Two Cent Fare Probable.

Unless the railroads themselves take some action in court to prevent, the Nebraska 2 cent passenger law will again become effective on the first of next September.

The railroads are now back in private control, and the 2 cent fare law of Nebraska would be in force today if it were not for the six months' extension granted the roads in the act of congress that restored them. It follows that when that time expires it will be the duty of the state officials to see that the law is enforced. This is an act of the legislature, not reviewable or amendable by the railway commission.

Only two ways are open to prevent a return of the 2 cent fare in Nebraska. One is injunction suits in federal court by all railroads, and the other is further action by congress. The latter is not likely. With respect to the railroads themselves initiating injunction suits, it is pointed out that a number of prominent railroad men think that the 2 cent fare should be re-established.

FORMER NORTH PLATTE WOMAN PASSES AWAY.

The following relative to the death of a former North Platte resident is taken from a Harrisburg, Oregon, paper:

"Harrisburg tomorrow will pay the last sad respects to one of its best women, Mrs. Peri Widener.

Like a flash of lightning from the clear sky death sought her out, and the announcement as it passed from mouth to mouth yesterday morning was as startling in its effect.
Mrs. Widener had been at the hospital since the middle of February when she operated upon for appendicitis. Her recovery was assured, and especially during the few days preceding her death had her strength and spirits regained to a marked degree. Even on the morning of her demise she felt the vigor of returning strength and was most cheerful with those who called or waited on her. Her daughter, Mrs. Martin, was with her when the change came, and despite the efforts of nurses and physicians who were working over her within a few moments life slipped away, the end had quietly come.

Rosa Widener was a woman who made real friends and she made many of them. While she performed her part in the social affairs of the town she was especially devoted to the work of the Rebekah lodge. She had passed the chairs the second time and was at the time of her death secretary of the local order. Friday her remains will be laid to rest in the Odd Fellows' cemetery, her sisters and brothers of this order performing the last sad rites in the administration of their ritualistic service. Her church affiliations had been with the Lutheran denomination.

Rosa Albrecht was born December, 1876, at North Platte, Nebraska, where she spent her life until 1911. She was married to Albert Marsh Babbitt on August 17, 1897. One child was born to this union, Florence Eunice, now Mrs. W. J. Martin. On June 29, 1908, she was left a widow. On October 5, 1911, she was united in marriage to Peri Widener and removed to Harrisburg where they have continuously made their home.

Besides her sorrowing husband and daughter she leaves her aged mother, Mrs. Margaret Knapp, who has long made her home with the deceased.

Youngs Not to Run.

Elmer E. Youngs, of Dawson county, who was nominated last week for governor by the non-partisan league declines to make the race.

Mr. Youngs, in a letter to the league heads, pleads that his health is such it will not permit him to enter the political arena. The Nonpartisan League has also decided not to name a ticket for the primary race, but to endorse or nominate their ticket on May 4th, at a meeting to be held in Lincoln.

Recurring Influenza

Those who suffer a recurrence of influenza are usually in poorer condition to resist than on the first attack. One of the unfortunate results of the first attack has been to leave the system in a partially poisoned condition. The weakness of kidneys and lungs which allows the attack to take hold is usually a clear indication to the chiropractor of the spinal nerve pressure which is causing the trouble. When spinal nerves are under pressure they "starve" the kidneys and lungs, instead of feeding them a normal supply of nerve energy. Adjusting relieves this pressure, and with a normal and full supply of nervous vigor, Nature quickly restores health.
