FASHIONABLE GIRLS' SCHOOL IN METRO PLAY.

An original and charming scene, a graduation day at a girls' school, will be one of the attractive features in "The Return of Mary," the Metro production in which May Allison is starred and which will be shown at the SUN Theatre Wednesday.

Not only was the scene taken in an exclusive girls' school in San Bernardino, California, but a score or more of the young girls, daughters of families of wealth and prominence in the west, were allowed by the principal of the school to appear in Miss Allison's picture. To these girls this was a delightful novelty and their enthusiasm and vivacity added greatly to the animation of the pretty scene.

The "graduation" took place under a pagoda in front of the school which was appropriately decorated with several hundred yards of bunting, seventy-five U. S. shields, two hundred potted palms and plants besides bushels of freshly cut roses and other flowers from the gardens surrounding the school. It was such an unusual event in the even life of the school that a holiday was declared.

Yankees to Quit Russia.

Washington.—Steps toward the strengthening of the position of American and allied troops in northern Russia as a preliminary to their safe withdrawal in the near future are under way at the direction of the supreme war council.

Secretary Baker, transmitting this information from President Wilson to the house military committee yesterday, said all the American soldiers should be out of Russia this spring.

To facilitate the withdrawal additional forces are being dispatched to the scene. Great Britain is sending 2,400 troops and the United States railroad engineer units numbering about 500 men. Secretary Baker notified the house military committee yesterday that President Wilson had informed him of the plans, and again gave assurance that the American soldiers were in no danger of being cut off.

Liquor Interests Line Up.

New York.—The fight to have the prohibition amendment declared null and void will be waged simultaneously in every state in the union, irrespective of whether the states have no referendum clauses in their constitution, according to Levy Mayer, who is at a hotel here preparing as chief counsel for the distillers of the United States to direct the fight.

The office of Water Commissioner Welch is being moved from Dewey street to the fire station.

William Harold Calkins was born January 19th, 1919, and passed on into the great beyond February 15th, lingering but a few short weeks with those God gave him to. He endeared himself to them, and to all others who knew him, as only an innocent baby can. He is just another flower to bloom in God's garden of love; just another shining star to lead us to the home where peace and love reign supreme.
