EDITORIAL.

During the past week the writer has had occasion to meet quite a number of the men who are attending the Reunion of Scottish Rite bodies. He has been impressed with the seriousness of purpose, the high moral standing and the cordiality of these men. Many of them are leaders in their respective communities. They took the necessary time and spent the money needed to enable them to put on the work of the different degrees of Masonry because they believe it will render a service. In doing this they are as deserving as anyone who contributes to the welfare of his fellow men and as such we respect them.

When the Master Builders get down to bed rock they discover that there is a common interest between themselves and labor which runs through the whole community and touches every part of the financial affairs of the city. Neither the employees nor employers can get over the bill without the help of the other. And it is not becoming that either should demand the best place or hold a loose tug. It is team work which will count. And a team never drew the load while the horses were looking each other in the eye. They must be side by side and watching the road ahead. Even with perfect co-operation the struggle back to normal building will be hard enough. The present disposition of all concerned is friendly and North Platte should show an awakening of building activity in the near future under the best of conditions.

In our last issue we showed that dancing has been made a school activity here in North Platte by action of the Board of Education. It is not compulsory nor accredited but permitted. This permission was given partly in response to a feeling on the part of some members of the Board that it was the thing to do and partly at the request of a large number of parents of school pupils. We cannot undertake to give the personal opinions of the members of the Board further than to say that each was favorable to dancing as a pastime or indifferent. We do not think any member was opposed to dancing as a pastime. At the same time the Board heard only from those who were favorable. During the war many who had previously taken a stand against prize fighting, cigarette smoking, etc., were cowed by accusations of being narrow-minded, conservative and old-fashioned. When patriots were expected to use language which formerly had not been allowed before the ladies and when these other previously condemned institutions were made part of our war activities it is not to be supposed that dancing would escape. As a consequence there was little opposition manifest against dancing. It is true that a number of people signed a remonstrance but the effect of this was annulled when certain of those who had signed, privately asked the members of the Board to take their names off the remonstrance. The opposition failed to make a showing and those favorable were on the job. The result was this favorable action of the Board. We believe this action was taken in good faith and in the belief that the Board was serving the community when it made dancing one of the school interests.

The funeral of Joseph F. Fillion was held at ten o'clock Tuesday morning from the Catholic Church, Rev. Meron conducting the Mass. The members of the Chamber of Commerce Band and North Platte Musicians' Union escorted the body from the house to the church as did the Master Builders. No music was played but the muffled tap of the drums marked the measured tread of the men who had been his comrades in the band. The body was dressed in the blue uniform of the North Platte Band and on the coffin was placed the cap. Members of the band acted as pall bearers. The Master Builders and Musicians escorted the cortage to the end of the pavement on North Locust Street. Father Meron gave a very impressive sermon and the crowded church showed the esteem in which everyone who knew him held Mr. Fillion.

Just Listen to That Tone Quality

Isn't it beautiful? Isn't it just as real as though you were sitting in the theater listening to the real thing?

Oh! We wouldn't be without our Cheney. It plays all makes of records—you can see how beautifully.

The CHENEY PHONOGRAPH

Another thing! Notice that you can scarcely detect any needle scratch. It is practically eliminated. What an improvement that is!

And we love the way The Cheney brings out accompaniments to voices—it's so realistic. The Cheney is like a rare old violin—"THE LONGER YOU PLAY IT, THE SWEETER IT GROWS." After all, we think that's the greatest, finest thing that could be said about a phonograph.

Below we illustrate the Georgian Period Model, the same price in Mahogany or Walnut. Cheney Regular Models are moderately priced from $125 to $385.

We Invite You to Our Music Rooms for a Demonstration

POLLY
had a little past;
It really was charming
Yet how could people think her fast—
Her smile was so disarming?

INA CLAIRE

POLLY with a PAST
is the LAST word in charm.

It's her biggest Belasco stage success translated to the screen.

Why Jones Calls No. 648 Instead of His Wife

Bill Jones is a traveling man

He telephones his home almost every day.

In placing his long distance call he says: "I want to talk to No. 648 at Brownsville."

Do you know why he places the call this way instead of saying, "I want to talk to Mrs. Bill Jones at Brownsville?"

Because by indicating that he is willing to talk to anyone at the telephone called, he receives a lower long distance rate than if he had asked for a particular person.

A "Station to Station" call is used when the person placing the call will talk to anyone who may answer at the distant telephone. The rate for a "Station to Station" call is lower than for a "Person to Person" call because it costs less to provide "Station to Station" service.
