EDITORIAL MISCELLANY

The purchasing of Liberty Bonds is a patriotic duty and should represent savings and the ability to invest. They should not be offered for the satisfaction of obligations unless absolutely necessary.

Let us have no frenzy in placing the coming Liberty Loan. Let us not seil an individual beyond his means. cause embarrassment.

The National Committee of Patriotic Societies, Washington, D. C., is offering a $50 Liberty Bond for a prize essny on "There should be a bond in every home." This contest is open to high schools which put on a campaign for the sale of Liberty

The slogan of the coming Liberty Loan campaign is "Your share is

Every man who buys a third Liberty Bond wants to do his part, but he does not want to make good the deficiency of a financial slacker.

The National Credit Men's Association advises strengly against the acceptance of Liberty Loan bonds for the payment of obligations and offering them on the open market.

Every man, woman and child, who can purchase Liberty Loan bonds from savings should do so in order that the banks will not have to tie up too large a portion of their loanable funds which would cause business stagnation.

Let business men ponder seriously and prevent the embarrassment which will follow if the coming Liberty Loan is not placed with all the people.

United States 4 per cent bonds in 1901 brought 139% on the stock market. Liberty Loan bonds will sell above par as soon as the war is

No United States bondholder has ever lost a cent of principal or interest except those who voluntarily have taken losses by selling their bonds in a period of temporary price depres-

One hundred cents on the dollar, principal and interest, has the United States always paid its bondholders, and always will.

The coming Liberty Loan plans are being delayed by Congress, which is proceeding in a very leisurely way in a time of stress. If Congress would only do quickly whatever it is going to do, then the Treasury could also get on with its task.

The banks of the United States could float the coming Liberty Loan in a minute, but the result would wreck our financial system and prove a national calamity. The people must help in the task.

The millionaires of America might purchase from their available cash one billion dollars worth of Liberty by Howard Chandler Christy for use C. Bonds, but nobody but the American in the third Liberty Loan cam-our national resources stands the Christy has risen to new heights in J. H. G. Chamberlain Loan bonds are the safest security in of freedom and victory.

It is for the people to lend their Government the amount of money It needs and take as security the best and soundest financial paper that has ever been issued by any government.

If the Government can take our boys, our products, our industries and our rallroads, it can take our money; but never let it be said that it was necessary to conscript wealth to win the war.

All honor is due the splendid services of the many Liberty Loan workers in the state of Nebraska who are donating their services to the Govarnment. They should receive the full co-operation of all the people in the performance of the task set before them.

The women of Nebraska will take an important part in the work of selling the third Liberty Loan bonds.

"MY DADDY."

The likeness of some little blonde American child, whose identity is not revealed, will appear on a half million Let us have no come backs which will posters throughout the country during the Third Liberty Loan campaign, She clasps a Liberty Bond in her two hands and proudly proclaims that her "Daddy" has bought her a Government security. The poster is considered by art authorities to be one of the best of a child variety that has been produced in any of the governmental publicity campaigns since the war started.

HALT the HUN!

"HALT THE HUN!"

One of the strongest posters to be used in the third Liberty Loan campaign is entitled "Hait the Hun." It was drawn by Henry Raleigh. Five hundred thousand of these posters, in six colors, have been prepared for distribution. The composition and colorings are very striking, all of the figures being in black crayon set againt a buff background, which is strenked with flames of lurid red. The powerful appeal "Halt the Hun" stands V forth in strong red lettering.
