WASHINGTON CITY SIDELIGHTS

Importance of America's Future Naval Program

WASHINGTON.—Uncle Sam's future naval program is beginning to assume greater importance than ever because of the trend of events in the Pacific. Japan has gained a dominating position in the Orient and by virtue of her exploitation of China is destined to become a power of such proportions and resources that she will be able at any time to challenge the control of the Pacific.

Japan is building a great navy as rapidly as her resources permit. At present her naval strength is estimated at less than half that of the United States, but she is specializing in the construction of fast battle cruisers, which many naval authorities believe will be the determining factors in future naval warfare.

The Japanese naval program now under way will provide 73 cruisers of all classes, compared with 47 cruisers of all classes in the American navy.

With the Philippines unfortified at Japan's door, with the Hawaiian islands insufficiently fortified in the middle of the Pacific and containing a preponderant Japanese population, and with Japan acquiring the German archipelagos in between, many statesmen are of the opinion that the United States should not neglect to maintain a greater naval strength than Japan's in all types of craft as insurance against trouble in the Pacific.

Of course such views are not entertained by those who believe that the League of Nations is going to banish war forever.

It is noteworthy, however, that President Wilson deemed it important to send Admiral Rodman to the Pacific with an American fleet stronger in many respects than Japan's present available fleet.

Naval officials estimate that most of the ships authorized in the 1916 program will have been completed by next year and all of them by the summer of 1921. This will give the United States 41 first-class dreadnaughts, 21 battleships of the second class, six battle cruisers, ten scout cruisers, 400 destroyers, and 131 submarines.

Will "Gob" Also Be Put in Davy Jones' Locker?

OFFICIAL Washington is smiling over the episode of "Josephus and the Gob." Which is to say that in San Francisco Secretary of the Navy Daniels fell foul of the word "gob." "It is a short, ugly word, and I don't like it," said the secretary. "It's not worthy of the men of our splendid fleet," and thereupon the honorable secretary consigned gob to the same fate which has already befallen starboard, port, rum, whisky, grog and dress uniforms.

But out at the Great Lakes naval training station near Chicago the gobs apparently don't agree with Josephus. From the commandant to the newest goby they agree that the navy, far from disliking "gob" regards it with affection, respect, love, worship, veneration, delight and some other minor emotions, none of which are in the least like those felt by Mr. Daniels. Anyway, here is the reply that comes from Chicago—which is the cause of Washington's smiles:

"This 'gob' is not a pretty word," the secretary said. "It is not only too absurd, but doesn't sound well-bred—And so, to me, it has occurred to knock it in the head."

"Aho-ee there," arose a cry from out a thousand throats. "Avast, belay, likewise stand by, and man the second boats; At last this here Josephus guy has got the navy goats."

"He changed our rum to liquids light"—they checked some bitter sobs—"He turned the 'starboard' into 'right' and still we hold our jobs; But now, by gosh, we quit—we fight—stand fast, there—WE ARE GOBS."

To Understand Scenery Now Enjoyed Emotionally

THIS is the day of emotional enjoyment of national park scenery. Tomorrow is to be the day of appreciative enjoyment of national park scenery. In other words, various factors in the national movement have united in a campaign of education of the people so that they may double their enjoyment by having an understanding of the scenery they now enjoy only emotionally.

A work of this scope is a large undertaking. Nevertheless, this fact helps to lessen the undertaking. The national parks of America are not only the sublimest areas of natural beauty easily accessible, but are also the completest expression of the history of the earth in its making. More than that anybody with understanding may read; they are accessible to all.

When the day of the understanding of scenery comes and the American tourist views with real appreciation the stream-made Grand Canyon abyss, the giant crater of a vanished volcano that holds Crater Lake, the Yosemite valley, glacier-dug; the naked granite core of the Rockies in Rocky mountain, and the old, old ice-carved shales of many-colored Glacier, his enjoyment will be greater in proportion to his knowledge. For no man can take out from nature's beauty more than he puts in—which is to say that we enjoy according to our experience and capacity.

Why Mexicans Know Americans Can and Will Fight

SOME of the members of congress from the border states are all "bet up" over the Mexican situation and say some forcible things in debate. Representative Hudspeth of Texas, a Democrat, made a speech the other day and said among other things, in connection with the Emerson resolution, which directs intervention:

"You may say it means war. I say it does not mean war. They have not forgotten, gentlemen, when Zachary Taylor went almost to the City of Mexico with 6,000 troops and whipped Santa Anna at Buena Vista. They have not forgotten when Gen. Winfield Scott visited Mexico and whipped Santa Anna at Chapultepec. Santa Anna had 25,000 troops and Scott had only 5,000. They have not forgotten that the 'gringos' can and will fight. They have not forgotten that Sam Houston and his 680 coonskin cap and flintlock frontiersmen vanquished Santa Anna with 1,800 of picked troops at San Jacinto, where a nation was born in the short space of 18 minutes. They have not forgotten the time when old Sam Houston rode his white horse, leading those unconquerable frontiersmen against Santa Anna at San Jacinto singing that love song, 'Come to the bowler I have shaded for thee.' When he put the fear of God into them with the mule balls from the muzzle of the flintlocks and the craven cowards, when they saw death approaching, fell upon their knees in front of Houston and his gallant frontiersmen and pleaded, 'me no Alamo; me no Goliad,' when their hands at that time were red with the blood of the dead heroes of both places. No! They have not forgotten the Alamo, where Crockett died, where Fannin died, where Bowie died, where Travis drew his line and said, 'Every man who wants to die for the liberty of Texas come across this line,' and every man crossed. No; they know Americans will fight."

CHICKENS INCREASE SAVINGS

North Carolina Poultry Club Member Made Remarkable Record With Small Flock of Hens.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A net return of $2 a hen over a four-months' period is the remarkable record of a North Carolina poultry club member who, about the middle of January, mated 15 White Leghorn hens with a standard-bred male of the same variety. During the ensuing four months these 15 hens laid 1,108 eggs. Of this number 50 were placed in the incubator, from which 41 chicks were hatched and all but five were raised. The owner marketed six cockerels for $3.60. He now has on hand 30 pullets. He sold 304 eggs for hatching purposes for $30.50, as well as 54 1/2 dozen market eggs for $20.07, making a total income from his small flock of $54.80. The cost of feeding the flock during this time was $21.40, which leaves a net return of $33.40.

This record is by no means exceptional, as, with the coming of the poultry club and with the development of enthusiasm among its members, egg producing as well as flock income returns, has greatly increased in every section.

Properly developed and fostered, poultry is one of the most profitable side-lines in which most farmers can become interested, and, at present, there is hardly any activity of modern farming which will pay better than the maintenance and production of good poultry.

GOOD SCALY LEG TREATMENT

Dip Affected Parts in Crude Oil or Kerosene—One Submersion Is Usually Sufficient.

Scaly leg is caused by a small mite which burrows underneath the scales of the legs, where it feeds and lays its minute eggs. The legs become sore at times that fowls are unable to scratch for food or set on the roost.

The treatment consists of dipping the legs in crude oil. If not convenient pure kerosene may be used. Dip early enough so that the oil will dry before the fowls go on the roost, and be careful that the oil does not get on the feathers. One treatment is usually sufficient, but if the old scales have not peeled off after 30 days it should be repeated.

LAYERS IN GOOD CONDITION

Eggs Can Be Produced in Fall and Early Winter as Easy as Spring if Hens Get Feed.

If the hens are in good condition the poultry keeper can get eggs just as well in the fall and early winter as in spring, if they are fed exactly 12 hours apart every day in the year, and have ample time to eat the feed before going to roost. Professor Rice has the results of many practical tests made at Cornell and elsewhere to prove this statement.

POULTRY NOTES

Don't overstock your land.

Keep house and yard clean.

Provide a nest for each four or five hens.

Don't keep a male bird. Hens lay just as well without a male.

All ducks should be marketed when they are from eight to ten weeks old if the most profit is to be made from them.

When fowls do not have access to natural green feed, sprouted oats, cabbage, mangels, cut clover, etc., should be fed.

If the chicks appear droopy moisten the down on their heads and search for head lice. If these lice are found use head lice ointment or vaseline or sweet oil.

It is good practice to separate within reasonable limits the growing stock according to age. Smaller chicks should not be crowded from the feeding troughs nor harried by the stronger and older ones.

His Invulnerability.
"No, I do not think you are deceiving me," replied old Festus Pester, to the somewhat disgruntled inquiry of the purveyor of oil stock. "In fact, I know you are not. No one can deceive me about oil stock. I am perfectly aware that not more than one person in every thousand who invests in that sort of truck ever gets his money back. If it were of any account, my young friend, you would not be peddling it around."—Kansas City Star.

Softened the Censure.
The small girl is proud of the fact that she goes to kindergarten and is always glad to instruct her smaller sister in the various plays she has learned at school. When it came to teaching the tot to do one of the dances, however, her patience was sorely tried and finally she said to her: "Well, dear, that isn't the way to do it; but you're cute anyway."
