RAILROAD NOTES.

J. A. Ottman, general roadmaster of the Wyoming division, was looking after matters at this end of the division, and on the North River branch the middle of the week. Mr. Ottman is not a stranger to North Platte, as he was foreman of the yard section here many years ago.
The ditching machine which has been at work near Gering, where the company is doing some extensive ditching along the right of way, was brought down to the local shops, for repairs, this week.
Ad Elliott, foreman of the car men in the west yards, was out on the west end of the division during the past week.
T. P. Watts, local claim agent, was an Omaha visitor the first of the week.
A pile of track ties in the east end of the yards, where the old stock yards formerly stood, were destroyed by fire Sunday morning, by tramps who had camped there and built a fire to keep warm.
The east section of the new P. F. E. ice houses in the west end of the local yards, is rapidly being enclosed, and work has already commenced on the roof. Owing to the fact that the manufacturers of the ice manufacturing machinery are many months behind on the orders, it is not expected that the company can be ready to see artificial ice this year.
M. Pollock, who is measuring all the hay on the right of way along the branch, was a North Platte visitor the first of the week.
S. J. Cooley, land valuation adjustor for the company, has been transferred from headquarters at Omaha, and now makes his office in North Platte.
Joe Murphy's men put a new floor in the yard office this week.
Considerable coal is being moved east these days.
The American Beet Sugar Co. is beginning to ship out the beets it has piled at the beet dump on the north end of the way on 5th street.

Wide ribbons being out of vogue in Millinery, I am reducing my stock by cutting the price very low. I have some very pretty colors in heavy ribbons that are especially good for hair ribbons. I will make bows free of charge, when ribbon is purchased of me. Villa Whitaker, Block's.
