

WITH FINGERS! CORNS LIFT OUT

Freezone is magic! Corns and calluses lift right off— Doesn't hurt a bit

A few cents buys a tiny bottle of the magic Freezone at any drug store. Apply a few drops of Freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a callus. Instantly that troublesome corn or callus stops hurting, then shortly you lift it out, root and all, without any pain, soreness or irritation. These little bottles of Freezone contain just enough to rid the feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes and the calluses on bottom of feet. So easy! So simple. Why wait? No humbug!

Just Like a Woman.

A young American soldier, who was married just before sailing, was so fired with patriotism that he was certain he would have an opportunity to do something heroic before the war came to an end. He mentioned this in a letter to his wife, and told her he hoped to bring her the Croix de Guerre from France. But the youthful patriot received this reply from his better half: "It's so sweet of you, dear, to offer to bring me the Croix de Guerre you mentioned, but if it's just the same to you, I'd rather have a hat from Paris!"

Not Us.

An old man, rich in this world's goods, who had accumulated ninety-six years of age to his credit, went to a fortune teller to see what the future held for him.

"Sir," said the soothsayer, as she grasped his palm and looked into his wrinkled mysteries, "I predict for you a long life." Then she added as he in his exuberance of joy handed her a yellowback of large denomination, "With plenty of money." Now who would gainsay that each had received the worth of the old man's money?

COULD NOT SLEEP

Mr. Schleuser in Misery From Kidney Complaint. Doan's Gave Complete Relief.

"Heavy work brought on my kidney complaint," says Wm. Schleuser, 6408 Suburban Ave., Wellston, Mo. "One morning when shoeing a horse I was taken with a sudden pain in my back and fell flat on the floor. If I had been hit with a trip hammer, I couldn't have suffered more. I stayed in the house for five weeks and the pain was wearing the life out of me. At times, I couldn't get a wink of sleep because of the misery and I had to get up every few moments to pass the secretions that were highly colored, of foul odor, filled with sandy sediment and terribly scalding. My bladder felt as though it were a fire. The pain brought stupor and a reeling sensation in my head; the torture of it cannot be described. If I got onto my feet I couldn't walk but felt dizzy and all in a flutter and everything would turn black. My head ached so it seemed as though my eyes were being dragged out. I started using Doan's Kidney Pills and I was soon rid of all the trouble."

Subscribed and sworn to before me.

TORPEDOED TRANSPORT COVINGTON SINKING

Torpedoed by a Hun submarine July 2, while she was about 100 miles off Brest bound for the United States, the transport Covington immediately began to sink. This unusual photograph, taken the next day, shows the Covington listing heavily, a short time before the end came.

HORATIUS HAD NOTHING ON HIM

Tony Held Mountain Pass When Austrian Hordes Attacked It.

BODIES IN HEAPS ABOUT HIM

Stood All Alone Working Sputtering Machine Gun Until Italian Army Arrived—Another Chicago Italian Wins Medal for Valor.

New York.—Out on Sixty-third street, Chicago, Tony Bruno used to wrap hot towels about men's faces and soliloquize about the benefits of a hair shave. That was four years ago, writes C. V. Julian in the Chicago Tribune. When Austrian hordes were bent against a certain mountain pass in the Trentino on the holding of which depended the fate of an Italian battalion, there stood, all alone in the pass, working a sputtering Italian machine gun, Tony Bruno, barber on Sixty-third street, Chicago.

Tony wondered whether the Italian army was ever coming up to help him, and if it didn't—well, Tony wondered who was going to buy macaroni and cheese for the four little Brunos at 528 West Twenty-eighth street.

His Mind Relieved. Four hours later when Austrian bodies lay in heaps about Tony his mind was relieved. The Italian army arrived. And now he's on his way home.

"Why, you're a regular Horatius," said some one on the pier, who had learned the story of Tony and the mountain pass.

"Aw, naw," said Tony. "I'm just a barber."

About the time that there is a wondrous home-coming at the Bruno home, domestic cheer will also reign at 1028 West Polk street, where little Ulanda

Tells Court He Wants "That Copy in Hurry"

New York.—Izzy, a brand new twelve-year-old office boy of a local news association, was told speed was his job. When he was sent to the federal court to "hustle that copy to the office quick," he dusted Broadway.

Izzy dived into Judge Mayer's court beneath the arms of an officer. Seymour Stedman was addressing the jury. The association reporter was writing. So was the judge.

Izzy brushed past half a dozen lawyers and marched up the steps to the bench. He was reaching out to touch the judge's arm when Court Clerk Leary grabbed him.

"What do you want?" asked Leary.

"I want that copy, quick," retorted the boy.

Judge Mayer glanced up, took in the situation and laughed. Izzy was steered to the proper place, dashed out and the trial was resumed.

IN THE SAME OLD HUN

Vichy, France.—The following astonishing communication was received here by Mr. Lee Shippey, Y. M. C. A., from American prisoners who have just arrived there from the Villingen camp. They and other prisoners from the camp at Rastatt have little faith in the change of tone of the Germans and treat the communication as simply another insincere and treacherous piece of propaganda. It consists of a message of the commander of the prisoners' camp of Villingen, Baden, to the American officers on their departure to France, on Tuesday, November 26, and is as follows:

"Sooner than you expected, your day of liberation has arrived. In a short time you will be back again with your own dear people in America. Tell them that the German people has no more grievance against them. Germany does not consider itself as conquered but as conquering, as you can see by the troops coming back from the front, because it has an machine gun single-handed, after many of the men in his platoon had been killed, by leaping into the pit and bombing the crew with some of their own hand grenades, which he seized from a pile near by.

Wine War Cross.

Like Sergeant Bruno, Corporal Real left his wife and family in Chicago and hastened to repel the Austrians who threatened Italy in 1915. He won the war cross a year later, when, after having his right leg broken by shrapnel, he walked ten miles to deliver a message with which he had been charged.

War Losses of France Put at $24,000,000,000

Paris.—The budget committee of the chamber of deputies has drawn up a report fixing the damages caused by the war in France, the total reaching $24,000,000,000. Of this amount $20,000,000,000 is entailed by direct damages and $4,000,000,000 by indirect damage through loss of income or the impossibility of carrying on work.

Clergy Murdered By the Bolsheviki

London.—Murders of clergymen constitute the latest feature of bolshevik terror in Russia, says Prof. Peter Struve, a distinguished Russian economist, who has escaped from Russia and arrived in England after hiding from the bolsheviki for months in Moscow and after a long journey on foot to reach safety in Finland.

He was compelled to disguise himself to escape death at the hands of the adherents of Lenin and Trotsky. Professor Struve was representative from Petrograd in the second duma and a member of the assembly convoked by Alexander F. Kerensky.

Ten Bishops Shot.

"Altogether ten bishops had been shot and many priests murdered and the dean of Kazan cathedral and his two sons were drowned in the Neva by the red soldiers," said Professor Struve. "Near Kotlas, all the monks in one monastery were shot to death. Professor Kartshoff, minister of religion in Kerensky's government, who has escaped into Finland, says that the present persecution of the church in Petrograd is only comparable with the persecution of the early Christians.

"In Moscow all the shootings take place at night, but in Petrograd the victims of the bolsheviki are shot in the afternoon in the courtyard of the headquarters of the executive commission and in order to drown the noise, it is usual to start up the engines of the motorcars which are waiting in the vicinity.

"At the beginning of the bolshevik movement I publicly expressed the opinion that not even a German would hold converse with a bolshevik. As a Russian constitutionalist it is completely inexplicable to me how any allied government can contemplate discussion of any sort, in any circumstances or at any place, with anyone who calls himself a bolshevik.

"Those who imagine that there can be any pact between the forces of civilization and bolshevism have no conception of the real state of affairs in Russia. The most moderate form of restoration of order and liberty in Russia would make the existence of bolshevism impossible.

"Bolshevism is complete tyranny, which is absolutely incompatible with any form of ordered liberty and constitutional government. It is entirely false to say that bolshevism is a popular form of government. If Trotsky would walk a verst through Moscow he would be killed. No czar lived in greater terror of his subjects than the chiefs of the bolshevik government. There was more law and justice under serfdom than under the bolsheviki."

TWELVE-FINGERED CROOK

When Gerardo Giubiano was arraigned at police headquarters in New York for stealing a wrist watch he was found guilty and sent to have his finger prints made. Then it was discovered that his deftness of fingers was due to the fact that he had five perfectly formed fingers on each hand, and a thumb, making six fingers on each hand. Further investigation showed that he also had six toes on each foot. It is the first time in the police department records that such a case has presented itself. Gerardo proudly displays his fingers which unfortunately for him, proved his undoing.

OIL ENRICHES WOUNDED YANK

Curtis Boyle Returns From France to Find Gushing Well on His Farm.

Junction City, Kan.—Unfitted by wounds to follow his pre-war pursuit of farming, Curtis Boyle, a soldier in two armies, returned from France to find that during his absence an oil well has been drilled on his farm near Peabody, Kan., yielding 600 barrels a day. Boyle purchased the land several years ago for $2 an acre.

The soldier oil-magnate, who is now in the Fort Riley Reconstruction hospital, sustained 28 bullet and shrapnel wounds during his military service, in addition to being gassed and burned by liquid fire.

He enlisted in the Third Canadian infantry late in 1914 and was transferred to the American forces last year, serving with the Thirty-fifth and Seventy-seventh divisions. Boyle has silver plates in his arm, leg and collarbone and is minus his ribs and lung on the right side. His legitimate quota of wound stripes runs from wrist to shoulder.

POULTRY

TIME TO FEED YOUNG CHICKS

Mashes Mixed With Milk Are of Considerable Value in Giving Youngsters Good Start.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Young chicks may be fed any time after they are thirty-six to forty-eight hours old whether they are with a hen or in a brooder. Some good feeds for the first feeding are moistened hard-boiled eggs, Johnnycake, stale bread, oatmeal or rolled oats, which may be fed separately or in combination. Mash mixed with milk are of considerable value in giving the chicks a good start. The mixture should be fed in a crumbly mash and not in a sloppy condition. Johnnycake composed of the following ingredients in the proportion named is a very good feed for young chicks: One dozen infertile eggs or one pound of sifted beef scraps to ten pounds of cornmeal; add enough milk to make a pasty mash and one tablespoonful of baking soda and bake until done. Dry bread crumbs may be mixed with hard-boiled eggs, making about one-fourth of the mixture eggs, or rolled oats may be used in place of bread crumbs.

It is a good plan to give these feeds about five times daily for the first week, then gradually substitute for one or two of these feeds a mixture of finely cracked grains of equal parts by weight of cracked wheat and finely cracked corn and pinhead oatmeal or hulled oats, to which about 5 per cent of cracked peas or broken rice and 2 per cent of charcoal or millet or rape seed may be added. A commercial chick feed may be substituted if desired. This ration may be fed until the chicks are two weeks old, when they should be placed on grain and a dry or wet mash mixture.

Young chickens should be fed from three to five times daily, but if care is given not to overfeed chicks will grow faster when fed five times per day. Young chicks should be fed not more than barely enough to satisfy their appetites and to keep them exercising except at the evening or last meal, when they should be given all they will eat. There is danger in over-feeding, particularly if the young chicks are confined and do not have access to free range, as too much feed under such conditions is apt to cause leg weakness.

GRIT NECESSARY FOR FOWLS

Hopper Feeding Saves Labor and Furnishes Desirable Supplementary Feed for Hens.

Ground feeds are necessary for most efficient digestion in poultry. Hopper feeding saves labor and furnishes the necessary supplementary feed at all times. There is no danger of poultry overeating on ground feeds fed dry in a hopper. The University of Missouri college of agriculture is recommending the hopper as a labor saver in the poultry yard.

Limestone grit or oyster shell is also necessary for laying hens. A laying hen requires large quantities of shell-making material. Nearly all of this must come from the grit and shell she eats. It is poor economy not to keep a liberal supply accessible. One extra egg a year will pay the bill. It returns the money invested a hundred fold.

Chickens raised on range can be produced much more economically than those kept closely confined around the farm buildings. Not only is less feed required, but the danger from disease is reduced. The edge of the cornfield makes an ideal poultry range. Chickens grow best on plowed ground and the corn furnishes shade, which is essential during the summer. Under such conditions, a pound of chicken can be produced from three to four pounds of grain.

POULTRY NOTES

Skim milk is good for the chickens.

Pumpkin is of value in the cold weather poultry ration.

Wheat, oats and corn are good grains to feed the laying hen.

Ducks are among the most profitable of all domesticated fowls.

Parent turkeys should be full grown and mature. If the gobler is related to the hens, get a new one.

A Feeling of Security

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs. Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder remedy. The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs. It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses. It is not recommended for everything. It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to try this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Warning as to Our Waning Vitality

(By LEE HERBERT SMITH, M. D.) Every man should take stock of his physical condition just as frequently as he takes stock of his financial condition, thereby learning his weak spots and taking measures to repair them before it is too late.

In the winter or spring is the best time to take stock of one's condition. If the blood is thin and watery, face pale or pimply, generally weak, tired and listless, one should take a tonic. One that will do the spring "house-cleaning," an old-fashioned herbal remedy that was used by everybody nearly 50 years ago is still safe and sane because it contains no alcohol or narcotic. This blood tonic, extracted from wild roots and bark, was first put out by Dr. Pierce in ready-to-use form and since then has been sold by the million bottles as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's always efficacious in the winter or spring when the blood is run down and you need a wholesome tonic. This is nature's tonic, which restores the tone of the stomach, activity of the liver and steadiness to the nerves, strengthening the whole system. Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package of tablets.

Then to keep the liver and bowels regular and to carry away the poisons within, it is best to take castor oil or a vegetable pill, made up of May-apple, aloes, jalap, and sugar-coated, to be had at most drug stores, known as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.
