

ESCAPED AN OPERATION

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Many Such Cases.

Cairo, Ill.—“Sometime ago I got so bad with female trouble that I thought I would have to be operated on. I had a bad displacement. My right side would pain me and I was so nervous I could not hold a glass of water. Many times I would have to stop my work and sit down or I would fall on the floor in a faint. I consulted several doctors and every one told me the same but I kept fighting to keep from having the operation. I had read so many times of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped my sister so I began taking it. I have never felt better than I have since then and I keep house and am able to do all my work. The Vegetable Compound is certainly one grand medicine.”

—Mrs. J. R. MATTHEWS, 3311 Sycamore Street, Cairo, Ill.

Of course there are many serious cases that only a surgical operation will relieve. We freely acknowledge this, but the above letter, and many others like it, amply prove that many operations are recommended when medicine in many cases is all that is needed.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

Fresh Chicken.
Tom Cranfill of Texas, prominent in oil circles of late, tells the following on a minister who had discovered oil on some land he owned. The minister invited some of his deacons to go with him to the new field, so that they might share in the opportunities.

They were breakfasting at the local eating house, and had decided that they would order chicken.

When the waitress, a catinmed and peroxidized miss, came up, the minister inquired: "How is the chicken this morning?"

"All right, kiddo!" she retorted. "How are you?"—Saturday Evening Post.

SUDAN GRASS IS IMPORTANT CROP

Now Being Successfully Grown in Nearly All Parts of the United States.

HAS SHORT GROWING SEASON

Gaining Popularity Because of Its Ability to Produce Fair Yield of Hay Under Conditions of Low Rainfall.

Ten years after its introduction to the United States from Khartoum Africa, Sudan grass was being successfully grown in nearly all parts of the United States. It does not serve well either as a "money crop" or a soil improver, hence it may never find a permanent place in regular crop rotations. It has, nevertheless, a very important place in the farmer's second line of defense as a catch crop which can be planted to give satisfactory returns when conditions have brought failure to other hay crops. This is the verdict pronounced by the United States department of agriculture in Farmer's Bulletin 1126 recently issued.

Sudan grass is replacing millet as the premier catch crop in many localities because of its ability to produce a fair yield and a high quality of hay under conditions of low rainfall; its rather short growing season, and its ability to thrive on a wide range of soil types. Large yields of Sudan grass are obtained only on good soils, but the grass fails completely only on cold, poorly drained land.

Sudan Grass Produces Heavily.
In California under irrigation Sudan grass has made yields of 9.8 tons of field-cured hay an acre, when alfalfa produced but 8.3 tons under like conditions; it ordinarily yields about the same as alfalfa under irrigation in the Southwest, but Sudan grass gives its full crop in three cuttings against the four or five required for alfalfa. It is the only grass yet found which in this part of the United States ranks as the equal of alfalfa in point of yield and quality of the hay. Its record in this respect has led to its use in "patching" old alfalfa fields when the stand of alfalfa has been destroyed. In the southern great plains where there is a low rainfall, Sudan grass grown without irrigation will yield from one to three tons of hay to the acre.

There are certain parts of the United States where the department of agriculture considers it unwise to depend on Sudan grass for hay. This is true of the strip of territory 200 miles wide along the northern boundary; the regions of high altitudes in the western states; and also most of Florida and a narrow strip of land along the gulf coast. Low temperatures prevent success with the grass in the first two regions named, and disease is the limiting factor along the central and southern states, however, climatic and soil conditions are favorable to Sudan grass.

Although Sudan grass is best adapted by nature to use as a hay crop, it is also used with great success as a soiling and pasture crop for summer pastures. Its use as a silage material is limited by the fact that it is easily made into hay and fed as such with very little waste, and also because corn and sorghum both outyield it and are generally available throughout the region where Sudan grass is grown.

High Feeding Value.
The feeding value of Sudan grass is equal to timothy hay. In localities where soy beans or cowpeas do well these legumes may be grown in mixtures with the Sudan grass. Such a mixture produces a hay of higher feeding value than the grass alone, because of the high protein content of the legumes.

Sudan grass hybridizes freely with the sorghums. If it is necessary, therefore, if pure seed is produced, to have the Sudan grass field at some distance from any sorghums, otherwise it will result in a mongrel crop the following year.

The department of agriculture's new bulletin goes very thoroughly into the details of cropping, planting, harvesting—both for hay and for seed—as well as the best methods of feeding the hay to live stock.

BIG HARM TO CROPS FROM GRASSHOPPERS

Situation Is Particularly Serious in Dakotas.

Pest Destroying First Good Crops Farmers Have Had Since Beginning of Extended Dry Season—Poison Bait Favored.

Grasshoppers are infesting the farms in the northern portions of North Dakota, Michigan and Oregon east of the Cascade mountains, according to reports received by the bureau of entomology. In the Dakotas the situation is particularly serious because the farms have suffered from several years of drought, and the average farmer's bank account is much decreased by these years of extremely low crop yields. Now comes the grasshopper to destroy the first good crop the farmers have been able to grow since the beginning of the extended dry seasons. In many cases the farmer's predicament is desperate.

Young Grasshoppers Feeding on Clover.

With no funds available to enable him to fight the pest which threatens him with bankruptcy.

The United States department of agriculture has no available funds for the purpose, but is giving such assistance as it can toward putting control measures into effect.

Grasshopper bait, made according to the directions given below and scattered over the infested areas, is a highly successful weapon to check the pest.

Use 25 pounds of wheat bran; 1 pound of Paris green, or white arsenic; 8 oranges or lemons finely chopped; 2 quarts of low-grade molasses, and from 2 to 4 gallons of water.

Other baits are described in Farmer's Bulletin 747, United States department of agriculture, but there is very little difference in their relative efficiency. In moist climates the baits may be applied in the morning, but in semi-arid regions it should be put out in the evening to secure the best results.

HORSE'S FEET REQUIRE CARE

Doesn't Pay to Neglect Shoes of Animal—Permanent Injury May Be the Result.

Many a horse becomes incurably lame and has to be killed long before his time; and most often the cause is some trouble in the fore feet. Do not try to economize in the shoeing of your horses. Go to the best horse-shoer you can find, and let him have his own way. Have your horse shod at least once in four weeks. Avoid long calks. The higher the foot is raised from the ground, the worse for the foot. See that the shoe is big enough, and at the heels a little too big for the foot. See that your horse's feet are kept soft—especially in a long spell of dry weather. Remove his shoes if he stands in for a week or more, but give him bedding to stand on, so that he will not become footsore. No doubt you know these things yourself, but sometimes you forget them.

FARM FORESTRY MAKES FARMING PAY BETTER BY—

1. Marketing timber profitably.
2. Supplying timber for farm needs.
3. Furnishing employment for men and teams in winter.
4. Making waste lands yield a profit.
5. Increasing the sale value of the farm.

PROVIDING SHADE FOR HENS

Quick Growing Plants Furnish Protection as Well as Feed—Rape is Particularly Useful.

Artificial shade for the chickens should not need to be provided more than one year even if one is a short-lease tenant. There are quick growing plants which will furnish protection and food as well. Rape is useful for this purpose; sunflowers of the various varieties, castor beans and screens of morning glories. For more permanent shade, put out currants, gooseberries and berries.

After a little tea party the children were playing some game quietly in a corner of the room.

The lady of the house was curious to know what was keeping them so interested, so she called her own girl toward her.

"What game are you playing Mollie?" she asked.

"Weddings, mother," replied the small girl. "I'm the bride, and Margery Jones is the bridesmaid."

"And who is the bridegroom?" asked mother, knowing that there was no small boy among the guests.

"Oh," came the quick answer, "this is only a very quiet wedding, you know."—London Answers.

Sugar From Timber.

Speaking of the suggestion of sawdust sugar, a Ceylon planter says: "While I cannot vouch for the sweetening properties of timber in general, I know there are trees which yield sugar. We might have been sending you considerable quantities from Ceylon had an experiment made then been more efficiently carried out. Palmyra trees which yield a sugary syrup, were tapped, and modern machinery installed to refine the juice, but for some reason the native workers could not be prevailed on to carry the stuff down from the forest to the works. There is still a future for palmyra sugar, when the ill-fuck is lived down."

Lacking.

"No, I will not marry you!"
"Why—er—good gracious, Mabel! I thought—"

"My husband must be a man of courage."

"Well, I hate to talk about myself, but I brought home two medals, you know, and—"

"Yes, but you have just admitted that you have loved me desperately for five weary years, but never before had the courage to propose. No, I can't marry a man with no more nerve than that!"

His Objections.

The popular author entered the publisher's sanctum, seething with indignation.

"What's this I hear—you want some alterations in my manuscript?" he demanded. "I've made some libelous statements, have I? Where?"

"You have," said the publisher calmly. "Here, on page 30, you say your heroine, who lives in Pittsburgh, 'clutched the air convulsively.'"

"Well, what's wrong with that?" demanded the irate writer.

"And then," went on the man who objected, "on page 40 you say the heroine went and washed her hands. It's a libel on Pittsburgh air, sir."

Bright Youth.

Eugene was leaving for New York alone. His brother wrote out for him a telegram announcing his safe arrival, which he charged the youngster to send as soon as he reached his destination.

No telegram came. After burning up the wires to assure himself of the youngster's safety the older brother awaited with interest Eugene's first letter.

It said, "I arrived safe, so I did not think it necessary to send the telegram."
