

D. W. GRIFFITH presents "THE GREAT LOVE"

With practically the same cast as the Birth of a Nation LILLIAN GISH, ROBERT HARRON, HENRY WALTHALL and GEO. FAWCETT. You saw them in the Birth of a Nation, now you see them in the Great Love, a mighty story of woman's regeneration by war. The hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that can wield a weapon when need be.

TWO QUINN CHILDREN DIE OF SPINAL MENINGITIS.

Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Quinn, who live on the J. I. Smith farm at the Baker school house four miles west of town, died Wednesday night of spinal meningitis. These children, one an infant but a few months old, the other three years old, were taken sick about four o'clock Tuesday afternoon. A physician was summoned during the evening and he at first pronounced them suffering from some sort of poisoning but later developments convinced him that both were cases of spinal meningitis. One of the children died about two o'clock at night, the other about five hours later.

The sudden death of their loved ones, their only children, came as a devastating shock to the parents, and they are receiving the assistance and condolences of friends and neighbors. 3-10-1

Bessie Barriscale thrilled a big crowd of onlookers during the filming of her latest Paralta Play, "Rose O' Paradise," when she was called upon to perform a most hazardous feat high above the ground on the side of a roof of a building in Los Angeles alley. The crowd stood breathless below while the little star climbed carefully out of the window and along a narrow ledge. The scene when presented on the screen represents Miss Barriscale as Jinny in the act of making her escape from a deserted building in the slums of the city where she had been held prisoner by her scheming uncle, who is endeavoring to secure a fortune which is rightfully hers. James Young, who directed the making of the production, wished to have the scene enacted by a substitute for Miss Barriscale, but she would not listen to the idea and made a thrilling scene without any outward indication of nervousness. This accomplishment marks another departure of Miss Barriscale's work before the camera. She had never before been called upon to attempt the performance of any such risky feat, and those who see her in "Rose O' Paradise," which comes to the SUN Theatre Saturday will gasp as did the onlookers when the scene was enacted before the camera. 3-10-1

Tomorrow Last Day.

WET AND COLD IN FRANCE SAYS RAUCH.

Joe Rauch, writing to the home folks from Elommo, France, under date of December 30th, says:

"We are drilling every day and take a hike nearly every morning, with our pack and believe me it is some load when wet with rain. In this pack we carry three blankets, a rain coat, overcoat, pack carrier, extra shirt and underwear, three pairs of heavy socks, extra pair of shoes, tent, pole and pins, shaving outfit, towels, steel helmet, gas mask, cartridge belt and rifle. Some load, don't you think. We had battalion inspection Thursday and all who didn't have their full equipment were red-lined. I had all of mine.

It is still raining here and cold and it is a wonder that half the boys do not contract pneumonia or rheumatism. I have a bad cold and am fighting to keep it from getting me down and out. Some of the boys kick about drilling, but I believe that if it were not that we kept hardened by the exercises we would not be able to stand the cold, wet weather.

Don't know when we are to leave here. One report is that we are to go home, another that we will be sent to Siberia. 3-10-1

DEAR PUBLIC:

Many of you have been neglecting the most important and precious thing you have and that is your eyes. When they get red, burn and smart at the picture show or your head aches, that is their only way of crying for help. See HARRY DIXON & SON, Eye-Sight Specialists today. They are equipped to give the very highest grade of eye service. Yours truly, GOOD ADVICE. 3-10-1

Mrs. Robinson Dies in Portland.

A telegram received by John Day Wednesday announced the death of Mrs. B. L. Robinson at the home of her son Guy in Portland. The deceased was for thirty or more years a resident of North Platte, leaving here in 1912 to make her home with her son in Portland, following the death of her husband. She was sixty-two years of age, and had lived a devout christian life. 3-10-1
