HUMILITY.

Have you ever seen the branches of a well laden fruit tree bending under its burden of fruit? Or a full head of grain bowing under the weight of its precious treasure? It is only the empty branches and stalks that stand upright.

So it is with man. He who is richest in service and grace and useful interest in the Kingdom is frequently the most humble. The man whose life is one of fruitful service allows others to praise him and not his own lips. The vain, proud, boastful man too often has nothing of which to boast.

The fool says in his heart "There is no God." The wise man bows in humble recognition of his Creator. The proud man scorns the Church. The humble seeks her ministrations. To which class do you belong?

If you do not attend any church COME TO THE CHURCH OF THE OPEN DOOR next Sunday at either eleven or eight.

The robed choir will sing. There is room for all. A hearty welcome awaits you.
