BLIND MAN POULTRY FANCIER

Missourian Has Made Success of the Work, Despite Handicap Which Would Seem Insurmountable.

Blind Edward Jones of Jefferson City, Mo., has made a record in keeping poultry which many who have eyes have not equalled. Moving among his birds, which seem to understand how he is handicapped, and guided only by his sense of touch, he performs his daily work. He has built his own poultry house and brood coops, and has hatched and raised all his chicks. Blindness does not prevent him from culling his flock. The birds not intended to be kept are marketed as broilers, and the others are kept for the production of winter eggs.

Mr. Jones attended every poultry meeting held in his section last fall. He is now trying to organize a poultry club for blind people, and the home demonstration agent in the county has volunteered to read to the members the publications on poultry sent from the United States department of agriculture.

POISON FOR JAPANESE BUGS

Campaign of Eradication Being Waged Against Beetle in New Jersey—Injures Foliage.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The Japanese beetle, a small insect that attacks a great variety of plants, has become established over an area of approximately 10,000 acres near Riverton, N. J. The United States department of agriculture, in co-operation with the New Jersey department of agriculture, is waging a campaign of eradication, or if eradication is impossible, of such control as to hold the insect within a limited territory.

The mature beetle feeds on the leaves of orchard trees and ornamental plants as well as a number of annual plants. It shows a fondness for flowering plants, and is particularly destructive to roses. However, it is not fastidious in its tastes. It feeds voraciously on the foliage of smart weed.

In the control campaign poison baits have been established, one immediately outside the infested area and others at intervals farther back, somewhat like a defensive system of trenches in human warfare. The foliage of all vegetation in these belts is poisoned. Hand picking is resorted to, and the insects are collected by bushels.

The larva is a white grub that feeds on the roots of living plants and to some extent on decaying vegetation. The destruction of larvae in the soil is undertaken by the use of insecticides and by plowing operations.

The great danger of the spread of the insect is in shipments of sweet corn. The beetle burrows into the ear and detection is difficult. All sweet corn shipped out of the infested area must undergo inspection, and any that is infested cannot be shipped but must be canned or otherwise disposed of.

HOME GARDEN STRAWBERRIES

Varieties Having High Quality Should Be Given Preference—Get Some "Perfect."

In selecting varieties of strawberries for the home garden those having high quality should have preference, and a group of varieties which will give the longest possible ripening period should be selected, says Farm Journal. In deciding which to plant be sure to get some "perfect" (Fig. 1) varieties—that is, varieties which have both stamens and pistils in the blossom. The "imperfect" (Fig. 2) varieties have the pistils and not the stamens, and will not produce fruit unless fertilized by pollen from other plants having both stamens and pistils. The common method of arranging the varieties where the imperfects are planted is to plant one row of the perfect variety, then two of the imperfect, and so on.

FILLING UP APPLE ORCHARD

Smaller Growing Trees, Such as Peach or Plum, May Be Placed There Temporarily.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It is possible to plant between apple trees, when set 32 feet apart, smaller growing trees, such as the peach or plum, placing one between each two trees in the row, as well as planting a row in the center of the spaces between the tree rows. This is a temporary arrangement, however, since the apple trees will eventually need all the space. Before crowding begins the interplanted trees should be removed.

VARIETIES OF FRUIT SOILS

Best to Avoid Light, Sandy Land and Heavy Clays—Latter Are Difficult to Manage.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Most fruits can be grown on a great variety of soils, but where possible it is better to avoid light, sandy soils, and heavy clays. The latter are often difficult to manage in the intensive way necessary for the best success with fruit, while the light soils are likely to be affected by the extremes of heat, cold and drought.

KEEP ORCHARD PESTS DOWN

Desirability of Keeping Insects Reduced Cannot Be Emphasized Too Strongly.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The great desirability of keeping insects reduced by modern orchard practice, and attention to pruning and other operations, cannot be emphasized too strongly and is well appreciated by most progressive and successful growers.
