The school census of the North Platte district for the year 1918 showed 1983 children of school age, sixty-three of whom were in the section tributary to the Baker school. Of the total 1904 were boys and 979 girls. The increase each year for the past few years has been about 150, so we may expect the 1919 census to show a total of practically 2,150.

For Sale or Trade—A registered Percheron stallion. Louis Refior. North Platte, Phone 785F3.

In the district declamatory contest at Kearney Thursday evening, in which North Platte was represented by Miss Elsie Waltemath, first prize in the dramatic section went to Ruby Morris of Kearney, and second prize to Olive Hansen of Clay Center. C. M. Trotter and F. L. Mooney returned Saturday afternoon from Holdrege where they attended the auto show put on by the dealers of that city. They spent Friday evening at the show, which was held in a building somewhat larger than the Lloyd opera house and the attendance that evening was 1500. Both gentlemen returned feeling very much enthused over auto shows and predict that the North Platte show April 10-12 will be a great success.

A train load of the 37th Engineers enroute to Camp Lewis for demobilization, passed through Sunday afternoon. The boys had been overseas for eight months, and saw real fighting around Chateau Thierry. Following the cessation of the war they were sent to the Rhine. Many of the boys wore the German iron crosses which they purchased at stores for $2 each. Later an order was issued prohibiting purchasing them.

Mrs. E. Kunkle is reported to be convalescing after a very serious illness.

"THE FIGHTING ROOSEVELTS" PICTURIZATION OF MANY FACTS IN EX-PRESIDENT'S LIFE

Shows Theodore Roosevelt's Career as Boy, Youth and Man—Famous Men Portrayed.

When you see "The Fighting Roosevelts" at the Sun theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, as the authorized version of the life and works of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, you will witness a life history enacted with surprising fidelity to facts, and portrayed by actors whose likenesses to the famous men of Roosevelt's political life are startlingly realistic.

Such celebrated Americans as President McKinley, Mr. Roosevelt of the days when he was New York's Police Commissioner when he was a member of the New York State Legislature, and later as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and finally as President, Admiral Sims in the days when he was a junior lieutenant in the Navy, General John J. Pershing at the time when he ranked only as a Captain, Major General Leonard Wood in his early military career, and many other men whose names are written large in the political and military life of the country, are represented by actors whose likenesses to their prototypes are almost indistinguishable from the original character themselves.

Exhaustive Search for Types

Theatre patrons will have no means of learning, from the completed production of "The Fighting Roosevelts," the great amount of search and patience that were required to locate actors who were qualified physically and in ability to enact the roles assigned them. Weeks of investigation were necessary before William Nigh, who directed the picture found a man to play the part of Mr. Roosevelt as Governor of New York and as the President. An actor with a sufficiently strong resemblance to William McKinley was discovered only after the director and his staff had about given up all hope of success.

Some Price for Hay

Burkhard Bros. sold a car of hay last week to Ben Nannan of Princeton, Nebraska, that brought them $596.50 on track at Sutherland, an average of $1.15 per bale. If the price was then as now it would have brought $650.25. Three years ago the same car load would have brought only $60. Who says there is no money in making hay?—Sutherland Courier.

Dodge Wins Again

(Reprint—Omaha Daily Bee, March 26, 1919.

West Point, Neb., March 25.—(Special) A very exciting sporting event took place Sunday afternoon when Lester Weisner, driving a Dodge Brothers car, won a two and a half mile race around West Point's half mile race track, beating Arthur Wendt, driving a Nash. The time of two minutes and 22 seconds was remarkably fast considering the short length of the track. Weisner taking the turns at top speed. Handling his car in a skillful manner, he experienced not a single mishap, and the Dodge was as fit after the race as before. The race was for a purse of $50 and was the first auto race on the West Point track for a number of years.

These Dodge Brothers cars have shown wonderful power to pull, a bit of speed, when needed, even too much for many of the sixes, and withal are very economical on gas, oil and tires. Isn't this about the sort of a car you need? Remember the U. S. government tested them for you
