W ASHINGTON.-Apparently Uncle ing job in Santo Domingo. It is stated that in four years of military occupation the United States has put the republic on its feet, restored order, renabilitated finances, established public sanitation and compulsory education, and begun the training of Dominicans to carry on the government when the American navy shall be withdrawn. A report by Commander Reynolds Hayden, medical corps, U. S. N., a member of the staff of the military governor of

If it pays to fatten hogs and cattle before they are marketed, why won't It pay to fatten poultry before marketing it? The same conditions apply in each case, says F. E. Fox of the poultry department, Kansas State Agricultural college.

Mr. Fox, who has had packing house experience, says that the largest per cent of poultry that comes to the packing house has to be fattened before it is killed. It is the custom on the ordinary farm to cull out the flock the night or morning before marketing regardless of the condition of the birds. The poultry have been running on the range around the barnyard in 1958, will be paid in 1925, 33 years picking up most of their living and are, just in a good growthy condition ready to take on fat at very little cost.

The farmer should cull out his flock and either crate feed or put them in a small pen under sanitary conditions for a period of two weeks and give them all the corn, kafir, or other grains they will eat, Mr. Fox says. This is long enough to feed under ordinary cononly some 18,000 children attending ditions,

If a farmer has the time the most profitable way to dispose of his surplus poultry is to milk feed them for fancy trade such as hotels and wealthy customers in a nearby town or city. There is usually great demand for high class poultry for Sunday 'and holiday trade in the city.

Milk feeding is practiced extensively in packing houses. The chickens are crate fed on a ration of corn meal or other mash feed mixed with two parts of buttermilk and poured in the troughs on the side of the crate. They are fed for about three weeks all they will clean up twice or three times a day.

TO PUT the Constitution of the United States in every one of the 20,000,000 homes of America is the purpose of an Americanization campaign now under way all over the country. The work is being organized under the Constitutional League of America, which had its inception in New York several months ago. Its membership contains many of the most widely known men in America. Among these are the governors of 36 states. Such men as Franklin K. Lane, Charles E. Hughes, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, Herbert C. Hoover, Gen. John J. Pershing and Cardinal Gibbons are members. The organization is affiliated with no political party, race or creed and has but one pur-
