SUNDAY WAS A BIG DAY AT TABERNAACLE.

Sunday was a successful day. The morning service indicated that the town was getting down to the King's business. The evening service was a record breaker. The tabernacle was almost filled with earnest listeners.

During the current week a big program is before the community. Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock there will be 22 simultaneous cottage prayer meetings in North Platte. They will last 30 minutes only. The praying people of this town will gather together in this manner Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Late this afternoon an auto caravan from the eastern part of the state will arrive in North Platte. This caravan constitutes the delegates of the State Sunday School Convention on their way to Scotts Bluff, where they will convene. This caravan gathers up the cars filled with delegates as it comes westward from town to town. The delegates have planned to remain in North Platte over night. After their arrival here about 6 p. m. supper will be served. At 7 p. m. there will be a combined service in the tabernacle. Some of the foremost speakers in the state will be on the program. Rev. Rayburn will shorten his part somewhat. This ought to be worthwhile coming out for.

The following subjects will be discussed by Rev. Rayburn this week: The Universal Malady, Tuesday evening; Healing the Paralytic, Wednesday evening; Fatal Blunders, Thursday evening; and Friday evening, Three Liars and What They Said. One of these liars lives in North Platte and will be at the meeting. All liars are cordially invited. The evening sessions hereafter begin at 7:45 instead of 7:30.

Next Sunday afternoon there will be a men's meeting. Subject: "Big Business." Watch for further announcements.

Sunday morning Rev. Rayburn's subject was: "The One Thing God Requires of Me." He said God does not demand of me to be good looking, or to be a genius, but he does request me to be FAITHFUL. To be faithful means to keep my word, my vow. As a banker holds a note signer to his note and as a builder holds a contractor to the specifications of the plans: so God expects people to keep their vows. He said to be faithful means to do our duty. Who lauds a farmer as a hero for feeding his stock on a cold blizzard day? It is his duty to care for his dumb brutes. So God expects us to do many things because it is our duty. If Jesus had shirked on the Cross, none would be saved. Paul was stoned, shipwrecked, scourged, persecuted and finally died the martyr's death. If he had been like some of the Presbyterians or Baptists or others he would have petered out at the first few steps. Mr. Rayburn said furthermore that faithfulness means constancy and loyalty. There is a lot of Meteoric religion; instead of constant it is spasmodic. If I should carry on a flirtation with another woman of this town, you would say that I am untrue to Mrs. Rayburn. Yet how many Christians there are who have vowed to Christ that they would be true to him; nevertheless they walk arm in arm with the world carrying on a flirtation with it, bowing before it, following it.

The theme of the evening was: The Most Deadly Sin of Nebraska, founded on the text: "How shall we escape so great a salvation, this most deadly sin is Neglect! Darwin proved the law of reversion to the original type. According to that law our fine roses, fancy doves, horses, or cattle revert to the original common types. Just let an improved plant or a high bred animal alone and it will degenerate. Neglect will ruin a farm, a store, the human body, the mind. Neglect will also ruin the soul. In order to be lost you need not fight the church and prove yourself a downright villain; no, you can greet the minister every morning, speak kindly of religion, and yet go to hell. Just neglect your salvation and you are committing the sin that kills. Rev. Rayburn pled that people would use the same common sense in religion that they use in business or other walks of life. You know neglect will kill a business or a farm. It will also kill your soul.

W. R. Maloney is honored.

W. R. Maloney, who attended the Nebraska State Funeral Directors Association Convention held at Lincoln, received the endorsement for re-appointment as chairman of the Board of Examiners for Embalmers of the state of Nebraska through the recommendation of H. H. Antles, State Secretary of the Department of Public Welfare, in a speech before the convention in which Mr. Antles congratulated Mr. Maloney for the manner in which he had handled the examination of embalmers and other business under his control during the past year. Mr. Antles in his speech before the convention stated that the governor was very much pleased with the way in which Mr. Maloney had handled the business of the state placed in his hands and that he had been sent down to the convention by the governor to do all in his power to have Mr. Maloney re-appointed. Mr. Maloney was also appointed as delegate to the National Funeral Directors' Convention to be held at Springfield, Mass., during the month of September, and the Department of Public Welfare of the State of Nebraska appointed Mr. Maloney as delegate from Nebraska to the National Embalmers' Convention to be held in Philadelphia. As there are over five hundred funeral directors belonging to the Nebraska Association, these appointments show in what high esteem and respect Mr. Maloney is held for the good work he has done for his brothers of the profession throughout the state. Mr. Maloney has been one of progressive leaders of the state in his profession for the past several years. He was appointed delegate to the National convention a few year ago.
