

1—First photograph of the new Lewis machine gun for use on American airplanes. 2—American marines concentrated on the west front for advance to the firing line. 3—A sturdy little British soldier bringing in his private Hun prisoner.

DISMOUNTED BRITISH CAVALRY HURRY TO HELP INFANTRY

British cavalry has played a big part in stopping the rush of the Huns in Picardy. This photograph shows a party of cavalymen dismounting and going to the aid of a hard-pressed infantry regiment.

FRENCH AND AMERICANS IN GRENADE ATTACK

Frenchmen and Americans are advancing across No Man's Land, somewhere on the front in France. They are moving cautiously, ready to use the grenades they are carrying in the sacks slung over their shoulders.

THEIR BRAVERY REWARDED

General Gaucher of the French army, decorating an American officer and an American soldier for bravery in a recent bombardment.

U. S. ENGINEERS EXTEND TRENCH LINES

American engineers are doing splendid work in extending and perfecting the trench system in the American sector in France. Demolished walls and ruined buildings are considered especially valuable for the establishment of intermediate depots and posts. This American engineer is converting a tunnel into a post command by the quick methods known to army constructors.

ACTRESS HELD AS A SPY

Mlle. Suzy Dapsy, one of the most beautiful women on the Parisian stage, is now being held in France as a spy. She is formally charged with maintaining relations with the enemy. Her husband, Emil Guiller, former manager of the American prize fighter, Sam McVey, is also under arrest on an espionage charge. Mlle. Dapsy became noted for her beauty while playing minor roles at the Theatre Sarah Bernhardt in Paris.

AMERICAN MARINES SENDING MESSAGES IN FRANCE

Members of the United States Marine corps in France sending messages to comrades.

ITALIAN INFANTRY REST WHILE CAVALRY MOVE ON

Tired from the strenuousness of the battle, these Italian infantrymen threw themselves on the ground, wrapped themselves in blankets and overcoats and fell asleep immediately. While these men are resting the cavalymen come up from behind and still keep moving on. The photograph presents a most unusual sight.

RUSSIAN HEROINE HERE

Mme. Leonina Botchkareva, founder and leader of the famous Russian women's Battalion of Death, who arrived at a Pacific port en route to France, where she will offer her services to the allies. At the time of the downfall of Kerensky Mme. Botchkareva was smuggled out of Moscow and taken to Vladivostok, where she took refuge on a British war vessel.

At the Depot.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "that young man in the bureau of information wouldn't answer a single question I asked him this morning."

"Whaddidly ask him?" "I asked him how long the government will operate the railroads and whether trains will run any faster and fares be any cheaper. All he would say was that he didn't know. I believe that young man is being censored."

Boasts Herd of Trained Cattle.

The versatility of cattle is being demonstrated by a farmer in West Brookfield, Mass., who is said to get entertainment as well as profit from his Guernsey herd. The farmer has taught his herd to do various tricks, such as rolling a barrel around the barnyard and the like, and he has a special wooden platform whereon the cattle have their particular places and performances.

RESTING AMONG DEADLY BOMBS

British Tommies take possession of a German hand grenade dump after a counter-attack in Picardy. They are shown resting at ease among the death-dealing bombs.

AMERICAN SOUP KITCHEN IN ITALY

The canteen service of the American Red Cross has given a number of portable kitchen trucks to the Italian government. The photograph shows one of the new trucks.