EDITORIAL.

The editor with A. F. Stretz, so long secretary of the Board of Education and others who had studied the matter, proposed the establishment of kindergartens in the ward schools a number of years ago. The matter was finally turned down by the Board on account of the expense. It was decided that North Platte would not be satisfied with a make-shift and that a real kindergarten would cost too much at that time. We are certainly pleased that the present Board of Education has found a way to put the kindergarten into the school without expense. The kindergarten idea is wonderful and will be a lasting blessing to the boys and girls who are fortunate enough to go through it.

Some of the members of the trainmen's union have been around to talk over the matter of our editorial in the last issue in which we told of what one brakeman said. Those who have visited us have said that they were not sore at the Mission and in some cases they have even helped the work in a financial way. They claim that the passenger brakemen have the hardest time because they do try to keep the men off the passenger trains but the freight brakemen do not keep them off of any but the refrigerator cars. This is because the "bums" sometimes change the openings which control the air circulation and ventilation and the fruit is spoiled. While we do not understand that the Union Pacific railroad has given directions to its employees to allow anyone to ride on its freight trains, we have been told that it is not the practice of the freight trainmen to bother these travelers if they keep away from the fruit cars.

A special bulletin received here this week announces that the General Manager of the Union Pacific will meet representatives of the various departments of the system in a series of conferences at Omaha, beginning next Monday. The National agreement of the railroads and their employees will not be in force after July and each system will settle the wages of its employees with the men of that system. General Manager Jeffers wants to meet the representatives of each department in conference before any action is taken by the Union Pacific relative to wage adjustments, and to that end he has called conferences on different days when these representatives will go to Omaha and present their side of the question.
