EDITORIAL.

The Spanish War Veterans are planning on holding their twenty-fifth anniversary in 1923 in Havana, Cuba. Why not celebrate the twenty-third anniversary in 1921, since it is Havana?

Our bankers have cautioned us and we pass it along to our readers, not to take a check or similar paper from a stranger. Clever imitations are being passed by sharpers and the person who cashes such paper is out the amount. The safe rule at this time is to hold on to your money until you know you have received full value in exchange for it. Depend upon it, the stranger will put up a good story and it will be convincing but whether you believe it or not don't give him the money if you ever expect to see it again.

Perhaps North Platte people do not appreciate the business advantages in some lines that are presented by our merchants. As an example we mention a full page advertisement that appeared in the Friday Lincoln State Journal. In this advertisement a leading clothing merchant of Lincoln announced a special sale of Kuppenheimer clothing—any suit in the house at $35 and $50. We then turned to recent files of The Tribune and found the advertisement of Hirschfeld's that any suit of Kuppenheimer clothing in their store would go for $25. It may be that the Lincoln merchant saw the advertisement of our North Platte merchant in The Tribune and is going the limit for Lincoln.

NATURE NOTES.

On the banks of the South Platte last week we found the cocoon of a Cecropia moth and it is now on the desk before us. It is about the size of an egg and brown and was fastened on a small shoot of the sandbar willow about six inches from the ground. If put in the sun the large red and black spotted moth will come out in April. We would like to hear from anyone who finds one or more of these cocoons with a description of the place where found. These cocoons are so tough that no moisture or cold can penetrate and only the Downy woodpecker is known to be able to puncture it.

Our list of birds so far this year is as follows—Jan 4, a single Hairy Woodpecker was seen on the trees in the 400 block on west Fifth street. This bird is black and white and nearly as large as a robin. It is one of the commonest winter birds found here. Jan 8, Longtailed Chickadee. We heard this bird several times during the day in the trees about our home on west Third street. It is the western variety of the black-capped chickadee and is usually seen in the winter but is known to nest here in North Platte. It is one of the smallest birds we have and one of the noisiest. Jan 9, Goldfinch. This is the wild canary with the black topnot which we see in the summertime and which stays here all winter but loses its yellow and becomes something like a sparrow in color. Its chirp however gives it away and it has the same undulating flight at both seasons. Jan 13, Screech Owl. In the late evening we heard one screeching about a block west of the Presbyterian Church. We did not try to see it. This owl is a night prowler and lives here the whole year round.

There is a fine specimen of the Sycamore or Buttonball tree at the corner of Locust and Fourth Street on the corner of the lot owned by the Fidelity Reserve Co. This is the only sycamore tree we remember having seen in the city. It is a native of the river bottoms in the extreme southeastern part of the state but does well under cultivation anywhere. There are no sycamore balls on this tree this year although some years it is loaded.

A Column of Nonsense.

Hon. E. S. Davis,
House of Representatives,
Lincoln, Nebr.

Dear Ed:

The other day when we were going over to McGovern and Stack's to buy some raisins for our wife, a man hitched up to us on the street and whispered if we had a nail about us. We told him we did not have a nail but that we had a toothpick but he whispered that a toothpick would not do. He wanted a nail to take the place of a button which had come off his trousers while he was walking on the street and he was in bad shape without it.

Ed we think you should pass a law against not sewing the buttons on well when they make clothing to sell, especially pants. Buttons are put on clothes to keep them where they belong and unless they stay in place they will come off. It is very embarrassing to find that the very thing in which one has placed his confidence has come off. We mean a button.

Then again Ed, buttons cost money. When one buys some different kinds of clothes she pays for the buttons as well as the hooks and eyes and other things that are on the clothes. It must be an awful annual loss which we free people of America suffer from the buttons which come off and are lost forever. Even when they are found there is no way by which we can return them to their rightful owners even if we wanted to.

Then again Ed, there is a tremendous waste of time in hunting up a button and sewing it on in place of the one that was lost. Of course, it isn't so bad for the women for they can use a pin but a man has to use a nail and as a nail doesn't look very well most men keep the buttons sewed on their clothes especially where they show.

Then again Ed, some men do not have wives to sew on their buttons and since very few men can sew on buttons for themselves it is too horrible to think what they must have to go through to keep themselves properly buttoned. It is mighty important that you pass this law as soon as possible if for no other reason.

Then again Ed, it is so uncomfortable at times. Not long ago we were at a party, where we played games and all at once there in the middle of the room on the carpet was a pretty good sized button. It was white, so it showed up pretty well. Of course everyone saw it but no one dared to pick it up for fear the others would think it belonged to her. We studied every face there to see if we could find one that looked more pained than the others but all equally kept her head turned the other way. It was horrible, Ed.

Now as I did not hear from you about the curfew I hope to hear that you have passed this law for remember Ed, a button in place is a joy forever, but out of place it is horrible.

Yours truly,
A. CONSTITUENT
