

750-NEBRASKA PREACHERS MEET

Nebraska Pastors' Conference Brings Out Greatest Meeting in History of State

500 TOWNS REPRESENTED

Pastors Pledge Their Hearty Support and Co-operation to New Movement to Evangelize the World.

Lincoln, Neb.—The state-wide meeting of Nebraska Protestant ministers, held in Lincoln last week in connection with the Interchurch World Movement, brought together more Nebraska preachers than ever before gathered under one roof in the history of the state. It was the first time Nebraska ministers of all the different denominations have met together. At the close of the conference the members pledged their hearty support and co-operation in the new movement to evangelize the world.

There are a possible 1,000 evangelical Protestant ministers in Nebraska. Seven hundred and fifty-seven of these attended the Nebraska pastors' conference. Nearly 500 different Nebraska towns and cities were represented in the meeting.

Twenty-one denominations participated in the conference, according to the official register. Of Baptists there were 74 ministers present; Seventh Day Baptists, 1; Brethren, 3; Christian, 7; Congregational, 72; Disciples of Christ, 47; Evangelical Association, 27; Federated churches, 3; Friends, 14; Lutheran, 5; Methodists, 227; African Methodists, 2; Nazarine, 1; Presbyterian, 119; Reformed, 4; Seventh Day Adventist, 4; Swedish Mission, 1; United Brethren, 43; Union Church, 1; Zion Church, 1; Episcopalian, 1. In addition, about 100 ministers were present who did not register.

"The Wichita team," headed by Dr. J. Campbell White of New York, Associate General Secretary of the Interchurch World Movement, delivered the message of the Interchurch Movement to the Nebraska pastors. Dr. White, in his keynote address, said that for the first time in history the mighty forces of the Protestant church are merged for the evangelization of the world and for the spreading of the teachings of Jesus Christ.

One of the interesting addresses was that of J. Kirkwood Craig, director of surveys of special groups. "In the state of Nebraska," said Mr. Craig, "there are 426,940 Protestant, or nominally Protestant children and youth who are not in any school for religious instruction. If you should point to the weakest spot in the Protestant church you would point to the 27,000,000 children and youth who are growing up in spiritual illiteracy and to the 16,000,000 more whose religious instruction is limited to the brief half-hour once a week on Sundays. A church that cannot save her own childhood can never save the world."

Religious Survey of Nebraska. The religious survey of Nebraska, which is being conducted by K. W. G. Hiller of Lincoln, supervisor of the Interchurch World Movement survey, is rapidly nearing completion. Mr. Hiller reported. Only two counties have been entirely completed, but the surveys in sixty additional counties are almost completed.

Rev. W. E. J. Gratz, pastor of St. Paul Methodist church of Lincoln, in an address the first day of the conference, told something of the purposes of the Interchurch World Movement and said the Movement aimed to raise $1,320,000,000 to care for the program for the next five years.

Bishop Homer Stunts of the Methodist church in Nebraska, who has recently returned from the Far East, where he held conferences in India, China, Japan, the Philippines and other Far East countries, told of the need of that portion of the world for the projects outlined for it by the Interchurch World Movement.

While the pastors' conference was in session in the St. Paul Methodist church, the women's auxiliary was holding meetings in the First Presbyterian church with Mrs. E. C. Cronk of New York City as chairman. Members of the Interchurch World Movement team addressed the women.

Migratory Farm Labor. Nebraska farmers will be interested in an address delivered by H. B. Douglas, a member of the team. Mr. Douglas has made a study of migratory harvest labor. Last year he dressed as a harvest hand and worked in the harvest fields in many parts of Nebraska, as well as of Oklahoma, Kansas, South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota and other western states.

"Four million farm hands have no job in winter," he said. "They must depend on charity or odd jobs. They must have shelter and something to eat for 12 months in the year. A quarter of a million migratory laborers in Nebraska last summer had never heard of Jesus Christ. But it is these migratory farm hands who keep the nation from starving. We must have a migratory church to follow these hands as they work their way northward in the summer."

Among the other members of the team who addressed the conference were: R. C. Capen, Baptist missionary in China; Roliv Harlan of New York, secretary of the social service and rural community work of the American Baptist Home Mission society; Dr. J. H. Jordan of Minneapolis, financial secretary of the Methodist hospital, Minneapolis; Rev. J. F. Latimer, Huchow, China; J. W. Poittr, Anderson, Ind., field representative of the Statistical department, Interchurch World Movement; Dr. H. O. Pritchard, general secretary Board of Education, Disciples of Christ; Dr. Royal J. Dye, Missionary to Africa; Charles F. Taylor, and others.

A special meeting was held during the conference by representatives from every county in Nebraska for special instruction as to the method of covering the stewardship message to the last church in the state.

"The church has become a suppliant, a beggar, dependent for her very existence on benevolence," Dr. George E. Farrar, field secretary of this department, told the county representatives. "This is all wrong. It was not so at the beginning. God provided for his church. The Interchurch Movement is calling for 10,000,000 Christian stewards who will covenant to set aside for the forwarding of the kingdom the first fruits of their increase."

In the last hour of the conference, after Dr. Campbell White, from the platform, had said: "The Nebraska conference is the greatest and most satisfactory that has yet been held, the spirit of brotherhood among the members is great and we are anticipating wonderful results in Nebraska," and after the members of the conference had pledged their hearty support and co-operation in the new movement to evangelize the world, the findings committee, consisting of Homer J. Coppock, chairman, president Nebraska Central College; Dr. D. E. Jenkins, president Omaha university; H. V. Roop, president York college, and G. W. Mitchell, president Franklin academy, presented the following findings, which were unanimously adopted:

The Findings.
"It has been clearly manifested that the supreme aim, the outstanding purpose of this movement, is to reveal Christ in an adequate way to the whole world, and to make His spirit and principles dominate in the life of the individual, in society, and in the commercial, educational and political life, and in all national and international relations."

"And we believe that the Interchurch survey that brings to us the facts of the whole field, its need and to what degree that need is met, will enable the churches to conserve men and money, in the achievement of the work of the Kingdom."

"Some places are over-churches and other places have no religious services, then conditions can be adjusted according to the needs of the field."
"It will be necessary for all churches to co-operate in some great movements in some great centers in which no one church can meet the need. By this co-operation the churches will become so deeply interested in the task that will bring about a unity of spirit and they will discover that the things that have impressed them as churches are not so essential as they had believed."

"We believe that this movement is of God, and He has moved in the hearts of men for a broader view and a greater united effort to bring the Kingdom of God to earth."

Enviel the Tailor.
When Douglas Fairbanks was a little boy, five years old, he lived in Denver, and he was always sent to bed much earlier than he wanted to go. Opposite his bedroom was a tailor shop where the lights burned brightly a long time after Douglas went to sleep. He used to lie and watch the industrious tailor, and one day he surprised his father by saying that he knew what he wanted to do when he grew up; he would be a tailor.

"Why?" said his father.
"Because," said Douglas, "I could sit up then as long as I wanted to—all night if I pleased."

Artistic Verisimilitude.
Customer—These grand opera phonograph records are imperfect. I can't get anything out of them half the time.

Salesman—They are our finest achievement. You never can tell when these records will sing—they're so temperamental.—Boston Transcript.
