1919 Railroad Freight Robberies of $45,000,000

WASHINGTON .- Wholesale looting of merchandise in transit upon the rail roads of the United States caused a loss of approximately $45,000,000 Ir 1919, according to United States railroad administration statistics. A technique of robbery has been developed so highly that the methods of St. Dayton, O. master thieves" are similar in the United States, England, France, Italy and Argentina. Thief hunters here. however, are inclined to discredit the belief that a "widespread international organization" is at work stealing uerchandise.

Substitution is the usual method used by the robbers. Boxes supposed to contain velvets are found at their destination to be filled with cheaper cloth or waste paper. These are referred to as "concealed losses" by railroad men, and are especially difficult to trace, as it is almost impossible to liscover at what point the theft occurred.

The silk industry has been one of the most severely hit in the last year, and so great has the risk become that the railroad administration has been considering excluding raw silks from the privilege of freight transportation by rail.

The jewelers, who have always been looked upon as easy prey by thieves, fared better last year by approximately 50 per cent than in the previous year, was said by the Jewelers' Protective union.

Among the methods frequently used by thieves are the following: A truckman at a freight station with a load of goods watches his opportunity and takes the freight clerk's receiving stamp, puts it on the bill of lading, and then drives off with the goods, Another method is for a truckman to drive into a city freight yard with an empty box on his truck. He substitutes a box of stolen merchandise for the empty he brought in. Robbers often get aboard trains and throw goods out for confederates to pick up along the route.

But the bureau has not hesitated to call public attention to unsatisfactory conditions whenever criticism was desirable in the interest of the children, and thus it possesses a power of great value for the public good. Overlooked by the Cerespondents in Washington

THE senate, the other day, passed a bill directing the secretary of the treas ury to pay "to Gertrude Lustig, the sum of $1,286,53, being the amount she would have received as pay and allowances as chief nurse, army nurse corps,

I AM SO A SHAPPENED

from September 28, 1918, the date of her unjustifiable dismissal from that position, to May 22, 1919, the date of her restoration to the service." In reply to questions Senator Wadsworth sald: "The unfortunate thing was that the nurse in question was in jail during that entire time. This case constitutes one of the most distressing and horrible things that I have ever encountered in connection with the treatment of a good woman by the government. It arose from a frame-up. The story is a rather distressing one, and I hesitate very much to tell it. The military intelligence department of the war department realized the error that had been made, and the department of justice also realized it; and both departments, together with the surgeon general, the head of the whole medical service, joined in an urgent request that this relief be granted to Miss Lustig. She has been restored to service, and she is now a member of the army nurse corps. I may say to the senators that the government has done its best to locate the blame for this thing. The persons involved in it have uttarly disappeared.'

This is practically all that was said in the senate concerning the facts in the case. Senator King of Utah said: "I feel that the war department should determine who committed this crime against the nurse and prosecute them criminally, and compel them to refund the amount. After waiting a reasonable time I shall ask an investigation of the entire matter."

Vacancies in United States Diplomatic Service

SIDE from the enemy countries and nations with which the United States A SIDE from the enemy countries and introduce eight vacancies in the American diplomatic list. The United States has no minister at the capitals of China, Denmark, Costa Rica, Greece, The Netherlands, Salvador, Slam and Switzerland. While Finland has a minister here, no American envoy has vet been sent to the new Finnish republic.

As many shifts usually occur foiowing a change of administration, fear is expressed that it will be difficult to find men willing to accept some of these appointments who are well suited to the work. Many menwould welcome an appointment for one year as ambassador or minister, but experience seems to show that the first year has been merely a training period for most diplomats.

Successful diplomatic achievement, as a rule, depends largely upon continuity of service. Consequently, it is said, the men best qualified to fill the existing vacanies would not care to undertake the duties of envoy for so short a period

Furthermore, most of the secretarial positions held by diplomatic secretaries are now protected by civil service, and diplomatic secretaries who accepted positions as chiefs of missions would risk the danger of removal in the event of a change of administration.
