Donald was one of the honor cadets at the academy last year.

Porter Emerson Browns the dramatist who wrote A Fool There Was—and The Spendthrift—and who writes some of the most lively short stories today is the author of Joan of Plattsburg—the patriotic picture showing at the Keith Wednesday and Thursday. This picture was taken at Plattsburg, New York and has the real military air. It especially answers the question of what women can do to help win the war.

Elsewhere the county commissioners publish a notice prohibiting bathing in the South Platte river at or near the new bridge, and the sheriff has been instructed to enforce the order. In view of the fact that two boys have drowned in the deep holes near the bridge within the past month the order of the commissioners is to be commended. These deep holes are filled with spring water, that is water that comes from beneath, and even an experienced swimmer is liable to be seized with cramps and become helpless. The obedience of the commissioners' orders will result in no further loss of life.

MISS FLORENCE IDDINGS AND LIEUT. RYAN ARE WEDDED.

Miss Florence Elizabeth Iddings, of this city, was married in New York City August 1st to Lieut. David L. Ryan, now with an aero squadron of the army, and a former North Platte young man. Though the approaching ceremony was known to the members of the two families and to the more intimate friends of Miss Iddings, it comes as a surprise to North Platte people generally.

Miss Iddings left the latter part of July for the east for the announced purpose of accepting a clerical position in Washington, D. C. When she reached Chicago she was joined by her aunt, Mrs. W. B. Conklin and they proceeded to New York where the wedding was held at the home of Mrs. Conklin's daughter.

It is understood that Lieut. Ryan is shortly to be sent overseas, and that during his absence Mrs. Ryan will fill a clerkship in one of the departments at Washington.

The wedding is the consummation of a friendship when the two were classmates in the North Platte high school, from which both graduated. Mrs. Ryan later entered a college at Bryn Mawr, Pa., and graduated with honors.

Many Troop Trains.

Between the hours of midnight Friday and noon Saturday eight troop trains passed east. The trains averaged about 500 men each. Three of the trains arriving Saturday forenoon were served by the Red Cross local canteen, and the men were given exercise by marching and drills.

J. P. MURRAY

How Proverbs Travel.

Proverbs undoubtedly have a tendency to travel; they are carried from one land to another by emigrants, tourists, missionaries, tradesmen and seamen; but many which are closely similar doubtless owe their origin to no common stock, but the common experience of mankind.

Domestic Tragedy.

Wife (returned from overnight visit)—"Did you get yourself a good dinner last evening, dear?" Hub—"Yes, there was a bit of steak in the ice box and I cooked it with a few onions I found in the cellar." Wife—"Onions? Jack, you've eaten my bulbs."—Boston Transcript.

Candidate for Republican Nomination

For United States Senator Congressman

Charles H. Sloan

Was four times elected Congressman in Fourth District with increased majority each succeeding election. In 1916 ran nearly ten thousand ahead of his ticket.

Only Republican Congressman from Nebraska in its fifty-one years of history, who attained membership on Ways and Means Committee, the most important Committee of the House of Representatives, and the one having jurisdiction to prepare and present tariff, revenue and bond bills.

Is a graduate of an Agriculture College, resides on and conducts a large farm. Has made a thorough study of the agricultural interests of Nebraska and the Northwest. Is recognized on the floor of the House as an authority on agricultural subjects.

Has conducted a persistent fight against the discrimination in democratic tariff and other legislation in favor of southern agricultural products, and against those of the north. Has opposed price fixing and market control legislation for northern products while in no wise interfering with those of the south.

Framed and forced through Congress measure for the control and the eradication of hog cholera. Under the working of this legislation the department of agriculture estimates hog production increased twenty per cent and a decrease of loss of nearly fifty per cent. This was pronounced by an eminent authority as one of the best measures of food preparedness Congress enacted prior to the War.

Presented a bill and furnished argument before Committee and the House for a similar measure for the eradication of tuberculosis in live stock which passed the recent Congress.

Has always advocated and voted for a large Navy and an adequate Army. Has supported every completed War measure for the successful prosecution of the War.

Is active in both Committee and the House and is recognized as one of the ablest debaters in Congress.

Profits and Prices

Profits may be considered from two angles:

- 1st—Their effect on prices;
- 2nd—As a return to investors.

When profits are small as compared with sales, they have little effect on prices.

Swift & Company's profits are only a fraction of a cent per pound on all products sold, and if eliminated entirely would have practically no effect on prices.

Swift & Company paid 10 per cent dividends to over 20,000 stockholders out of its 1917 profits. It also had to build extensions and improvements out of profits; to finance large stocks of goods made necessary by unprecedented requirements of the United States and Allied Governments; and to provide protection against the day of declining markets.

Is it fair to call this profiteering?

Swift & Company, U.S.A.
