, the most home space, the most convenient interior arrangement and the best grade of construction, for the least money.

The exterior beauty of the Keith plans places them beyond competition. They are landmarks in every community in which they have been built.

But dwellings should not be constructed merely to excite the envy or the admiration of one's neighbors. Their main purpose should be to afford proper protection for the inmates and to make life easy, pleasant and comfortable.

It is this combination of exterior and interior beauty with scientific arrangement of rooms that has given the Keith home plans their great reputation.

An inspection of those beautiful designs will be time well spent.

Will Postpone Examinations.

Up to last evening 210 Lincoln county boys had been given the medical examination by the exemption board, another thirty more will be examined today. Those examined yesterday were under the new regulations which were received Thursday and those examined today will also be under the new rules. These late regulations call for a less strict examination and will result in accepting men who under the earlier regulations would have been rejected.

The exemption board say that additional men for examination will not be called for several days, perhaps a week. Each of the 240 men who, by the class of today, will have been examined, will need be officially notified of the result of the examination in order that it may become part of the record, and then the registrant has five days in which to make an appeal to the district board for re-examination. Until those who have been examined have been thus notified no further calls for examination will be made. So far less than one-fourth of the total number of registrants have been examined.

"When does the next Douglas Fairbanks picture appear?" This is one of the most persistent inquiries with which Manager Garman of the Keith theatre is confronted daily. Since the athletic screen favorite formed his own company and began releasing his pictures through Arctcraft the sensational success of "In Again—Out Again" and "Wild and Woolly" has more than ever brought him to the foreground as the ideal American and the nation's favorite comedian. "Down to Earth," his newest Arctcraft offering recently engaged for presentation at the Keith theatre, will be shown there Monday and Tuesday and that this production will more than satisfy the countless admirers of this intimitable actor is assured.
