FARM BUREAU FEDERATION IS TAKING VOTE ON IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.

The following editorial from the NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU REVIEW tells of the object which it is hoped to accomplish by the referendum which has been ordered by the National officers:

Every day press dispatches from Washington indicate that the farmer and the agricultural interests in general are given greater attention than ever before in the history of our country. It is not our intention to say that government heads, congressmen, and senators are working overtime to do something for the farmer, but we do mean that they have at last recognized that the farmer is the balance of power. And in this connection the politician has found in recent years that the farmer has forsaken the old idea of "party lines" and has started voting as a free lance. This condition has been brought about largely by efficient farm organization. Nothing scares the professional politician more than the knowledge that in these days, former party majorities are oft times reversed almost overnight by an electorate that now refuses to vote a certain ticket just because he was "brought up in that party."

In the framing of the tariff, foreign financees, revenue laws, internal improvement and a multitude of other measures of general interest, the news from Washington indicates that senators, congressmen and official heads are keeping a weather eye on the desires of the farmers. They have begun to realize that their own political existence depends upon their doing so.

But on the other hand it is manifestly unfair for the farmer to sit back and refuse to make his wishes known. Of course, if the present office holders in that event, should pass legislation favorable to the other fellow the farmer will undoubtedly have the power to throw him out of office, but in doing that neither the man in office nor the farmer has gotten anywhere. They have both fallen down simply because the farmer did not tell his representative what he wanted him to do, and perchance the congressman though doing his best failed to do what the farmer wanted him to do, because he had not been advised on the subject.

However, when a great multitude of farmers ask their representative to do something in their interests and he then refuses to even attempt it, or is grossly inefficient to do so, then it is time to jump onto him with both feet and try somebody else.

That is the very reason that the American Farm Bureau Federation is asking for a referendum vote of its membership upon many important questions. It is the only fair way to treat the men who have the power to do these things down at Washington. We believe that when the 2,500,000 Farm Bureau members throughout the United States unitedly ask for something, they, in a fair measure are going to get what they ask for, particularly because such a referendum will pretty well represent the united desires of all farmers.

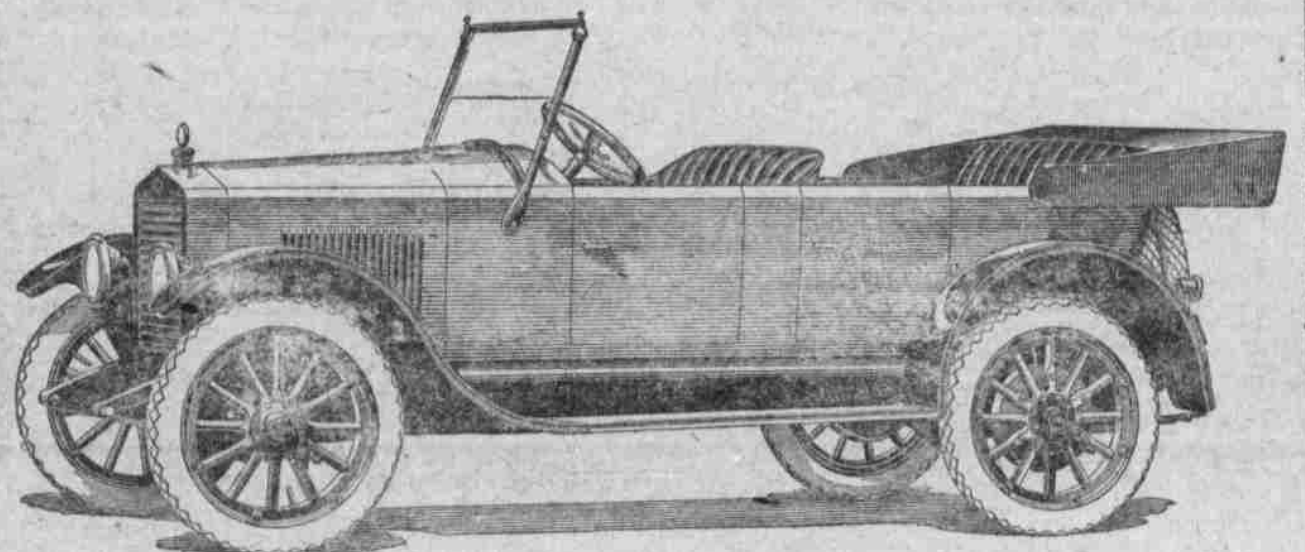

With these ideas in mind it is of vital importance that you express yourselves on the various subjects now before you for either petition or referendum. Tell your county Farm Bureau officials where you stand, and we believe that you will be more than gratified with the results you will get from the resultant efforts of your congressmen and senators. Anyhow, it's a lead pipe cinch that if you tell them what you want and then don't get it, you have then got something to kick about.

Mrs. James Ware entertained at one o'clock luncheon Wednesday noon at the Country Club. Covers were laid for fifty-two guests. Following the well appointed luncheon the remainder of the afternoon was spent in playing bridge. The out of town guests were Mrs. C. W. Stafford, the house guest of her sister, Mrs. Blanche B. Field, Mrs. Robert Gantt of Iowa, a guest at the R. C. Cochran home, Mrs. H. E. Curtis of Illinois, who was the guest of Mrs. Streitz, and Mrs. Neil of Virginia, a guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Keith Neville.

A number of young folks held a picnic at Lamplough's Lake last evening. A very pleasant evening was spent.
